Reds Halt Nazis at Gates of Stalingrad

GUNNERS BLAST GERMAN TANKS AT CLOSE RANGE

Beat Off Attacks North of City.

MOSCOW, Sept. 5 [Saturday]—(AP).—A stiffening Red army has halted the massive German army beating at the approaches to Stalingrad and Russian troops are continuing to "decimate the enemy's man power and equipment" before the Volga city, a Russian communique announced early today.

Soviet anti-tank gunners were reported pumping explosive charges into German tanks at close range on both the southwestern and northwestern roads leading into the imperiled city.

In several sectors to the northwest the Red army even counterattacked after beating off several Nazi lunges, the communique said.

Fleet Aids Caucasus Army.

In the Caucasus the soviet Black sea fleet supported Red army land artillery in a sustained bombardment against German-Rumanian forces which had fought their way to a point northwest of Novorossisk, destroyed six Nazi tanks and 15 guns, and annihilated two enemy battalions, the Russians said. Soviet marines were fighting in this area.

The communique reported that one Red unit fell back to new positions in the sector northwest of Novorossisk after a violent engagement.

But in the Caucasian foothills the communique acknowledged a further German advance in the Mozdok area, 60 miles west of the Russian Grozny oil fields. The Germans effected a river crossing [presumably the Terek] and then were engaged by Red troops. The communique said the Germans were being pushed back.

Besides Grozny, the Germans are aiming at Ordzhonikidze, 50 miles southwest of that place. Ordzhonikidze is the terminus of the Georgian military highway leading across the mountains to Tiflis.

Counterattack in Northwest.

Eleven German tanks were reported destroyed and 600 Germans killed in a single sector southwest of Stalingrad when Russian troops attacked a wedge the Nazis had driven into the Red lines.

To the northwest the Germans lost 13 more tanks out of 40 when they were repulsed three times in one area, the communique said. Soviet troops also were counterattacking in this area, "as a result of which German troops sustained heavy losses."

Red army troops also were still clinging to the axis flank in the Kletskaya area inside the Don river bend and even "improved their positions," the Russians said.

Aircraft from the Egyptian theater and troops from occupied France were among the legions now trying to storm the heart of Stalingrad and the gateway to the Caspian, the army newspaper Red Star said. German planes were attacking the city in constant waves of 150 and more, flying in from different directions. The Moscow radio reported that the German air force had lost 60,000 men in Russia.

Battle in Suburbs—Nazis.

BERLIN, Sept. 4 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German attack on Stalingrad has carried to the suburbs of that city on the Volga while 400 miles to the southwest the Nazi army of the Crimea has stormed across Kerch straits to the Russian-held Black sea coast, the German high command announced today.

The communique said, however, that fighting was continuing on Taman peninsula, at the extreme western end of the Caucasus adjoining the straits where German and Russian troops forced the crossing.

The attack from the west across the straits was linked with an advance on the mainland from the east toward the Black sea naval base of Novorossisk, the high command said.

The high command laid virtual claim to a blockade of the Volga river traffic artery by declaring that "our troops on the Volga have sunk so far three gunboats, two monitors, and six freighters as well as numerous small ships."

Strong soviet counterattacks were reported repulsed near Kaluga and Medyn, southwest of Moscow; near Rzhev, northwest of Moscow, and south of Lakes Ilmen and Ladoga on the Leningrad front.

Ace Cites Records of Warplanes.

(Pictures on pages 4 and 8.)

America is achieving air superiority, a necessity for victory, Capt. E. V. [Eddie] Rickenbacker, World war ace and president of Eastern Air Lines, Inc., said last night. He spoke in the Eighth Street theater before radio technicians being trained at the newly opened army air force technical school.

"Our bombers have made good," he said, relating the successes of B-17 and B-24 bombers on various fronts. "Our P-40 is a tough and rugged fighter, designed to deliver knockout blows. Our P-38, or Lockheed Lightning, will climb as high as the [British] Spitfire and fly faster. Our P-47, or Thunderbolt, will go to 40,000 feet or higher. This plane is now being produced in quantities and is going to the war fronts.

Flyers Capitalize on Training.

"Our combat crews get more hours of training in the air than the crews of any other nation. Already radio men have distinguished themselves.

"Sergt. Patrick Norton of St. Charles, Mo., was graduated from Scott field. Not only is Sergt. Norton a top radio man but he has shot down six Jap planes. What we need to win this war is many more Pat Nortons.

"That we are getting them is indicated by the box score on enemy losses for the seven months preceding Sept. 1. These figures do not include damaged Jap planes that probably failed to return home or more than 200 Jap planes destroyed by the Flying Tigers. The score:

"The army air force destroyed 234 Jap planes. We lost only 109. We destroyed them better than two to one."

Points to U. S. Bomb Sight.

Commenting on America's superiority in aircraft production and design, the aviator noted that Americans developed the turbo supercharger for high flying, the finest bomb sight for high altitude precision bombing, the air cooled engine, and steel armor for plane and crew.

He said Germany's newest fighter plane, the Focke-Wulf 190, with an air cooled engine, in actual tests proved inferior to the American P-38 twin engine, liquid cooled fighter and the new P-47 air cooled fighter.

Brig. Gen. Arnold N. Krogstad, commanding officer, and members of his staff spoke at the first "orientation" program for new students at the school. Classes will be started Tuesday.

Doubts Kaiser Proposal.

Earlier in the day in an interview Capt. Rickenbacker asserted that:

1. The cargo plane proposal of Henry J. Kaiser, shipbuilder, will not solve the shipping problem.

2. The notion that 300 planes operating every night could destroy Germany's war industry in 30 days is impractical.

On the cargo plane controversy the air expert asserted that the aircraft industry is producing such ships. However, he expressed skepticism about the Kaiser proposal.

Favors Licking Sub Menace.

"I am a great admirer of Kaiser," Rickenbacker said. "He has done a fine job building ships and dams. But are we going to throw 15 million tons of shipping on the high seas to the wolves? The only antidote to the submarine menace is subchasers and destroyers."

Discussing reports that the British Spitfire is superior to the American P-40 fighter plane, Capt. Rickenbacker praised the Spitfire as "a good ship," but said the latest P-40, the Warhawk, is better than the Spitfire. Plane for plane, American aircraft is unexcelled, he asserted.

ORDER FEE SLASH AT DODGE PLANT

Teamsters Reduce Initial Cost to $10.

Officials of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters ordered yesterday that the local union with control of trucker jobs at the huge Dodge Chicago Aircraft Engine plant on the southwest side reduce its initiation fees at once from $50 to $10 and make refunds on demand of men who have paid the higher sum.

The international's action followed revelation by THE TRIBUNE on Thursday that more than 2,000 workers at the plant, who paid fees to several unions totaling $100,000, subsequently lost their jobs.

While the Teamster union was cutting its fees two other AFL unions, each of which has far more members working at the plant than the teamsters have, asserted they contemplated no reduction in their high charges.

Carpenters Pay $100.

The carpenters' union leaders said their initiation fee was not $40, as was previously mentioned, but $100, and that any working carpenter had to put up that sum or remain ineligible at Dodge. The only exceptions are men over 60, who can get in for $10, and men between 50 and 60, who pay $75.

Officials of the Hod Carriers and Common Laborers union, which has about 5,000 working members at the plant—and a huge turnover—said their fee of $25 had been set by their international and would not be changed, so far as they knew.

The Hod Carriers-Laborers are under the czarlike control of Joseph V. Moreschi, who has been president for decades. This union has held only one election of officers in 25 years.

Follows Tobin Rule.

Henry Burger, international organizer in Illinois for the big teamster group, passed the order for the teamsters local No. 731 to lower the fee. Only by doing so, he said, would the regulation of Daniel J. Tobin, international president, be complied with. Tobin, now in London on a special mission, had declared publicly

Americans Grin and Bear London's Jokes in Gang Play

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON [By Air Mail].—Americans here are more amused than resentful at a "shocker" play which purports to depict vice and crime in the United States and is drawing packed houses twice every night. The play "No Orchids for Miss Blandish" was dramatized from his own novel by James Hadley Chase, now a British flight lieutenant, who is reported never to have been in America but to have gotten his ideas and cliches from avid attendance at Hollywood's gangster movies shown here.

"The action of the play is supposed to take place in and around Kansas City in 1933, but some Londoners construe the incidents as commonplace all the time in America," an American army officer remarked in the lobby. "It hands me a laugh, but I'm peeved, too, because it's so corny."

Critics Rap Play.

Many London critics have panned the play and there has been agitation against it as of bad taste. The book and Chase's other writings in the same tenor have been withdrawn from sale and the newsprint controler has not issued paper for further printings.

Chase has tossed all the elements of gangster melodrama—murder, kidnaping, rape, and tough talk—into his play. It deals with the abduction of a wealthy girl by a mob of degenerates, her torture, stabbings and poisonings among her captors, and her ultimate release thru the efforts of a movie type of reporter turned detective. The chief degenerate, described in the program notes as "vicious as a black mamba," is played by Robert Newton, who has been seen in America in British made films.

The dialog is filled with what Chase regards as typical gangster talk including remarks like "make the rat squeal," "let's snatch the dame" and "a cooling off joint." Once a character relates: "My shoes were so worn out that I could step on a coin and tell if it was head or tail."

Americans Would Hoot.

An American audience would hoot that down as old vaudeville. It would give short shrift to the burlesque bit of the reporter picking up an article of feminine apparel, holding it up to the light and remarking: "Empty!"

Londoners roar with delight.

There is another guffaw when the reporter waves aside the telephone and shouts: "If that's Roosevelt, tell him I haven't any more gags for his fireside chat."

More than 30 plays and musical comedies now are doing tremendous business in London. Seats must be reserved days, even weeks, in advance. Britons, it is said, are earning more money and have fewer articles on which to spend it because of rationing.

Vivien Leigh, of "Gone with the Wind," is playing in a revival of George Bernard Shaw's "The Doctor's Dilemma" and John Gielgud is giving "Macbeth." Clifford Odets, American playwright, is represented by one of his earlier works, "Awake and Sing." There are several contemporary war plays, all with their quota of stage sirens and bomb noises.

Chicagoans responded with a will again last night at the third presentation of the great army war show in Soldiers' field. The attendance was 78,324, nearly 30,000 higher than at the Thursday night show.

It is expected that even more spectators will attend tonight's performance. The show is being presented for the benefit of the army emergency relief fund.

Simulated battle action, drills, dive bomber maneuvers, and other activities were presented.

HEAR ROOSEVELT EDICT WILL FIX FARM PRICE LIMIT

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—Solemn warnings that the war effort is lagging on the home front with the nation facing serious shortages of vital raw materials were sounded today by high government officials appearing before a meeting of 200 newspaper publishers and editors.

Donald M. Nelson.

The officials, led by Donald M. Nelson, chief of the War Production board, painted a dire picture of the crippling effects of the lack of such basic materials as steel, copper, and aluminum. They appealed to the American newspapers to join in promoting a vast scrap collection campaign as a means of keeping the steel blast furnaces and munitions plants going at full capacity.

"Not Doing Very Good Job."

Nelson, at whose personal invitation the newspaper representatives were called into extraordinary session here, spoke extemporaneously for 40 minutes. He handed the meeting its first jolt when he asserted bluntly:

"We're not doing a very good job of winning this war yet."

As echoes of this statement were ringing in the meeting chamber, R. W. Wolcott, president of the Lukens Steel company, arose to discuss in detail the problem of steel supply. Only a miracle, he stated, can prevent reduced operations of steel mills in the next few months. Wolcott dwelt upon the word "miracle" in delineation of the steel problem.

Shutdown Faces Chicago.

"Unless a miracle happens, two furnaces are going down over the week-end in Chicago," he said. "San Francisco is in bad shape; Pittsburgh and Youngstown are in horrible shape.

"The American people have a sufficient amount of scrap on hand to keep the mills operating at full capacity, but it will take the most superhuman effort in history to get results. We are faced with a big sales job.

"You publishers have got a big selling job. Tomorrow is the day to start; not next week."

[Wilfred Sykes, president of the Inland Steel company, said that Wolcott's statement that two furnaces were about to shut down in the Chicago area because of a lack of scrap apparently referred to his firm, but said Wolcott's interpretation was "not quite correct." Sykes revealed that of the two Inland furnaces shut Monday one will resume operations today and the other as soon as repairs can be completed. All steel officials in the Chicago area emphasized the urgent need for larger supplies of scrap to produce the nation's growing war demands. Story on page 21.]

Two Ways to Collect.

Nelson told the gathering that there are two ways in which the scrap might be collected: [1] by a large aggregation of government agents, or [2] thru organization of a salvage drive so the American people will coöperate voluntarily.

"They didn't do the latter in Germany or Japan," he observed. "Every nickel's worth of scrap was collected in those countries by the government whether the people liked it or not. I am not speaking to you as a dictafor. I am appealing to the conscience of the people.

"Probably no guardians are more jealous of democracy than you men. Anything I can do to help you fight for a free press I certainly will do."

Search Is Urged.

Newspapers, he continued, can be of tremendous value in the campaign by urging their readers to search their barns, attics, basements, and Due Monday; Would Set Aside an Act of Congress.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—President Roosevelt, responsible sources revealed tonight, has prepared for issuance Monday the most drastic order affecting the everyday life of Americans in the nine and a half years since he became President—a decree limiting all wages, salaries, and farm prices in the United States.

At the same time the order, as presently drafted, will create an economic administrator to see that these and other policies to hold down the wartime cost of living are carried out. Wendell Willkie, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, and Bernard M. Baruch were among those mentioned as possibilities for the job.

Voids an Act of Congress.

Aside from its impact on every American, the order is deemed even by the President's advisers who helped him draft it to be almost revolutionary because the farm price section will, in effect, set aside an act of congress—a provision of the price control act which specifically forbids any price ceilings on farm products at less than 110 per cent of parity. Some commodities are above this mark, but some are below it.

The President will assert his wartime powers and duties are sufficient to justify such unprecedented action, to prevent a threatened runaway rise in the cost of living.

Hits $75 and Under Level.

As outlined by government officials who cannot be quoted by name, the President's action involves the following:

1. Wages—Defined as any work paid for by an hourly rate, or other personal compensation less than $75 per week. The President is expected to order that no wage rates be increased above their Jan. 1, 1941, level by more than the rise in the cost of living since then, which is roughly 15 per cent. In the case of persons working by the hour this will not affect increased pay resulting from working more hours per week. It was understood that persons whose wages have increased more than 15 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941, would continue on the basis of such increased wages.

2. Salaries between $75 per week and $7,500 per year—A last minute decision is yet to be made whether these will be frozen at existing levels or permitted to increase with the same cost of living formula applied to wages.

3. Salaries over $7,500—No increases.

Freeze at Present Levels.

4. Farm prices—To be frozen at existing levels for the time being, subject to probable revision later in the case of some products. Certain of the revisions, it was said, would be downward.

These are the general policies scheduled to be enunciated in the order. Many details will be left to the administrator, including probably such questions as pay raises accompanying bona fide promotions.

In some cases, enforcement will be indirect. Income tax laws will be used particularly to back the President's statement of what employers should do about wages.

Make Evasion Expensive.

By refusing employers the usual "business expense" deductions for unauthorized wage increases, which would automatically increase the taxes of the employers, officials believe the government can make it too expensive to evade the wage policy. Most employers, as a matter of normal economy, probably would abide by the order voluntarily.

The order is not expected to take any direct action on other cost-of-living angles, but the President is expected in his message to congress and radio address to the public to emphasize the supplemental need of more taxes, more war bond purchases, payment of debts, avoidance of hoarding, more rationing and similar measures.

Any setting aside by executive fiat of the legislative props for farm prices might be expected to result in protests from the congressional farm bloc and from additional members of congress concerned with the prerogatives of the three branches of government.

It is apparently in an effort to forestall some of this criticism and to answer some of the objections in advance that Mr. Roosevelt is planning a message to congress before his address to the people Monday. The message probably will constitute an explanation of the step—the President has said that it will not be a request for any legislation.

It was recalled that when Mr. Roosevelt sent his message to congress in 1940 advising it of the deal by which 50 destroyers were traded to Great Britain for outlying air and naval bases, he sent along simultaneously the opinion of former Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, now a Supreme court justice, upholding his authority for the act. In that case, too, the President's message constituted a report and an explanation to congress rather than a request for any congressional action.

Attorney General Francis Biddle and other justice department officials are known to have conferred at length with the President and his advisers in connection with the new anti-inflation program.

Recall Biddle's Argument.

In this connection some observers recalled as possibly significant a line of argument Biddle took before the special term of the Supreme court recently in opposing successfully the efforts of Nazi saboteurs to obtain writs of habeas corpus freeing them from the custody of a military commission appointed by the President.

The defense contended that certain phases of the President's order establishing the commission violated a congressional enactment stipulating the manner in which military trials should be conducted. Biddle denied any violation, but argued that even if the act had been violated, the powers which the Constitution vests in the President in time of war give him the right to supersede an act of congress.

If this contention is made by Biddle in connection with the anti-inflation program, the Supreme court's formal opinion in the saboteurs' case, forthcoming at the term starting next month, would be watched with additional interest. It is entirely possible, however, that the court might not treat of this phase of the saboteurs' case, or, if it does, the opinion may be held to have no bearing on the anti-inflation program.

ASK ELIMINATION OF BANS ON BEER FOR SERVICE MEN

A resolution urging that restrictions on the sale of beer to service men be eliminated because it is a legally approved beverage was adopted yesterday by the Marine Corps league in annual convention in Hotel Sherman.

Members of the league, all former or present marines, believe if service men are obliged to go beyond restricted areas to obtain beer they are far more likely to encounter conditions tending to undermine morale, said Chris J. Cunningham, Albany, N. Y., national commandant. Approximately 1,500 delegates are in the convention attendance.

Revision of present veterans' legislation or the passage of new measures making proper hospital facilities available to any service man who has served outside continental United States instead of only to those who have served outside the country in military campaigns was recommended in another resolution adopted yesterday.

The convention will close today with the election of officers and a victory banquet, at which Sen. Wayland Brooks, a member of the league, will be the principal speaker.

City to Tear Down 1,500 Lampposts for Salvage

Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity, announced yesterday the city will tear down 1,507 unused cast iron lampposts for salvage. He said each post weighs about 500 pounds and should bring approximately $3 as salvage. The cost of dismantling the pole is $5. Johnson said the city formerly computed dismantling at $12 but in a recent test project on 100 poles in Roseland dismantling cost was reduced.

NELSON WARNS OF CRITICAL LAG IN WAR EFFORT

Need 'Miracle' to Avert Steel Slowdown.

other storage places and turn in household and farm scrap and other bits of metal that can be salvaged. American production is doing a good job so far, he concluded, it is only a start. The job ahead in keeping our allies supplied as well as ourselves "challenges the imagination," Nelson asserted.

Wolcott, who is chairman of the American industries salvage committee, emphasized that there is plenty of scrap in the nation's homes and while it is of no particular value to the owners it is "gold to the industry." The American steel producing capacity is 90 million tons, the newspaper men were told, but unless something is done to increase the flow of material the industry will fall 5 million tons short of this goal in the next year.

"We Haven't Won Yet."

Another who warned of the seriousness of the shortages was Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell, chief of the army's services of supply branch, who said:

"We haven't won the war yet and we'll be a long time in winning."

The present quest for scrap is a modern adaptation of the ancient necessity in wartime of beating plowshares into swords, he said. He noted that the axis powers, notably Japan, built up huge reservoirs of materials before plunging into the conflict while the problem of the United States is to secure an adequate supply along with the prosecution of the war.

"They are coasting along with what they had," he said of our enemies. "We are just beginning to build up our war production. We are beating our plows into swords. Unless everybody puts everything he can into this war, we are not going to win it. But if we can lick this steel program we will have gone a long way toward winning."

Vice Adm. S. M. Robinson, chief of the Office of Procurement and Material of the navy, said that the "bottom of the barrel" has been reached as far as the supply of steel for shipbuilding is concerned. The presence of Nelson and the supply chiefs of both the army and navy, together with various other leaders in the war effort, was regarded as emphatic proof of the seriousness of the meeting.

First Time Called.

It was the first time that representatives of the nation's newspapers have been called to Washington for a conference with WPB. Presumably Nelson issued the invitations with the approval of President Roosevelt, whose disaffection for some of the members of the industry is well known. This fact and the unsparing frankness of the official spokesman was interpreted by many of the conferees as a reflection of the administration's alarm over the supply problems.

The response of the newspaper men was instantaneous and unanimous in favor of action to aid in the promotion of the campaign to collect scrap thruout the country. Walter M. Dear of Jersey City, N. J., president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, announced that the publishers would accept the challenge. No specific suggestions were asked or given, but a show of hands authorized him to appoint a committee to get the drive in motion.

JAPANESE MUST BE THROWN OFF KISKA: CHANDLER

Hopes High Command Has Been 'Awakened.'

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—A. B. Chandler [D., Ky], chairman of a senate military affairs subcommittee which recently investigated Alaskan and west coast defenses, expressed the hope today that the "high command" has been "awakened to the necessity of holding Alaska at all costs."

Sen. A. B. Chandler.

Chandler submitted a full report yesterday to President Roosevelt and Adm. William D. Leahy, the President's chief of staff, with a recommendation that the Japanese be driven from the Aleutian island of Kiska.

Chandler said he and Senators Mon C. Walgren [D., Wash.] and Rufus C. Holman [R., Ore.] also would report to an executive session of the full military affairs committee on Monday.

"The continued presence of the Japanese in the island of Kiska constitutes a continued menace and threat to the safety of the people of the United States, and they must be removed at the earliest possible moment," Chandler declared.

Air Ferry Route Urged.

Chandler said his committee recommended immediate improvement of the Alaskan military establishments, including airplane ferry routes to Asia.

During its 8,000 mile trip from San Francisco and return, the committee visited military and naval establishments and talked "to the men who take off to bomb Kiska, Attu, and Agattu," Chandler said.

"We know what they need and we are determined to see that those in authority are made cognizant of these needs so that they may be supplied as speedily as possible," he said.

Chandler added that a Japanese offensive would have a greater prospect for success "if we failed to recognize the possibility of their coming up thru the Aleutians to the American mainland."

Honor More U. S. Flyers.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Sept. 4 (AP).—The Alaska defense command today announced additional awards for outstanding performances on duty in action in the Aleutian area.

They included the posthumous award of the flying cross to Capt. Jack F. Todd, Shreveport, La.

The citation said it was for heroism while acting as first pilot and flight leader on a bombardment flight of four planes against the Japanese in the Aleutians. The flight was caught in heavy anti-aircraft fire from unobserved enemy warships, while maneuvering to attack a cruiser. Todd's plane was hit, caught fire and crashed on an island.

First Lieut. Lester Manley Chancellor of Macon, Miss., received the distinguished flying cross for extraordinary achievements and initiative while pilot in his first conflict with an armed enemy in the Aleutian area. With very low ceiling and fog, Chancellor downed an enemy dive bomber.

Second Lieut. James Alexander Dale of Miami, Fla., won the DSC when, acting as pilot in his first conflict with an armed enemy in the Aleutian area, flying in fog and extremely low ceiling, he shot down a dive bomber.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT SCOUTS JAPS ON KISKA —BUT FOG HIDES THEM

AT AN ADVANCED ARMY BASE IN ALASKA, Sept. 4 (AP).—Maj. Kermit Roosevelt, son of President Theodore Roosevelt, a veteran of the first World war and various European fronts in this one, took part in his first action against the Japanese when he rode on a bomber mission over Kiska Island.

Maj. Kermit Roosevelt.

Maj. Roosevelt saw the difficulties of aerial battle over the Aleutian Islands when fog prevented any sight of Kiska. Japanese flyers did not brave the clouds nor the bomber's guns, and offered no opposition to the reconnaisance.

Roosevelt, returning to quarters here, today expressed regret that he had been unable to drop any bombs on the Nipponese. He said: "I never have had the pleasure of having them as enemies before. In the last war, you remember, they were our glorious allies."

CANADIANS ACT TO GET NEWS OF THEIR AIR FORCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 4.—Canada wants adequate news on the exploits of her thousands of airmen fighting in British squadrons and to that end royal Canadian air forces thruout the world will be "Canadianized." Air Minister Charles Power, who has just returned from an inspection tour in the United Kingdom, announced today.

Before the end of the year, Power said, a complete Canadian bomber group which may constitute from 10 to 30 squadrons of bombers will be in operation in Britain.

In respect of the empire air training plan, which has been centered in the dominion and has turned out thousands of airmen, Power said no one after the war would give Canada credit for running a kindergarten and that the nation needed recognition for the part it was playing in the war.

TAVERN ROBBED OF $1,500.

Two men robbed the tavern and restaurant at 4879 26th street of $1,500 yesterday, Hedy Dvorak, daughter of the owner, reported to police.

NAZIS EXECUTE 4 CHURCHMEN FOR HEYDRICH DEATH

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP).—Three months to the day after Reinhard [The Hangman] Heydrich died of wounds inflicted by Czech patriots, the Germans announced tonight the execution of four churchmen, one a bishop, on charges that they had concealed and aided "parachute agents" accused of the assassination.

Already the Gestapo's revenge for the killing of this ruthless German ruler of Bohemia-Moravia has claimed hundreds, perhaps thousands of Czech lives and has resulted in the destruction of two entire villages and the death, arrest or transportation of their inhabitants.

19 Others Shot at Prague.

The churchmen executed today, according to the German radio, were the Orthodox Bishop Gorazd, Elder Jan Sonneveld, Dr. Vladimir Petrek, a chaplain, and Vaclav Cikl, a minister. Their property was confiscated.

Earlier in the day Czech government circles in London heard that 19 persons had been shot today in Prague. Eight of them were, allegedly, leaders in a secret anti-German organization. Three were reported accused of espionage and the other eight of burglary during black-outs.

Claim RAF Brought Slayers.

In connection with the execution of the churchmen, the Prague radio reiterated German charges that the actual slayers were dropped by parachute from an RAF plane. Two of the alleged killers were shot on June 18 after they had been found in a church and later it was reported that five other "chute agents" had been slain at the same time.

Claim Nazis Execute 7,450.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 4.—A total of 7,450 persons have been executed in German occupied countries since the German reign of terror began in August last year, according to a compilation made by the Goeteborg Handelstidningen. The statistics were based on official announcements released by Berlin agencies.

The figures covered the period from Aug. 1, 1941, to July 31, 1942. They also included "German inspired" executions in vassal states, such as Italy and Hungary. In terms of two month periods the executions have risen from 913 in August and September, 1941, to 2,881 for June and July, 1942.

SMEAR EXPERT CARRIES ON—IN NAVY UNIFORM

Agar Violates Regulations by Mixing in Politics.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—Notwithstanding navy regulations forbidding officers on active duty to take part in politics, Lieut. Comm. Herbert Agar, U. S. N. R., who was ordered to active duty Aug. 13, is carrying on as a leader in the New York purge-smear brigade.

Herbert Agar.

Wearing his officer's uniform, Lieut. Comm. Agar made a special trip from Washington to New York to address a meeting of the active members of Freedom House, in the Town Hall club tonight. He wore his uniform when he addressed a meeting of the same organization in the Astor hotel, New York City, Aug. 19, six days after he began his active duty.

Agar is on a leave of absence as president of Freedom House, which is one of the most active of New York's many interlocking purge-smear organizations. These so-called "citizens' action" groups, comprising a motley assortment of Communist fellow travelers and "new order" evangelists of Park avenue, are united in a campaign of defamation against newspapers, members of congress, and individuals who opposed the war policies of the Roosevelt administration before Pearl Harbor.

Indorsed by Davis.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, admitted today that he has given his official indorsement to Freedom House. When asked about certain Freedom House correspondence purporting to connect his office with the activities of the organization, Davis presented a copy of a letter he wrote to Agar on Aug. 24, saying in part:

"The work of Freedom House is an excellent example of what can be done by private organizations of citizens, under wise leadership, to further the war effort. This office, while it does not necessarily indorse your positions on every issue with which you have dealt [some of which lie entirely outside our competence], is in general highly appreciative of your accomplishments. Particularly I would commend, so far as I can judge from what I have heard of it, your new radio series, 'Our Secret Weapon,' in which Rex Stout exposes axis lies and propaganda, and the activities in which you have brought together representatives of the united nations. You have created a clearing house and center for various groups in this country who are participating in the struggle for a free world."

Denies Mixing in Politics.

Davis insisted that his office has taken no part in domestic politics. He pointed out that such activity would violate the Hatch "Clean Politics" act. When asked about the propriety of indorsing an organization engaged in a purge and smear campaign, he replied sarcastically: "You mean quote purge end quote and quote smear end quote."

Davis was asked whether he indorsed the campaign of the purge and smear groups against THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. His attention was directed to a letter written by Agar on Aug. 12, on the letter head of Friends of Democracy, Inc., which stated that: "Some good friends of mine who are connected with this organization have planned a concerted program against THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE [and all obstructionist press]. For this effort they need money." Rex Stout, who is mentioned in Davis' letter to Agar, is president of Friends of Democracy.

Davis said his office could take no position respecting the smear campaign against THE TRIBUNE. But he asserted that private citizens have as much right to organize a campaign against a newspaper as to organize a campaign against the Office of War Information.

Tax Exemption Claimed.

Davis disclaimed knowledge of the New York outfit called Vote for Freedom, an offshoot of Freedom House, which was organized, according to its own statement, "to help the citizens of New York and neighboring states to elect those congressmen, senators, and state officials who believe in a militant fight for freedom thruout the world."

Vote for Freedom was organized by Agar and other members of Freedom House because the latter organization claims tax exemption and thus is barred from participating as such in politics.

On Aug. 17, however, Agar wrote a letter to the membership which clearly expressed the political character of the organization. "In 1918 the majority of the American people wanted to keep faith with the men who had died for freedom in France," he wrote. "But we, the majority, were disorganized, and inexperienced in making ourselves heard, and therefore weak. We were beaten by the organized forces of selfishness and greed. It can happen again unless we hold ourselves together as a coöperative group. . . . The government can not do this job for us. The government was on our side in 1918, yet we lost."

In 1918 Democrats lost control of both the senate and the house.

Leaves to Go "Overseas."

Agar told the membership in his Aug. 17 letter that he was "going on leave of absence from Freedom House, joining the navy with an assignment that will take me overseas."

Two days later he addressed the Astor hotel meeting, at which C. D. Jackson, general manager of Henry Luce's Life magazine, presided and Stout was a speaker. Agar, according to an official investigator of subversive activities, told the Freedom House membership that we are engaged in a "world revolution," and that it will do no good to fight and win this war "unless we are willing to accept a new way of life."

Discussing the origin of the pre-war Fight for Freedom, Inc., out of which grew Freedom House, Lieut. Comm. Agar said: "A strange collection of people became interested. Some of them were even Communists. Why, even Rex Stout here is a Communist in the minds of some people."

New Type Seaplane Joins Fleet

Used for Scouting

Columbus, O., Sept. 4 (AP).—The new Seagull, a scout-observation plane now rolling off the assembly line of the Curtiss-Wright corporation here, has gone into active service with the United States fleet, the corporation announced today.

The ship, called the "eyes of the fleet," can operate either from land on wheel gear or by catapult operation from battleships and cruisers, using floats for landing.

It is faster than the navy's other ship based planes, and with its long cruising range and ability to carry light bombs will aid in the hunt for submarines.

SENATOR TO ASK WAR DEPT. STAND ON DRAFTING BOYS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—Sen. Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the senate military affairs committee, today declared he will ask the war department for a formal recommendation "as to the necessity" of drafting 18 and 19 year old youths into the armed forces.

Reynolds told reporters he will be guided "by the decisions of our military leaders" in his consideration of a proposal, introduced yesterday by Sen. Chan Gurney [R., S. D.], to lower the minimum induction age from 20 to 18, and thus tap a reservoir of upward of 2,000,000 men.

Gurney's proposal, offered as an amendment to the selective service act, was referred to the military committee. Reynolds said he will send it to the war department immediately for "its study and recommendation."

Gurney told the senate that the United States should go into the younger brackets for soldiers with a view of giving them sufficient training and adequate physical upbuilding to equip them to meet the enemy.

JEWISH LEADERS DENOUNCE GIFT DRIVE FOR REDS

New York, Sept. 4 [Special].—A proposed "gift from the Jews of America" of 1,000 tanks and 500 bombers to Russia was denounced today in an editorial in the Jewish Daily Forward, largest Jewish newspaper in the country, as a project of American Communists.

A fund raising drive for the purpose of buying the tanks and bombers, which has been indorsed by 224 left wing AFL and CIO leaders, does not have the support of responsible Jewish leaders or any of the bona fide Jewish unions, the newspaper said.

Aside from the impossibility of any private agency procuring tanks and bombers, the drive is harmful to morale because of its insinuation that the government is not doing all it can to aid Russia, Jewish leaders stated.

The drive has been turned down by the American Jewish congress, the Jewish National Workers alliance, the American Jewish committee, the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation league, and the Jewish labor committee, representing the garment, clothing and cap, and millinery workers' unions.

Willkie Repaying for Aid, Candidate Claims.

Westport, Conn., Sept. 4 [Special].—Thousands of dollars poured into the Wendell Willkie Presidential campaign by Henry Luce, publisher of the Time-Life-Fortune magazine axis, are the real reason for Republican State Chairman J. Kenneth Bradley's support of the congressional candidacy of Luce's wife, Clare Boothe Luce, Miss Vivien Kellems charged today.

Vivien Kellems [top] and Clare Luce.

"Politics in Connecticut need a good house cleaning," said Miss Kellems in a letter to the Republican chairman. Miss Kellems, head of a nationally known cable grip company engaged in war work, is a candidate for the Republican congressional nomination in the 4th district in opposition to Miss Boothe.

Her letter was evoked by Bradley's decision to back Miss Boothe, announced in letters to her and to six rival candidates for the nomination. Addressing Miss Kellems as "Dear Vivien," Bradley said Miss Boothe "is the best candidate for the Republican party," and added, "I am so advising those who wish to consult with me on this matter."

Objects to "Dictation."

Miss Kellems informed Bradley that she objects "strenuously to your dictating Mrs. Luce's nomination in order to enable Wendell Willkie and Sam Pryor [former national committeeman] to repay Henry Luce for the thousands which he poured" into the Willkie campaign.

Miss Kellems said she is in the race to stay in spite of Bradley's support of Miss Boothe and declared it is her purpose to devote herself to the task "of returning the Republican party to its rightful owners, the citizens, and free it forever from the domination of Sam Pryor, Wendell Willkie, et al."

Needs No Smelling Salts.

Altho she addressed Bradley as "Dear Ken," Miss Kellems assured him his activities in trying to "snaggle" delegates from her all over the county for the last month has made it unnecessary for her to resort to smelling salts to bear up "under the overwhelming blow of your decision to try to foist Mrs. Luce upon the Republicans of Fairfield county."

The 4th district Republican nominee will be selected at a convention Sept. 14. This district adjoins New York state and is the home of many wealthy persons with New York business addresses.

Bombers Make War's 1st Raid on Budapest, Germans Claim

BERLIN, Sept. 5 [Saturday]—[from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The Hungarian capital of Budapest had its first air attack of the war during the night and a few bombs fell in and around the city, the Berlin radio announced early today.

The alarm sounded at 11:30 p. m. last night and the all clear was given at 1:20 a. m.

Reports from the city said one heavy blast was heard outside the capital about midnight. These dispatches further said a few bomb hits had been noted in Budapest.

There was no official communique and reports said it was not known whether the attack was carried out by British or Russian planes.

[Budapest is 900 miles from London and about 975 miles from Moscow. It was probable, however, that the planes were Russian, for the Red air force has been ranging far over eastern Germany, Poland, and Finland in recent days. The Russians probably have bases closer to Budapest than their capital.]

Giant Nazi Planes Raid Britain.

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP).—The four motored Heinkel 177, largest bomber the Germans have used over Britain, is being flown in daylight raids on this island now, authoritative sources disclosed today.

Some sources said they believed the successful raids by huge American Flying Fortress bombers over Europe may have caused the Germans to turn to the giant planes, which have four engines geared to two propellers and a wing span of 103 feet, even larger than the British Lancasters.

The Germans have been flying the Heinkels at 20,000 feet for their daylight raids. The magazine Aeroplane said the new Heinkels carry about the same bomb load as Britain's largest bomb carriers, the Stirlings. A daylight raid on Bristol on Aug. 28, it said, was made by Heinkel 177s at 23,000 feet.

Approach at Great Height.

Unlike the United States' Flying Fortresses, the Heinkels are used singly and not in formation. They gain great height over France, then cross the English channel above 20,000 feet, making interception difficult.

These daylight high level attacks are mixed with sea level dashes by Focke-Wulf 190s against coastal towns, each F-W carrying one bomb.

Early tonight eight German planes attacked two English southwest coast towns. Some damage was reported, while one raider was shot down. Earlier Nazi raiders had struck at the southeast coast.

See Alarm in Germany.

British aerial activity last night was on a lighter scale than the recent heavy attacks, only a small force of bombers attacking the northwest coast of Germany. Two British planes were lost.

Germany has announced Adolf Hitler's appointment of Gen. Friedrich Hirschhauer as the new chief of anti-aircraft defenses for the whole country and British sources said the step betrayed Nazi alarm over the growing destructiveness of allied air attacks.

British sources said the appointment obviously was aimed at improving air raid precautions which have been taxed heavily, particularly by the "saturation" raids against industrial and rail centers of the Ruhr and northwest Germany.

Guns Duel Across Dover Strait.

FOLKESTONE, England, Sept. 4 (AP).—German and British long range guns exchanged fire across the Dover strait tonight.

Hungary Raided

Report Small Sunda Isles Occupied by Japs on Timor

BERLIN, Sept. 4 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The Berlin radio quoted a Tokio dispatch tonight as saying that Japanese troops sent from Timor had occupied several small Sunda islands.

[The lesser Sunda islands which lie between Timor and the main Dutch East Indies islands include Bali, Lombok, Sumbawa, and Sumba.]

BOMBERS BLAST AT JAP CRUISER OFF NEW GUINEA

Shoot Down Zero Plane in Raid on Lae.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 5 [Saturday] —(AP).—Allied bombers have attacked a Japanese cruiser off the southeast coast of New Guinea, but results of the raid were not known, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

An allied command headquarters communique said that an allied reconnaissance unit shot down a Japanese Zero fighter plane in a fight at Lae, New Guinea. The Zero was attempting to intercept the allied unit, the report said.

There was no change in the Milne bay sector, where the allies administered a severe defeat to the Japanese.

Marines Hail Navy Flyers.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—Praising the performance of navy flyers in the Solomon Islands offensive, Maj. Gen. A. A. Vandegrift of the marines said today, "Their reaction on call was instantaneous and accurate—their preliminary bombardment wonderful."

In a personal letter to Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, commandant of the marine corps, Vandegrift spoke particularly of the support provided by carrier based fighters and dive bombers for the landing operations by marine amphibious troops under his command, which captured the Japanese base at Tulagi.

Announcing receipt of Vandegrift's letter, the navy said, "It is the unanimous opinion of high ranking officers who are directing our war operations that close air support is desirable in most forms of modern warfare—mandatory in amphibious operations of this character."

Praise Air Coöperation.

"In a war in which all too frequently air support is either ineffective or lacking," the navy said, "this example of the close coöperation between ground troops and aircraft is noteworthy. For some time, the navy, in intimate association with marine and army amphibious troops, has endeavored to obtain this close coördination of effort. The results speak for themselves."

The navy said marine corps fighters based on Guadalcanal and long range army bombers had coöperated with the navy air arm and the ground troops in the Solomons action.

Aid to Aussies Increases.

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 4 (AP).—The flow of Australia's essential war requirements from the United States is gradually increasing, Prime Minister John Curtin said in a statement today.

Planes, tanks, guns, and equipment for the fighting forces make up more than half the lend-lease supplies received here to date, the prime minister added.

Among the remaining 50 per cent he listed machine tools for increasing Australia's own war production, tinplate, raw cotton, rolling stock, trucks, lubricating oils, and petroleum products.

Lists Australian Aid.

In reciprocation for the lend-lease aid she is receiving, Curtin said, Australia is providing American forces here with various supplies and services. He listed some of these services as follows:

NAVAL—United States warships and auxiliary vessels are being repaired in Australian dockyards and are being provided with foodstuffs, oil, and other items from local sources. No charge for any port facilities is made by Australian authorities.

ARMY—Every American soldier is being supplied with a full ration scale and special camps and stores have been arranged for their accommodation. Extensive buildings have been provided for supply depots and one of the biggest modern civil hospitals has been turned over for the exclusive use of American troops, notwithstanding an acute shortage of such institutions. Field artillery, gasoline, oils, medical, and dental supplies also are being provided.

AIR FORCE—All existing airfields have been made available to the United States army air force and large additional facilities are being constructed for their use.

In addition, Curtin said, Australian manufacturers have diverted their plants to United States requirements for production of ammunition, spare parts for planes, and other necessities.

PUBLISHER CITES GROWTH OF 'AP' IN DISCUSSING SUIT

Portland, Me., Sept. 4 (AP).—Asserting that the Associated Press "is not a 'closed corporation,'" Frank S. Hoy, business manager of the Lewiston Sun-Journal, said today this was shown "by the fact that in the last 40 years the number of members of the Associated Press has increased from 648 to 1,437."

Hoy spoke before the Portland Rotary club, discussing the functions of the Associated Press as a nonprofit coöperative organization, and the federal government's recent civil action against it, which charged "the service has been denied newspaper applicants in violation of the antitrust laws of the United States."

Hoy recalled that the Associated Press was founded on the premise that news "should be truthful, unbiased, balanced, and strictly objective."

Army Uses Two Illinois Parks for Training Men

Two northern Illinois state parks are to be utilized by the armed services for training purposes, Gov. Green announced yesterday in Springfield. Chain o' Lakes park will be used by anti-aircraft units from Camp Grant, Rockford, with about 500 men practicing there daily. Five hundred coast guardsmen will be housed in a CCC camp in Pere Marquette state park, on the Illinois river near Alton.

Pilot Safe After 20 Days in Jungle—Six Without Food

AT AN ALLIED BASE IN AUSTRALIA, Sept. 4 (AP).—Lieut. Duncan Seffern of Manawa, Wis., pilot of a Marauder bomber which ran out of gasoline on a flight from Townsville, Australia, to Port Moresby, New Guinea, has reached this base after tramping thru New Guinea jungles for 20 days.

His arrival left only two men missing of the five who were with him, one his navigator and the other Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent who went to Australia from Los Angeles.

Seffern said today that Haugland was last seen as he listened to instructions on the use of his parachute and then jumped into space 13,000 feet above New Guinea.

That was Aug. 7. The first crewman to reach Port Moresby struggled in on Aug. 17 and relief parties sent out then found two others.

Fly Thru "Heavy Soup."

Seffern was flying his bomber with several other planes when "heavy soup" was encountered, he related. The flight leader took the planes over the soup and thru a hole and reached the base before darkness.

"The leader had gas; I didn't but tried to follow as far as possible," Seffern said. "By this time the soup was thick and rough so I circled the jungles and gave orders to bail out.

"My radioman went out first, then the turret gunner, the tail gunner, and then Haugland. The navigator told Haugland what to do and then bailed out right after him. This was the first time out for all of us."

Bales Out in Dark.

He circled after the five others had jumped and then put the plane on its automatic pilot. He couldn't get thru between the pilot's and copilot's seats while still wearing his parachute—so he took it off, walked to the back of the plane and donned his 'chute again.

"I fastened the 'chute feverishly, fearing that the plane would cut out or the automatic pilot go on the blink," he said. "When I bailed out it was almost dark."

Seffern hit some trees but landed safely. He rolled up in his parachute and spent the night before starting the long journey south. He traveled for six days without food and with only a little water before he met natives who took him in the direction of Buna. There he had his first meal. The head native policeman provided canned beans and salmon.

LATVIAN VESSEL SUNK BY SUB IN U. S. AREA; 24 DIE

New York, Sept. 4.—The navy today announced the torpedo sinking of a 455 Latvian vessel in the Caribbean area in mid-August. Twenty-four crew members lost their lives and 14 were rescued.

Reports from Lisbon disclosed that another ship's captain had been imprisoned aboard the raider which destroyed his vessel about 1,000 miles east of Baltimore. The captain and first engineer of the 4,573 ton Greek freighter Leonidas M. both were taken aboard the enemy U-boat, dispatches from Lisbon said, after the attack on their ship in mid-July. Crew members of the neutral Portuguese vessel San Miguel, halted by the submarine "outside" of Baltimore, were directed by the raider's commander to the scene of the encounter, where 29 survivors from the Greek merchantman later were sighted and picked up.

The attack brought to 455 the number of vessels lost in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor, according to an unofficial tabulation by the Associated Press. The sinkings have cost the lives of 3,120 persons, 1,767 are missing, and 13,984 have been rescued.

Sub Shells Sink Schooner.

BRIDGEWATER, Nova Scotia, Sept. 4 (AP).—Seamen rescued after 5½ days in two dories today reported that their three masted schooner, bound north from the West Indies, had been sunk by the shellfire of a German U-boat.

All of the crew were saved, abandoning ship by order of the Nazi commander before the submarine crew opened fire with a deck gun. They were picked up by a Britain bound vessel and then transferred to a British warship.

Chungking Branch Office of OWI Destroyed by Fire

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 5 [Saturday] (AP).—The branch of the United States Office of War Information was destroyed late last night by fire, but quick work by C. Cracken Fisher of Bartlesville, Okla., chief of the bureau, and his staff saved most of its equipment and documents.

SUBMARINE ATTACKS ALLIED VESSEL NEAR AUSTRALIA; 4 KILLED

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 4 (AP).—Four members of the crew of an allied ship were killed and six injured when a torpedo was fired into it by a submarine off southeast Australia, it was disclosed today after the ship reached port.

A second torpedo missed. Shells were then fired over the bow and the submarine commander, speaking perfect English, ordered the crew to abandon ship.

The crew was afloat in two lifeboats for an hour before volunteers remanned the ship, sent out an SOS, and received aid from tugs.

U-BOAT WRECKED, SKIPPER SEIZED, SAYS BROADCAST

Boston, Mass., Sept. 4 (AP).—A German submarine commander whose craft was driven onto a reef after being damaged by an American depth bomb is a prisoner of war in the United States, according to a short wave broadcast picked up by the Boston Globe from the German radio station Gustav Siegfried I.

The Globe asserted that the broadcaster apparently is the same German army officer who frequently broadcasts over the station and who, altho anti-Hitler, is recognized as being ultranationalistic, patriotic, anti-British, and anti-Semitic.

The broadcast, the Globe says, identified the commander as Lieut. George Stab, one of four who escaped from the submarine to survive in an "oil covered sea."

The information concerning the wrecking of the craft was sent in a letter by Stab to Adm. Karl Doenitz, head of the German U-boat fleet, according to the broadcaster, but Hitler censors attempted to change its contents because it referred to a mistake made by a young lieutenant which contributed to the disaster.

A rubber raft dropped from an American plane, the letter added, saved the lives of the commander and three others.

BRITISH FORCES PUSH AXIS BACK AGAIN IN EGYPT

Keep Up Pressure; Flyers Rip Convoy Twice.

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 4 (AP).—The British 8th army kept up its pressure on the axis forces on the southern sector of the desert front stretching from El Alamein to the Qattara depression and by nightfall was reported to have thrust the enemy farther back to the west.

Royal air force and Australian bombers and torpedo planes attacked an enemy convoy in the central Mediterranean last night, it was announced, and sank a merchantman, damaged and probably sank a destroyer, and set a third ship afire.

The same convoy previously had been attacked by United States army bombers who claimed near misses on the destroyer and hits on one merchantman.

Planes Batter Enemy.

Heavy allied bombers attacked Tobruk, Libya, last night, dropping high explosives among naval and fuel installations.

In the battle area, a large force of medium bombers and naval aircraft attacked enemy tanks and motor transport, damaging many vehicles and starting numerous fires.

American tank crews, participating in the desert fighting, destroyed a number of axis tanks in the first two days of action, United States headquarters in the middle east announced. One crew accounted for six German machines, with another two probably destroyed.

Reconnaissance yesterday in the Candia bay area of Crete disclosed that the raid by United States army bombers on Wednesday night destroyed one destroyer, set two others afire, and put a fourth out of control.

Land Fighting "Considerable."

British sources described today's land fighting as being "on a considerable scale" with infantry in action for the first time since German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel launched his drive six days ago.

[In London the British were careful not to place too much emphasis on Rommel's withdrawal, for it was conceded he was possibly jockeying for a better position.]

Military observers were agreed that, altho aerial offensives have checked Rommel's push, no real battle has been joined in the latest operations.

There was no official comment on the extent or strategy of the withdrawal of Rommel's columns along the same route over which the newest attack was pushed.

Axis Made Little Progress.

The sum of the operations showed, however, that neither the axis armored forces nor infantry had made any appreciable progress.

American and imperial airmen yesterday made a record number of bombing sorties over enemy territory, but did not lose a plane.

Thanks and praise for American flyers in the battle of Egypt from Air Vice Marshal Arthur Coningham, commander of British air forces in the western desert, were announced by headquarters of the United States forces in the middle east. Coningham's message said:

"We are most grateful and full of admiration for the grand effort your pilots are making during this period of hard work and hard fighting. Well done."

[Italy yesterday reported its forces captured many New Zealand soldiers and won clashes between armored units in Egypt. An air raid on the refinery district of Haifa, Palestine, also was reported. Germany told of widespread air attacks on the allied forces and said 25 allied planes were shot down.]

REP. HARRINGTON OF IOWA RESIGNS; ARMY FLYER NOW

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 4 (AP).—Rep. Vincent F. Harrington [D., Ia.] announced here today that he had submitted his resignation to Gov. George A. Wilson of Iowa and to Speaker Sam Rayburn. Harrington, whose home is at Sioux City, took a leave of absence several months ago to become a major in the air corps. He is stationed at Stout field, Indianapolis.

Maj. Harrington said he was fulfilling a promise to his constituents to serve in the armed forces if he voted for war. He was in the June primaries. Selection of another candidate will be up to the district convention.

BULK OF ITALY'S MERCHANT FLEET GONE, SAY BRITISH

List Half of Navy Power as Sunk, Also.

BY LARRY ALLEN.

WITH THE BRITISH FLEET IN THE EASTERN MEDITERRANEAN, Sept. 4 [Wide World].—More than two-thirds of Italy's merchant fleet has been sunk or damaged and about 50 per cent of Italy's naval striking power lies at the bottom of the Mediterranean after 26 months of war with Britain.

That claim is based on figures obtained from a check of confirmed sinkings and damage inflicted upon axis supply ships and warcraft by British forces.

Navy sources doubt whether Italy has been able to replace many of her losses because of shortages of steel armor and other materials. It is known that Italy had to hold up work on two new battleships for some time because of a lack of armor plate.

Points to Strain.

[A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, pointed out the evident strain on Italy's navy in London when he said last Thurday: "Never once has the Italian battle fleet dared to proceed west of Sardinia, or since the battle of Matapan in March, 1941, to the east of that cape in Greece."]

The British assert that Italy definitely has lost 1,479,000 tons of merchant ships since entering the war in June, 1940. This figure includes 548,000 tons sunk since the first of this year. Tonnage sunk or damaged is listed as 2,366,000—and Italy's merchant marine at the start of the war was a little more than 3,000,000 tons.

Nine Cruisers on List.

Of Italy's fighting ships, four 8 inch gun cruisers of an original seven, and five 6 inch gun cruisers of a possible dozen are listed as sunk by the British.

Italy's heaviest losses were in destroyers. Britain lists 50 ships in that category as sunk, altho this includes some torpedo boats and other small warcraft. Italy had about 80 destroyers in 1940.

The number of axis submarines destroyed cannot be disclosed but the London admiralty estimates that Italy has in service little more than half the 104 submersibles with which she went to war.

One of Il Duce's original six battleships was destroyed in the Taranto attack in November, 1940, but two new vessels, the Roma and the Impero, give Italy a possible seven. Several of these may be laid up for repairs, however, as a result of air attacks during the Malta convoy operations.

The royal navy did not estimate its own losses, which include the aircraft carriers Illustrious and Formidable. Some battleships have been damaged but nearly all are back in service. The heaviest losses were during the Crete evacuation when four cruisers and eight destroyers went down under a hail of bombs.

Malta convoy operations have proved one of the fleet's most costly tasks, since it has had to brave a constant air attack to get supplies thru.

U. S. WILL SEND MORE SOLDIERS INTO CONGO, SAYS BELGIAN PREMIER

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP).—United States forces which have arrived at Leopoldville, Belgian Congo, are "the first detachments from America," Hubert Pierlot, premier of the Belgian government in exile, said today.

Pierlot said several American missions were in the capital of the African colony preparing for the coming of troops. He declined details regarding the number of American troops at Leopoldville or their objectives.

The Congo's rubber production for the allies, he said, "will notably exceed first estimates for this year and the next."

WILLKIE'S DAY: SEES EGYPTIAN KING, BUYS SUIT

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 4 (AP).—King Farouk received Wendell L. Willkie today, the American visitor making his call in a dark business suit because he came here without the formal clothes which palace protocol usually demands. The monarch paid Willkie special honor by receiving him on Friday—the Moslem holy day—when royal audiences are rare.

During a stroll thru Cairo's main streets Willkie strode into a department store and asked a clerk to outfit him with a tropical suit to replace his heavier blue one.

"I knew him at once," the clerk said, adding that Willkie took one of the biggest sizes in stock.

The leading Egyptian newspaper Alahram said today the Egyptian government would discuss lend-lease aid to this country with Willkie. The newspaper said Willkie carried to the palace today a letter from President Roosevelt, and it speculated that it might deal with lend-lease supplies.

THESE MARINES ALIVE AND WELL, THEIR NOTE SAYS

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 4 (AP).—Some of the United States marines who stormed the Jap strongholds in the Solomons ran out of writing paper, so they wrote the Associated Press with a request that their folks be told they are alive and well.

"There being a shortage of stationery," wrote P. F. C. William Frazier of 15 Sunset road, Watertown, Mass., "we of the marine corps unit No. 570 [that's their army postoffice number] wish that you would notify our folks at home that we are in good health and fighting condition.

"We were on Tulagi Island and now are on Guadalcanal of the Solomon Islands."

U. S. SKY DRAGONS RIP JAPS ON WIDE FRONT IN CHINA

Blast Headquarters, Ships and Enemy Raiders.

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 5 [Saturday]—(AP).—American "Sky Dragons," packing light bombs as well as machine guns on their fighting planes, carried out a devastating sweep all the way from Nanchang to Hankow on Wednesday, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced.

They destroyed a Japanese military headquarters and damaged warehouses at Nanchang, in Kiangsi province; smashed a fleet of 25 junks and sailboats loaded with troops on Poyang lake to the north, wrecked a troop train, and sank at least seven small steamers and a motorboat at Hankow, 175 miles north of Nanchang, in five forays, the American headquarters said.

Then when the Japanese came back the next day to retaliate on American bases in Hunan province, Chinese Central News agency reported, the Americans met them in three fierce air fights, mastering them by the score of 6 to 0 in shot-down planes.

Yanks Lose One Plane.

[The Tokio radio broadcast a Domei news agency dispatch reporting that seven allied fighters were set afire Thursday by Japanese planes at Lingling, southern Hunan province, and that "in a search for enemy warplane formations" other raids were made on airdromes at Kweilin and Hengyang, the latter a United States air base in Hunan province.]

Meanwhile, a Chinese high command communique admitting that the Japanese had recaptured Lanchi, 10 miles north of besieged Kinhwa in Chekiang province, was considered significant in that it perhaps indicated the Japanese had reached the limit of their intended withdrawal from that seaboard province.

Chinese at Edge of Kinhwa.

The Japanese were reported throwing their anti-aircraft artillery into the battle for Kinhwa, provisional capital, pouring point-blank fire into the attacking Chinese, who reached the suburbs on the south.

It was believed here that the Japanese recapture of Lanchi meant the Japanese also intended to retain Kinhwa after a dual east-west retreat of 225 miles from the central section of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway.

Lanchi is the terminus of a small spur railway from Kinhwa, capture of which would be necessary if the Japanese intended to hold Kinhwa. The latter place is about 80 miles south of Hangchow, starting point of the Japanese offensive last May.

Chinese Gain in South.

The Chinese announced the capture of Lanchi on Aug. 30, but failed to state when the Japanese regained it.

On the southern front, in Kwangtung province, the Chinese were reported still pressing forward, having reached the vicinity of Sunki, only about 15 miles north of Canton, after having recaptured several points about 25 miles northwest of the metropolis.

On the Min river estuary at Foochow, in Fukien province, the Japanese also were reported withdrawing.

URGES U. S. AND BRITAIN RULE IN NORTH IRELAND

M. P. Asks End of Ulster 'Civil War.'

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Aneurin Bevan, Laborite member of parliament, today revived a proposal that Northern Ireland's parliament be set aside temporarily in favor of a mixed British and American commission to halt what he said was a state of "suspended civil war."

Such a commission, Bevan said in his newspaper, the Weekly Tribune, would be responsible to the British parliament and to the American congress. The six northern counties, however, would retain their local powers.

The proposal came as dispatches from Belfast told of the wounding of three persons in a series of gun fights between police and the outlawed Irish Republican army in the last 24 hours and the bombing of a police barracks at Randalstown.

Says U. S. Envoy Favors Plan.

Bevan, who has just returned from a tour of Ireland, said that both the American and British ministers at Dublin favored this proposal.

The Weekly Tribune said that the mixed commission government for Northern Ireland "would conform to the underlying realities of the situation" and that Britain would be "free of the embarrassment of the northern parliament, which has only doubtful support from the majority of the population."

"The coöperation of the United States in the arrangement would be a sufficient guarantee of its temporary character and should help assuage the feelings of the ardent nationalists of the south [Ireland]," it added.

The need for a change in the Ulster administration, the paper said, has been brought about by the insecurity of the present situation, which it described as a "suspended civil war, now and again breaking out into open hostilities and threatened armed conflict."

IRA and Police Battle.

The Weekly Tribune said that disposition of the civil population was vital to both Britain and America, owing to the large concentration of troops and airmen "in the valuable harbors, ports, and air fields, and the many important industries contributing to the war effort of the united nations."

The latest violence in Northern Ireland flared just before dusk when police and IRA adherents exchanged shots in Lesson street, Belfast. One man was wounded in the fight. Earlier, an 8 year old girl and a man were shot in the Falls road area when six IRA men and three policemen engaged in a gun fight. One IRA man was captured. A police barracks at Bellech, County Fermanagh, on the border of Ulster and Ireland, also was fired on but the attackers escaped when police returned their fire.

RETURN OF BRITISH CHILDREN FROM U. S., DOMINIONS DENIED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The overseas reception board today denied reports that British children evacuated to the United States or British dominions are being brought back to this country.

"The children whose return from Canada or South Africa has been encouraged officially are those scheduled for registration for military or national service, unless they already have enrolled for such work in the dominions," it was stated. "Of some 11,400 children evacuated to the United States and Canada, only 25 are reported to have returned to the United Kingdom during July and August."

The statement explained that shipping accommodations are limited and are expected to be more restricted in the next few months.

IDAHO PUBLISHER TO FIGHT PAPER'S BAN FROM MAILS

Middleton, Idaho, Sept. 4 (AP).—A. Cornell, co-publisher of the Boise Valley Herald, banned from the mails pending a hearing on a charge of publishing seditious matter, said tonight he and his son, I. W. Cornell, the other publisher, would contest the action on the ground that their publication is protected by the guarantees of freedom of the press contained in the Bill of Rights.

Cornell said he had received no official notification of the federal action, and said the postmaster at nearby Caldwell yesterday accepted 500 copies of the Herald for mailing on its regular publication date. He said plans for publishing next Thursday's edition were going ahead.

Charges against the paper said its utterances "exceeded the permissible free speech" by engaging in a sustained attack upon American participation in the war.

22,000,000 SERVE ENGLAND BUT JOB CZAR SEEKS MORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Of 33 million persons from 14 to 65 years old in England, more than 22 million are in the service of the country, said G. H. Ince, director general of manpower for the labor ministry, at a Women's Engineering society dinner tonight. Since June, 1939, more than 1,750,000 women have been added to those employed in munitions and other essential industries, he declared.

Despite this, there is a shortage of workers and to relieve it a more drastic combing out of those within the age requirement for the auxiliary fighting services will be necessary, it was revealed. Registration of men up to 50 years of age and women up to 45 may have to be expanded.

FALL OFF PORCH IS FATAL.

Mrs. Jean McKendry, 72 years old, widow of an attorney, died yesterday in County hospital of injuries suffered Aug. 16, when she fell from the rear porch of her home at 1915 Lincoln Park West.

BRITON PLEADS WITH INDIA: HAVE FAITH IN PLEDGES

Promises Student Group 'Freedom on the Way.'

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—A young officer of Britain's Cameron Highland regiment, recently in from the African battlefield, took the floor today at the International Student Assembly that had been applauding "Freedom for India Now" and pleaded:

"India, you must not distrust us. You may have had reason to, but put those doubts away. As soon as a formula is found, India's freedom will be given."

Accredited Delegate.

The speaker was Capt. James Cochran, 23 years old, D. S. O., wearer of the military cross, a graduate of Oxford university, and a member of the delegation of four, officially accredited by the British government, to the assembly in which students of 56 nations are participating.

Earlier there had been a talk by S. Chandrasekhar, chairman of the Indian delegation, a graduate student at Columbia university and a member of the Indian National Congress, whose president, Nehru, with Gandhi, Indian leader, is now a British civil prisoner.

Prefers Britain to Germany.

Chandrasekhar proclaimed himself pro-British, and said he knew that under British domination India had a greater chance of freedom than under Germany. "But India's mass of 390 million citizens do not know it," he said. "In both instances it is just a case of white masters."

Would India fight the Japanese? He answered by quoting Nehru as saying: "Yes, I would fight Japan, sword in hand, but I want to do so as a free man."

Chandrasekhar urged that President Roosevelt, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek of China, and Josef Stalin of Russia get together in a promise to India of freedom so India might have faith in the prospect.

CAPTURED ARTILLERY PIECES TURNED OVER TO SCRAP CAMPAIGN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—German artillery pieces, captured in the World war, will be turned against their one-time owners—after going thru a melting down process.

The guns were in a collection of war relics turned over today to the army by the Smithsonian Institution. The presentation of the collection, which army experts estimate will add about 75 tons of material to the scrap steel collection, was made by Dr. C. G. Abbot, secretary of the institution.

With the German guns were several French and Russian pieces and one Philippine gun captured by American troops from insurgents on Luzon Island in 1900.

DAMAGED PLANE SAVES STRICKEN SAILOR AT SEA

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—A rescue mission to bring a sailor ashore for an emergency appendicitis operation was completed by a crew of a coast guard flying boat despite a rough sea landing and a takeoff with damaged wings, the navy reported today.

When a destroyer offshore reported that Henry Castallano of Palisade, N. J., was suffering from acute appendicitis, Lieut. Comm. R. L. Burke, commanding the coast guard air station at Elizabeth City, N. C., assembled a crew and flew to the destroyer.

Waves were running eight feet high but Castallano was transferred to the plane. Altho both wings of the plane had been damaged, Burke got it ashore. Castallano was taken to a hospital where a successful operation was performed.

Other members of the plane's crew were Ensign H. W. Logan, of Elizabeth City; Phil Pfeil Jr., Groton, Conn., pharmacist's mate first class; John Vukic, Elizabeth City, radio man first class; C. J. Alt, 2628 North Troy street, Chicago, aviation machinist's mate, and A. J. Cosky, Elizabeth City, aviation chief machinist's mate.

OLD 32D MEETS; NEW 32'S MEN SEND GREETINGS

On the eve of their 14th annual convention, veterans of the 32d division of the first World war received greetings last night from their successors in the current 32d division "somewhere overseas." The greetings came from Maj. Gen. E. F. Harding who said, "The old spirit [of the 32d] carries on in the 1942 model, and we hope to add to the record you veterans established."

The three day convention opens formally today in the Morrison hotel. More than 2,000 veterans are expected, mainly from Wisconsin and Michigan where the division was originally recruited. Large delegations will come from Detroit and Milwaukee. The outfit, known as the Red Arrow division, saw considerable combat action in 1918. Its casualty record lists 2,915 battle deaths and 10,477 wounded.

Memorial services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Congress street plaza. At 7:30 p. m. a banquet will be held. Among the speakers will be Col. Charles Roth, acting commander of the 6th service command; Brig. Gen. Joseph Barzynski, quartermaster general of the Chicago depot; Brig. Gen. Paul Clemens of Omaha, and Col. Gustave Krech of Detroit, all 1918 veterans of the division and all in active service again. Maj. Ralph Drum, Green Bay, Wis., is national president of the division.

PAPER TELLS HOW NAZIS HAVE USED DUTCH RESOURCES

LONDON, Sept. 4 [Netherlands Indies News agency].—The extent of German exploitation of Holland's resources was indicated by a report in Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering's newspaper, the Essener National Zeitung, which said that during the first two years of the occupation Netherlands industries furnished 30,000,000 reichsmarks [nominally about $12,000,000] worth of products to Germany, exclusive of raw materials and farm produce.

The paper said 30 per cent of the manufactures related to shipping, 20 per cent to electrical supplies, 15 per cent heavy machinery, 10 per cent to aircraft, and the remaining 25 per cent to building supplies, textiles, wood pulp, and chemicals.

The German paper expressed "gratitude" to Holland and declared that "in return for the aid Netherlands industry has given the German war effort, Holland benefits from the experience of German patents."

HEAR THAT SPAIN HALTS STEAMER ON WAY TO CUBA

See Link with Shifts in Franco Regime.

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 3 (AP).—The newspaper Pueblo today said the Spanish steamer Magallanes had been ordered back to port at Vigo, Spain, after sailing for Havana and New York—a report which caused grave speculation in connection with Spanish cabinet changes. However, agents of the ship said they knew nothing of its recall.

[Dispatches from Vigo said the ship was still in port, awaiting orders from Madrid. One dispatch said the liner had returned to port once after sailing Aug. 25. This suggested the vessel's previous return may have given rise to confusion in Havana.]

Pueblo, printing the Magallanes report under large headlines, said "the Spanish situation is very grave."

Trouble at Sea Hinted.

Some Cubans believed the Madrid government feared the ousting of Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner, a pro-Nazi, by his brother-in-law, Generalissimo Francisco Franco, might lead to trouble at sea with Germany or the allies.

Other Cuban observers felt the Spanish cabinet development represented something of a diplomatic victory for the allies while still others insisted Franco was attempting to avoid an open break among quarreling factions within Spain, and others said it was no more than a hollow gesture arranged to Adolf Hitler's liking.

No Change Seen in Spain.

MADRID, Sept. 4 (AP).—The dropping of Ramon Serrano Suner, champion of totalitarian ways, as Spain's foreign minister "neither produces nor could produce the least variation in interior or international policy," the official Falange [Fascist] party newspaper Arriba said today.

Arriba described as merely a "changing of the guard" Franco's replacement yesterday of Suner and two other important cabinet members, the war and interior ministers, and his assumption of full personal control of the Falange, Spain's only political party, of which Suner had been active head.

Suner was succeeded as foreign minister by Count Francisco Gomez Jordana, soldier-statesman who was foreign minister when the United States recognized Franco's régime in 1939. Gen. Carlos Asensio Cabanillas was made war minister in place of Gen. José Varela, and Blas Perez succeeded Col. Valentin Galarza as interior minister.

Dismissal Laid to Disputes.

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP).—A British foreign office commentator said today that the dismissal of Ramon Serrano Suner as foreign minister primarily was a result of internal disputes between the Falange party and the army.

The commentator said he believed it was wrong to describe Serrano Suner's dismissal as a complete defeat for the Germans in the diplomatic battle now being waged in Spain, but that it undoubtedly weakened the axis cause.

Closer Ties with Americas Seen.

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 4 (AP).—The discharge of Ramon Serrano Suner as Spain's foreign minister was interpreted here by reliable foreign observers as a step away from the axis collaboration which Suner favored and a move toward closer ties with the Americas.

The Catholic church's opposition to the Nazi lines Suner proposed to follow and a division among party leaders on the course to be pursued were taken as factors in bringing about the change. But there were other events which perhaps determined Chief of State Francisco Franco, among them Brazil's entrance into the war against the axis, the general attitude of Latin America toward the war, and the efforts of the new United States ambassador in Madrid, Dr. Carlton J. H. Hayes, to emphasize the powerful position of the allies.

His statement said 626 men were reported as wounded. An unofficial count of casualties in the Dieppe operation, tabulated by the Canadian Press, put the total casualties at 897.

CHARGE TREASON IN INDICTMENT OF SIX CHICAGOANS

Spy's Associates Ordered Held Without Bail.

An indictment charging treason against three men and three women, all Chicagoans and all naturalized citizens, was returned yesterday by the federal grand jury. It was the first time an indictment for this crime had been voted in Illinois.

The defendants are Hans Max Haupt and his wife, Erna, 2234 Fremont avenue, parents of Herbert Haupt, who was executed as a German spy and saboteur after being landed from a submarine; Walter Wilhelm and Lucille Froehling, 3643 North Whipple street, uncle and aunt of the Nazi agent, and Otto Richard and Wergin and his wife, Kate Martha, 5416 South Wood street, close friends of the other couples.

Held in Separate Cells.

All are being closely guarded in separate cells of the county jail. Judge John P. Barnes, before whom the indictment was returned in Federal District court, followed a recommendation of the grand jury and ordered that the defendants be held without bail. Since their seizure the six have been unable to furnish bonds of $50,000 each.

United States Attorney J. Albert Woll said the defendants would be arraigned early next week and it is expected a trial date will be set then. Woll and two assistants, Earle C. Hurley and Richard G. Finn, presented the evidence in the case to the grand jury.

Forty-one instances of the three couples giving aid and comfort to the saboteur Haupt—whose full name was Herbert Johannes William Godlove Haupt, alias "Bingo"—were recounted in the 14 page indictment. All occurred between June 17 and July 17 of this year.

Charges Traitorous Acts.

It was charged that during this period the defendants, "being persons owing allegiance to the United States, in violation of the said duty of allegiance, unlawfully, feloniously, maliciously, traitorously, and treasonably did adhere to the enemies of the United States."

Also, it was alleged, the three couples knew all the while that Haupt's mission was to spy on and to destroy war plants and utilities in the United States and that money to forward this end was supplied by the German reich. His parents and the uncle and aunt were charged with taking him into their homes and giving him advice—among other things to register for the draft and otherwise seek to conceal his identity and his purposes.

In line with this advice, the alleged traitors were said to have taken the saboteur to at least two persons, Conrad Grunau and Henry Koch, and asked that these persons give the German agent a job. They were also alleged to have gotten him a mailing address thru which he could receive instructions about his work.

Large Sums Paid by Spy.

Other charges were that the younger Haupt paid "large sums" of money for the assistance given him, that out of this money his parents bought him an automobile, and that the senior Haupt gave one Carl Eggert $900 from the fund for safekeeping. The Wergins and Froehlings were accused of keeping some of this money.

The defendants have all been residents of the United States from 15 to 19 years and all were naturalized between 1930 and 1935.

Upon conviction of treason the six persons might be sentenced to death. The minimum sentence would be five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

A. E. S. writes: "At the time I entered service, I owed several large bills on which I had been making regular payments. Is there any way I could make an allotment so my creditors can receive their payments?"

ANSWER: You could, of course, make a voluntary allotment to a blood relative and have the relative make the payments for you, or you could make allotments to a bank, which in turn could undertake the payments for you, if you gave it full authorization to do so. You also could have several checks drawn to you and countersign them and send them to your creditor, but you would have no tangible record of your payments.

M. J. writes: "I have a friend who has a civil service job in the Panama canal zone. He has a 3-A classification. Is he exempt from the draft or will he be drafted from here?"

ANSWER: Your friend is not exempt from the draft. His classification indicates he has been deferred for dependency rather than because of his employment. We hope he has taken the precaution to keep his draft board informed of his whereabouts and proper address so the board could notify him when his call comes up; otherwise he will be listed as "delinquent" and subject to all the penalties of an evader. The administrative details of examination and induction could be handled by the draft board most convenient to him, if he didn't care to come all the way home.

J. H. O. writes: "I am a trained radio technician with nine years' experience with all types of radio equipment. Do you think I could get a rating in the navy?"

ANSWER: All branches of the armed forces can use eligible men with experience of the type you indicate. In the navy you might be able to qualify as chief radio technician at $138 a month or technician 1st class at $118, 2d class at $96, and 3d class at $78. The navy also has a rating of "radioman" who would operate transmitters, receivers, maintain radio equipment, repair and adjust direction finders, etc., with the same rates of pay as the above.

J. J. asks: "Please explain the C-1 classification given a soldier who has been discharged from service for physical disabilities. Why should these fellows be exempt from any further military service for duration, and the rest of us with wives and children have to go in?"

ANSWER: The 1-C classification is given to men who are a part of the military forces on "reserve" or who have received disability discharges. If the discharge was received prior to Dec. 8, 1941, the person is subject to the draft unless subsequent army physical reëxamination shows the condition unchanged. If the discharge was received after Dec. 8, the army has discharged the person because it could make no use of him on account of the disabilities, and it did not appear worth while to attempt rehabilitation.

ARMY WANTS OLD INSTRUMENTS FOR CAMP MUSICIANS

If you have an old trumpet or banjo which is not being used or is in need of repair, the army would like to have it for use in entertaining soldiers, Col. Edward Roth Jr., acting commander of the 6th service command, said yesterday.

A drive for contributions of these instruments, which will be used for entertainment purposes only and not in regular army musical organizations, now is being launched under Capt. Wayne King, the former dance orchestra leader, who now is assigned to the 6th service command as a special services officer.

The army wants any type of musical instrument, with the exception of pianos and radios. Whenever possible the army will inform the donor where his instrument is being used. Those wishing to contribute instruments should write the special services officer in the new post office building.

5 HELD TO JURY IN $100,000 MONEY MART ROBBERIES

Five men implicated in 35 currency exchange robberies involving the theft of $100,000 were held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge William V. Daly in Felony court. Two women found in the apartments of two of the suspects were held under $200 bonds for trial Sept. 21 on charges of disorderly conduct.

Bond for Charles Young, 31 years old, 111 West Division street, was placed at $10,000. Harry Greinke, 29, of 6504 Woodlawn avenue, and Alvin Krause, 28, of 4062 Kenmore avenue; Richard Majewski, 28, of 2150 North Damen avenue, and Henry Craft, 24, of 2056 Pierce street, were held in $5,000 bonds each.

Julius Sherwin, assistant state's attorney, said three robbery indictments against Young will be reinstated Tuesday and that three of six accomplices now serving prison terms have agreed to testify against him. Majewski and Craft also have agreed to testify against the others accused of the money exchange robberies.

CHARGE OFFICIAL WITH PLUNDERING UNION TREASURY

Three Sue for Accounting of $235,000 Fund.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 4 [Special].—Leo Green, czar of the Pittsburgh local of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steamfitters, AFL, was accused by members of the organization today of looting the union treasury of more than $150,000.

According to a suit filed against Green in Common Pleas court, the union chieftain used union funds to buy himself an $11,000 home on Pittsburgh's Saranac avenue, $23,000 worth of other real estate, $85,000 worth of war and other government bonds, and $40,000 to get himself elected to an international vice presidency of the union.

As a vice president of the international he has been blocking "any corrective measures that may be taken against him," his complaining colleagues stated.

Other Purchases Listed.

They also accused Green of dipping into union funds to buy a 1941 sedan, an expensive camera, a welding outfit, and a public address system, and to finance the incorporation of the United Heating company, recently ordered dissolved after an anti-trust proceeding.

Plaintiffs in the action are James A. and John L. Ahearn, former officers of the local, and John J. Morrison, an executive board member. Their charges were contained in an amended bill of particulars filed at the request of the court.

Green is asked to account for $235,000 in union funds alleged to have come under his control as financial secretary of the local. A large share of this sum, according to the bill, was paid by "permit men" described as men not members of the union who were charged a flat sum per day for union working permits.

$150,000 from One Plant.

Permit men and other workers in the du Pont company plant at Morgantown, West Va., paid $150,000 last year, and $75,000 was collected at the Irvin works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company between October, 1937, and September, 1938, it is charged.

This money, "or the greater part of it," never reached the union's account, the bill alleges.

The plaintiffs also want to know what became of $10,000 raised from members as a building fund for proposed new offices.

Other irregularities of which Green is accused include loaning money without authority to his son and brother; using $2,000 as a bond for a friend charged with manslaughter, and keeping relatives in steady work while other union members were without jobs.

Killing Threat Added.

Morrison added an accusation that Green threatened to kill him in 1934 for exposing favoritism in allotting jobs on the PWA financed Cathedral of Learning [University of Pittsburgh] construction job.

Other officers of the union are named co-defendants with Green. They are Michael Green, president; Roy Middleton, vice president; A. J. Neidenberger, recording secretary; Frank H. Johnson, business agent, and Harry Hagemeir, assistant business agent. The bill states that Leo Green dominates the other officers.

The accused men have 20 days to answer the complaint. At Leo Green's office today, employés said he was out of the city.

PLAN NEW BILL TO FINGERPRINT EVERY ONE IN U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—A renewed campaign to require the fingerprinting of every man, woman, and child in the nation developed today with the announcement by Rep. Sam Hobbs [D., Ala.] of the house judiciary committee that he planned to draft legislation to that effect.

Rep. Sam Hobbs.

Hobbs said he would urge speedy enactment of a mandatory fingerprint bill as a defense measure.

Hobbs said country-wide finger printing would prove doubly valuable in wartime, particularly in the event of a bombing attack, for identifying casualties.

Factor's Brother-in-Law Gives Up on Fraud Charge

Edward Mallon of Los Angeles, Cal., a brother-in-law of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, surrendered yesterday to United States Marshal William H. McDonnell on a charge of mail fraud. Mallon, Factor, and eight others are under indictment in Cedar Rapids, Ia., in connection with the reported sale of a million dollars worth of whiskey certificates. Mallon's hearing was set for Sept. 11. He was released on $3,000 bond.

Negro Gets 99 Year Term for Slaying Young Nurse

Percy Lindsay, 28 years old, a Negro, was sentenced yesterday to 99 years in prison by Judge Harold G. Ward in Criminal court for the murder of Ruth Gaines, 21, a colored nurse, in her home at 3553 South Park way. Lindsay told Judge Ward that he killed the nurse because he loved her and did not want her to talk with other men.

ARRESTED IN EMBEZZLEMENT CASE.

Carl Liedholm, 37 years old, was arrested in his home at 1423 Hudson avenue yesterday on a fugitive warrant sent to Chicago by the sheriff of Madison county, Ind. He allegedly embezzled $3,857 from the B. F. Goodrich company branch in Elwood, Ind.

The Inquiring Camera Girl — BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by THE TRIBUNE. Today's question was submitted by B. Mandel, 5309 Ellis avenue.]

THE QUESTION.

Did you ever take a "busman's holiday?"

WHERE ASKED.

Grant park.

THE ANSWERS.

Max C. Kornfeld, insurance broker, 5726 Winthrop avenue—A two weeks' complete rest was what I had in mind when I left for the summer cottage. But I was surrounded by people who didn't seem to carry enough life insurance. Before the two weeks were over I made my highest quota and lined up some good clients for later reference.

Virginia Feller, fountain girl, 1268 West 73d street—When I left to spend two weeks at the summer resort I was determined to stay away from anything that even looked like a soda fountain. At the neat little stand there was a sign, "Fountain girl wanted"—and I couldn't resist it. It was the same old work, but it was more fun there.

Kenneth H. Gutner, paper boy, 1132 Pratt boulevard—There hadn't been a day of that year that I hadn't delivered magazines with my bicycle. Then I took four days off for a big bicycle expedition to Palos park with the bike laden down with everything we'd need for the camping trip. It was a nice vacation tho—with no magazines around.

Sam D. Cooper, bus driver, 6503 North Ashland avenue—I have driven a bus long enough to know that every day I pass up sights I'd really like to see, so I took a holiday that was strictly a busman's holiday. I went on a sight seeing tour in a bus. I enjoyed every sight from the upper deck—as a passenger this time.

Robert Brower, part time skipper, 1114 Columbia avenue—Everybody thought I spent much time getting a boat in shape for the owner. When the job was finished the boat owner said I could take a week's vacation while he sailed away. I told him I'd like to spend my vacation on his boat and he appointed me active skipper.

Roberta Scarlata, student, 480 West 26th street—Most every one else in my class was enjoying a week's vacation from school. In order to raise a few low grades I was compelled to trudge back to the same old environment every day of that week. It was a busman's holiday that seemed longer than any other I had ever taken.

BARE PROTEST TO VICHY AGAINST DEPORTING JEWS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—The American Jewish committee announced today that it had been assured by the state department that the United States had protested vigorously in Vichy against the mass deportation of Jewish refugees from unoccupied France.

The committee made public a letter which it said its general secretary, Morris D. Waldman, had received from Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles describing the deportations as a "new shock to the public opinion of the civilized world.

About 10,000 Jewish refugees who had sought asylum in unoccupied France are reported to have been rounded up, loaded on trains under brutal conditions, and sent to an unrevealed destination in eastern Europe.

MAKER OF ARMS SUES CIO UNION ON LIBEL CHARGE

Asserts Handbill Cuts Output; Asks $50,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 4 [Special].—The Falk corporation, manufacturer of gears for the armed forces today filed a $50,000 libel suit against the United Steelworkers of America, CIO union, and three of its officers and agents, charging they had published a handbill creating a hostile atmosphere between the company and some of its employés which resulted in "diminishing and curtailing productive shipment of the materials for the government."

The individuals named in the action were Meyer Adelman, district director of the union, Emil Costello, national field organizer, and Mrs. Anne Sabljak Christoffel, an agent of the union. Mrs. Christoffel is the wife of Harold Christoffel, president of the Allis-Chalmers local of the CIO automobile workers union. She was employed by the United States forestry service until she left when the Wisconsin "little Dies" committee charged she had been an active Communist for some time.

Basis of Libel Charge.

The Falk company charged it was libeled Aug. 24 in a mimeographed handbill composed, distributed, and published at the company plant. The handbill asserted the company by preventing union soliciting or canvassing on the company premises was trying "to contradict the law of the land." It was called "Falk's dying attempt to stop the legal organization of its employés."

"We also know the Falk company, in its intimidation of its workers, isn't helping the war effort," the handbill said. "This retards the workers when their morale is needed to produce for our country.

"If the company wants to help their employés win the war, the workers must be permitted to exercise their democratic rights to join the CIO steelworkers' union."

Company Under Injunction.

The company asserts the union knew that on March 8, 1940, it had been enjoined by the United States Court of Appeals from interfering with the formation of any labor organization among its employés or giving support to any organization soliciting or canvassing on the company's premises and that it could not permit soliciting of memberships without being in contempt of court. The company adds that it is working 24 hours a day, seven days a week, producing equipment for the navy and the maritime commission and has won the navy E award for production achievement. To maintain this record, it says, it must maintain a high morale among its 3,300 employés and have complete coöperation between employés and management.

The complaint continues that the defendants have broken down the morale of employés "by falsely and maliciously accusing the company of intimidating its employés and of the unpatriotic conduct of interfering with the war effort."

The charges, it said, had exposed the company to hatred and contempt and created an unfriendly, critical and hostile atmosphere, resulting in the diminution and curtailment of production in the war effort.

The Falk company expressed fear that production will be interfered with so much that the prized E will be jeopardized and that skilful workers may be lost. Adelman and Costello were out of the city today and Mrs. Christoffel, in a hospital here, could not be interviewed.

SEIZE FUGITIVE BANKER AFTER 11 YEAR SEARCH

A search of 11 years for Savario Ariani, fugitive president of the closed First Italian State bank, formerly located at 1201 Taylor street, ended in San Francisco, Cal., last night when agents of the federal bureau of investigation seized him and three members of his family.

The agents also found $48,300 in cash and securities, plus considerable stock. Included in the total find were $10,000 in gold coins and 33 $100 bills.

Seized with Ariani were his wife, Minnie, and his two sons, Carlo and Romolo, the latter a lawyer. They were found in their home at 3720 Webster avenue.

New Complaint Is Filed.

Ariani was indicted in September, 1931, on a charge of embezzling $138,335. His son, Carlo, now about 31 years old, was indicted on a charge of conspiracy. In Chicago yesterday, after federal officials apparently had learned of the family's imminent arrest, a complaint was filed charging all members of the family with conspiracy to conceal $13,400, representing the cash surrender value of certain insurance policies belonging to Ariani's estate in bankruptcy.

This move apparently was to cover any legal loopholes in extradition proceedings.

Ariani was a respected banker, dealing largely with Italian depositors on the west side, until early in September, 1931, he fled Chicago. His bank closed the next day. Preliminary examination showed only $9,800 in cash on hand against the $160,222 listed in the books.

Not Ariani's Fault, Wife Says.

Mrs. Ariani told prosecutors the bank's failure was no fault of her husband's; that he fled in fear of his life at the hands of angry depositors and urged them to do likewise.

Ariani, it was learned, dealt largely in foreign exchange and also operated "a bank within a bank." The public bank appeared to be in excellent shape at regular audits. It was believed that he used the inner bank for the convenience of hoodlum customers, some of whom were slain during the prohibition wars. This secret bank, it was thought, became insolvent, and wrecked Ariani's entire financial structure.

TEAMSTER UNION ORDERED TO CUT WAR PLANT FEES

that $10 should be the maximum initiation fee on each job.

"I did not know," said Burger, "until I read it in THE TRIBUNE Thursday, that a higher fee was being charged in violation of Mr. Tobin's instruction. I have spoken to local officials and they have agreed to line up with the national policy.

"A full membership will still call for a $50 fee, but men who want only a permit to last as long as the Dodge plant construction lasts need pay only $10. Those who wish to work on these terms, and have paid $50, may get a refund by applying to the local union headquarters. President Tobin and the organization are 100 per cent for the war effort."

Burger, whose office is at 10 North Clark street, said he had investigated and was convinced that a report that members of other teamster unions were forced to pay the $50 initiation was incorrect.

"Cards from all IBT unions have been recognized by 731," he said. "The local was done an injustice."

Police Investigate Fees.

Lieut. George Barnes of the police labor detail and Capt. Daniel Gilbert, head of the state's attorney's detective force, disclosed they were investigating the fee collecting methods of the unions and complaints that many who paid both fees and dues were discharged before they had worked long enough to get back their original outlay.

Barnes said one man told him he was informed he wouldn't have been fired if he had paid an additional $5 "to the right people." The lieutenant added that he still was looking into allegations that a state representative had collected $29 from a man who wanted a laborer's job on the plant construction. The complainant said he was dismissed after earning $34, which left him only $5 for five days of work.

FUTURE ENSIGNS START TRAINING AT NOTRE DAME

School Biggest of Its Kind; Routine Is Stiff.

BY WARD WALKER.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 4 [Special].—The University of Notre Dame's peaceful campus, with its century old tradition of scholars and football players, is host these days to future fighting officers of the United States navy.

Hundreds of these clean cut young men in their crisp white ducks present a stirring picture as they march down the tree lined walks within the shadows of the Gothic spire of Sacred Heart church and the golden dome of the administration building.

They are here as apprentice seamen enlisted under the V-7 naval indoctrination program. At this training school, the largest of its kind in the country, they'll be whipped into top physical condition and taught discipline and seamanship for 30 days. Then they will be sent as midshipmen to Abbott hall, on the Chicago campus of Northwestern university, or to a similar school in New York.

From there it's one step to an ensign's commission and active duty on the high seas.

Occupy Four Dormitories.

Four halls—"three destroyers and the flagship"—have been turned over to the navy by the university. They are Lyons, Morrissey, Badin, and Howard dormitories, all near the shores of St. Mary's lake.

Capt. H. P. Burnett, U. S. N., is commander of the school and Comm. J. D. Shaw is the executive officer. It is believed the school's program will be expanded next month to include the midshipman training.

All of the seamen have at least two years of college—85 per cent of them are college graduates—and all are healthy. Yet 8 per cent of the candidates will flunk in the first 30 days.

The routine is a stiff one—2½ hours a day of calisthenics, seemingly endless hours on the drill field; courses in seamanship, navigation, trigonometry, geometry, and gunnery, and the hours are long, from 5:50 a. m. to 10 p. m., or 05:50 to 22:00, as the navy tells time.

Well Fed, Muscles Hardened.

But if the young man comes thru he'll gain 10 to 12 pounds—good food is a navy tradition—he'll stand as straight as a rod, his muscles will be hard, and his mind keen.

Altho the school is only a few months old, its first class is already at sea and anecdotes of its personnel are probably making sailors chuckle all over the world.

There were two young men assigned as mates of the deck in Morrissey hall one night. About 02:00 [2 a. m.] they awakened the watch officer to ask for the orders of the day.

"They're posted on the bulkhead," he answered and went back to sleep. Two hours later the hesitant young sailors reawakened him. They were sweating and tired from a fruitless search.

"Sir, we must report we cannot find the bulkhead. It must have been misplaced," they announced. After the officer's lecture neither will probably ever forget that a "bulkhead" is a wall.

Naval Terms for Quarters.

In the dormitories, as at Abbott hall, the floors are called decks, the stairs ladders, the toilets are heads, and the students are part of the ship's company.

Once the bookkeeping system in the storeroom got all mixed up. The seamen were asked if any of them could help straighten out the accounts. Four men volunteered. Their qualifications? Each of them owned a bank.

While at the training school the seamen are taught the basic principles of first aid, they learn how to swim, they take gas mask drill, and they must prove they have increased their strength.

Lieut. Fred Denfeld, all-American football player at the naval academy in 1919, puts the newcomers thru an exhaustive test shortly after their arrival. He records how far they can jump, how many chinups they can do, and how much weight they can lift.

Few Fail Physical Tests.

Just before they are graduated the men are put thru the same tests again. They must show appropriate improvement or they are flunked. So far there have been few such failures.

The seamen are fed in one wing of the university cafeteria and they bunk two to a room in the dormitories. Altho the weekday schedules are too full for much relaxation, the men get "shore leave" every weekend from Saturday noon until Sunday night.

"How do you like it here?" one young seaman was asked.

"Been too busy to think about it much," he replied, "but now you mention it, reckon I like it fine."

DOCTOR ON TOUR; ORDER SEIZURE OF HIS NEW TIRES

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 4 (AP).—Tire rationing officials in Salt Lake City have been notified to intercept a St. Louis physician, who is making a pleasure trip, and confiscate four new rationed tires on his automobile.

Disclosure of the action was made today by Matt Morse, a member of the St. Louis rationing board, who said the doctor received a permit last week for the tires, which were to be used solely in driving to attend his patients.

The name of the physician was withheld by the board.

AMERICA MUST MAKE RUBBER, PLANNERS TOLD

Ogburn Asserts Auto Is Essential.

Production planners should realize that "you can't do away with the automobile without wrecking civilization" and should bend their efforts to speeding up synthetic rubber making. This opinion was expressed yesterday by Dr. William Fielding Ogburn, chairman of the department of sociology at the University of Chicago.

"Transportation is the big bottleneck of our war program," Dr. Ogburn said. "You can't do away with the car. More than 2,000 towns in the United States without it would have to go out of existence. We should make the synthetic rubber to keep motor vehicles operating; it is easier to do that than to rely on railway steel and the outmoded horse and buggy for our transportation necessities."

Many Towns Need Trucks.

He warned that the rationing of automobile use could easily be overdone. The towns that get their mail, food, fuel, and other materials by truck, he said, must continue to get service.

"Luxury uses, such as vacations in the family car and short pleasure trips, may properly be curtailed," the professor continued, "but the school bus, the delivery truck, and the gas engine on the farm can't be eliminated. If the government rations too far it must provide living quarters for war plant workers within walking distance.

Buggy Days Are Gone.

"The horse is too slow for the tempo of American life and without the car suburban growth, except in the vicinity of big plants, will be halted. Our planners should put up enough synthetic rubber plants to make all the tires we need."

For good or ill, automotive transportation has greatly changed American life, Dr. Ogburn said—so greatly that we can never go back to the horse and buggy days. The auto, he said, has changed even the morals of the people and caused innumerable deaths. On the other hand, it has promoted suburban growth, increased farm productivity, relocated industries, and created thousands of roadside businesses. With all its faults and benefits, Americans are not going to give it up, he added.

LOYOLA MEDICAL UNIT WILL HOLD DINNER TONIGHT

Fifty physicians associated with Loyola university and 105 commissioned nurses who are members of Army General hospital No. 108 will attend a farewell dinner tonight in the Lake Shore club. Families and guests will increase the attendance to 300.

General hospital No. 108 is commanded by Col. George T. Jordan, head of the eye, ear, nose, and throat department of Loyola university. The officer personnel, all of whom are practicing physicians in addition to being members of the Loyola faculty, have been drilling nightly for weeks in preparation for their call into service, which is expected within two months.

In addition to the medical and nursing personnel, Col. Jordan has recruited 120 technicians who will make up a part of the enlisted personnel of 500 men which the unit will have. Those enlisted thus far include laboratory men, barbers, cooks, plumbers, chauffeurs, and mechanics.

Col. Francis M. Fitts of the surgeon general's office will come to Chicago from Washington, D. C., today to attend the dinner and will review the Loyola unit tomorrow afternoon in the Loyola university stadium.

LEARNS HER SON IS DEAD; FAMILY'S FIFTH WAR VICTIM

Mother Informed Seaman Lost Life in Pacific.

Mrs. Elizabeth Peterson, 54 years old, who has lost two husbands, her father, and a brother thru war injuries, yesterday learned that another member of her family—her 17 year old son—had been killed while fighting for his country.

George G. McKenzie, her first husband, died on active duty with the British soldiers in the Dardanelles in 1914. John Lunn Jr., a brother, perished in 1916 when the British navy ship on which he was stationed was torpedoed. Her second husband, George Jackson, was wounded in the Dardanelles also, but lived until 1931 when he died in this country. Her father, John Lunn Sr., a war industry worker and an aid in civilian defense, was killed by a German bomb in an English town in May, 1941.

Yesterday Mrs. Peterson, now married to Chester Peterson, 2008 West 20th street, North Chicago, was informed that her son, George Arthur Jackson, a seaman, second class, had been killed while serving with the American navy in the Pacific. He enlisted Sept. 19, 1941, one day after his 17th birthday.

Marine and Army Flyer Killed.

Other service men reported killed, captured or missing in messages received by families in or near Chicago:

Clayton Taleen, 21, a 1st class private in the marines, reported killed in the southern Pacific battle grounds. A former employé of the Inland Steel company, Taleen was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Taleen of Spring road, Hinsdale. He enlisted in the marine corps last January.

Second Lieut. Philip Williams Jr., 24, Hinsdale, killed in an army bomber crash near Little Rock, Ark., Wednesday night. He was to have been married in Shreveport, La., today to Miss Nancy Works, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson C. Works, Hinsdale.

Sergt. Nick R. Popa, 20, of 3521 Elm street, East Chicago, killed when his training plane crashed near Pearland, Tex., yesterday, according to a dispatch. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eli Popa Sr. Killed with Popa was Sergt. Gerald F. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Roberts, Green Bay, Wis. Both sergeants were student flyers at Ellington field, Houston, Tex.

Physician's Son Missing.

John Lee Riley Jr., 24, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Riley, 7546 North Oakley avenue, an aviation machinist's mate, 2d class, reported missing by the navy. His parents reported that his commanding officer at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, had recommended him for a distinguished flying cross for his work against the Japanese.

Aloysius Michael Diederich, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Diederich, of Montgomery, south of Aurora, previously listed as missing, now reported in a Japanese detention camp on Shikoku island, Japan. He was a pharmacist's mate, 2d class, U. S. N., and told his parents in a letter that he had been captured Jan. 15 in Guam. He said life in the camp was "dull."

Lieut. Arthur Breithaupt, 30, husband of Mrs. Martha Frisbie Breithaupt, a war plant worker living at 167 South Highland. A Canadian Commando, he was listed as missing in the Dieppe raid, but she received a cable from his brother in England yesterday saying he was believed now to be a German prisoner.

Aurora Sailor Missing.

Frederich Joseph Leavell Jr., 20, a storekeeper, 3d class, U. S. N., reported missing in the Pacific. He enlisted Oct. 24, 1940, after completing a course in Marmion Military academy, Aurora. His parents reside at 818 West Park avenue, Aurora.

Glenn Viano, 21, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Viano, Coal City, Grundy county, reported missing after serving with the American army in the Philippines.

John E. Koncel, 21, hospital apprentice in the navy, reported dead in a message to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Koncel, 5219 South Winchester avenue. A former honor student in the navy training station at Great Lakes, Koncel was reported to have been killed in the Pacific northwest last Sunday. A military funeral will be held early next week after the body arrives here.

Fort Sheridan Vicinity Dangerous for 3 Months

During September, October, and November anti-aircraft artillery at Fort Sheridan will fire daily between 7:30 a. m. and 5 p. m., creating a danger zone within a 12 mile radius of the fort on Lake Michigan, and eight miles in the air, Col. F. C. Rogers, commandant, announced yesterday. Lake shippers and private and commercial aircraft were warned to avoid the zone.

DROWNS IN FALL FROM BRIDGE.

The coast guard yesterday recovered the body of Herman Moesner, 42 years old, 720 North Clark street, a few hours after he was drowned in the Calumet river when he fell from a scaffold while painting the New York Central railroad bridge over the river at 95th street.

OPA ACCUSES FIVE IN FIRST MOVE TO CURB TIRE THEFTS

Charge Transfer Made Without Certificate.

The Office of Price administration moved yesterday against Chicago's stolen tire market by starting the first criminal actions against five men charged with having purchased new stolen tires.

The criminal informations filed in United States District court charge the five with having accepted the transfer of new tires without an OPA rationing certificate. Conviction under the law carries a penalty of one year in prison, a $10,000 fine, or both.

Names of Accused.

Those for whom warrants were issued by Federal Judge John P. Barnes are Stephen Hnatt, 2344 South St. Louis avenue, two tires; Joseph Spitale, 1324 Henderson street, five tires; Carl Valenta, 2030 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, two tires; Erwin Kolarik, 79th street and route 66, Hinsdale, a gasoline station operator, four tires, and James Murphy, route 1, Hinsdale, two tires.

Twenty-one new truck tires were stolen last May 21 from the Bartell Motors company, 5233 Cermak road, Cicero. Erwin Prochaska, a former employé of the company, and William Stolk have been indicted by the county grand jury for the theft. Eight tires were recovered when the two men were arrested.

Purchased Other Tires.

Hnatt, Spitale, Valenta, and Kolarik paid $25 apiece for the 13 remaining tires, according to Jack H. Oppenheim, chief of the criminal litigation unit for the OPA. Murphy, Oppenheim said, bought two of the four tires originally sold to Kolarik.

Oppenheim said it is a violation of the tire rationing regulation to transfer a new tire even from one member of a family to another without a rationing certificate. He added that the regulation covering transfer applies to giving tires away as well as selling them if they are unused.

LABOR DAY, WAR STYLE: SPEED UP OUTPUT OF ARMS

AFL, CIO Eliminate Usual Monday Parades.

Chicago labor will celebrate America's first wartime Labor day of World War II. Monday by producing weapons of war. The mass celebrations, parades and picnics that marked other years will not occur altho a number of meetings for workers who are not otherwise engaged will be conducted. American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organization spokesmen said yesterday.

In most plants only those workers who exceed the 40 hour week by working Labor day will receive extra compensation. Fullerton Fulton, state director of the CIO, said labor has surrendered the right to time and a half pay for holidays during the war period provided the 40 hour week is adhered to.

In Gary, the American Legion, in cooperation with the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, will conduct a demonstration smelting of ornamental cannon from World War I. into ship plates. These plates will become part of the navy's 150 ship program being launched nationally Monday.

From Scrap to Ships.

City of Gary trucks will be employed to collect the war trophies in the Gary community and transport them to the mills. The resmelting and rolling process will take about 20 hours, company officials estimate. Early Tuesday, the plates, still hot, will be ready for shipment to a shipyard.

The Chicago area also will contribute one launching and seven keel layings to the mass shipbuilding ceremonies. At the Henry C. Grebe shipyards, 3250 North Washtenaw avenue, a 66 foot steel harbor tug will slide down the ways. Families of the yard workmen will witness the launching which will be followed immediately by the laying of two keels for minesweepers.

In Seneca, La Salle county, workers of the Chicago Bridge and Iron Works will lay keels of five naval auxiliary vessels.

Chinese Consul to Speak.

In Elgin, the annual Labor day celebration will be held during the noon lunch hour to prevent interruption of war production. A parade of seamen, marines, and Boy Scouts, representing war workers by proxy, will be followed by a mock trial and hanging in effigy of Hitler, Mussolini, and Hirohito. Dr. Chang-Lok Chen, Chinese consul general in Chicago, will give the principal address.

The Chicago Motor club estimated more than 600,000 motorists will enter Chicago during the Labor day weekend. Many will visit servicemen pouring into the city to attend the new radio technical school of the army air forces. Thousands more will come to see the War show at Soldiers' field, held nightly at 8:30 until Sept. 12.

DENY HOYT PLEA TO QUIZ HEADS OF SLAV COUNCIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 4.—Lansing Hoyt, former state chairman of the America First committee and a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in the 4th district, today was restrained from examining in court representatives of the Milwaukee County Slav Council, who had circulated a resolution which Hoyt said was libelous and a reflection on his patriotism.

Circuit Judge Gustave G. Gehrz suppressed Hoyt's scheduled examination of Frank E. Gregorski, assistant district attorney and chairman of the Slav Council, and Yolanda Majkowska, its secretary. Walter J. Hofer, attorney for Gregorski and Miss Majkowska, argued that Hoyt's affidavit requesting the examination was defective and failed to set forth the objects and general nature of the suit.

Hoyt's attorney, Ray C. Twining, argued that the short time before the primary election Sept. 15 was such an important element in arranging the examination that Hoyt's affidavit had been hastily drawn. He said he would file a new affidavit and would still try to schedule an examination of Gregorski and Miss Majkowska before primary day.

AUDITOR GETS 1-10 YEAR TERM AS EMBEZZLER

Alvin J. Salins, 39 years old, 625 Buckingham place, was sentenced yesterday to 1 to 10 years in prison on a charge of embezzling $7,400 from Standard Brands, Inc., for which he was an assistant division auditor for 11 years. He had worked for the company for 17 years and was to have been promoted at the time the shortage was disclosed.

C. Vernon Thompson, assistant state's attorney, protested against Chief Justice Robert J. Dunne's recommendation that Salins serve a maximum of four years and a minimum of two. The prosecutor said Salins' shortage was nearer $40,000 than the $16,000 he admitted and $7,400 charged in the indictment.

Thompson said Salins spent the money on show girls and theatrical promotions. His counsel asked for probation, saying Salins now is employed at $400 a month and could make restitution.

Dr. Cole said Mrs. Knappen took the medicine by mistake late Wednesday night. He reported her condition at no time was serious and said she was in good condition and out of danger.

AUTO WORKERS OPPOSE LABOR DAY SHUTDOWN

Union's Leader Sends Protest to F. D. R.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 4 (AP).—Tracy M. Doll, president of the Detroit CIO council, said today Chrysler corporation had notified all its employés except those in the Detroit tank arsenal not to report for work Monday, Labor day.

Doll said he had telegraphed President Roosevelt and War Production board officials protesting "any closing of any plants engaged in war work when our materials are so badly needed to defeat the axis."

A Chrysler spokesman said the corporation would operate Monday any department that was behind schedule or in which trouble had been experienced in getting into full production.

Call Layoff Work for Axis.

Doll said he informed the President that "labor in Detroit desires no holiday but only a chance to work" Monday, and pointed out the CIO Labor day parade was set for 5 p. m. in order to avoid interfering with factory schedules.

A sign reading "Monday we work for Hitler" was posted outside the Lincoln motor plant of the Ford Motor company by members of the United Automobile Workers [CIO].

An international representative of the union said employés of both the Lincoln and Rouge plants of the Ford company who are on war jobs under fixed price contracts were not being called in for work Monday because double time rates would prevail.

About half of the Lincoln plant force will be working on the holiday, the union official said, but those, he added, are employed on cost-plus contracts.

Alton, Ill., Sept. 4 (AP).—The AFL Chemical Workers' union threatened today to strike within five days at the East Alton Manufacturing company unless their local president, Francis Bunzy, who had been fired June 22, was reinstated. The laborers receive 77 cents an hour for a 40 hour week.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—Sen. D. Worth Clark [D., Idaho] announced today a subcommittee of the senate interstate commerce committee would begin investigation Sept. 14 of the ban by the American Federation of Musicians on making records for use by radio stations and coin-operated reproducing machines.

Last week Clark introduced a resolution calling for the investigation into the order issued by James C. Petrillo of Chicago, president of the musicians' organization. He said Petrillo was employing gangster tactics in forbidding union members from making the records.

Lost 378 Planes, Downed 247 in August, Says RAF

LONDON, Sept. 5 [Saturday]—(AP).—The royal air force lost 378 planes during August in operations over Germany and occupied Europe, in defense of the middle east, and attacks on axis shipping, compared with 247 axis planes destroyed in the same period, the air ministry disclosed today. The report said that altho weather conditions generally were unfavorable, the bomber command was over Germany on 12 nights and over both Germany and Nazi held territory five days during the month. German planes flew over Britain on 28 nights and 27 days.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1942.

The entire and absolute freedom of the press is essential to the preservation of government on the basis of a free constitution.—Daniel Webster.

WE NEED A NEW CABINET.

The appointment of a supersupercoördinator of economic matters is expected. In Washington it is believed the President will present his plan in a message to congress on Monday and in a radio address to the people on Monday evening. The supersupercoördinator will have jurisdiction over wages and farm prices. He will levy war on inflation. He will have a board of advisers on which the government, business, labor, and the farmers will be represented as in the corporative state. To the supersupercoördinator the President will convey all the authority over economic matters intrusted to him in the various emergency laws.

Mr. Roosevelt, so it is said, hopes that by relieving himself of the burden of economic management he can devote more of his time to directing the conduct of the war.

Once again the complaints of confusion in Washington have become so widespread that Mr. Roosevelt feels that he must do something. On similar occasions in the recent past he replaced the council of defense with the OPM and the OPM with the WPB. Other creations were the War Labor board, the Office of Price Administration, and a host of miscellaneous authorities, coördinators, and agencies, the very names of which are now forgotten, tho many of them are still functioning and their pay rolls are growing from week to week.

These reshuffings accomplish nothing except temporarily to quiet criticism. In a few weeks it becomes apparent that the only change is one of name and that the same old confusion, resulting from divided authority and muddled purpose, is still with us. There is no reason to expect better of the newest proposal.

The President's passion for improvisation has blinded him to the obvious remedy lying within our accustomed way of conducting the government's business. The President doesn't need to invent an administrative structure. He has one at hand in the cabinet. It is largely because his department heads are unequal to their responsibilities that he has had to create administrative agencies to do their work for them. Given a cabinet of intelligent, able men most of his difficulties would disappear.

Look them over. The secretary of war is in his dotage. The secretary of the treasury had no adequate preparation in finance for the stupendous responsibilities he carries. The secretary of the interior was an unsuccessful lawyer who never was able to earn his living. The secretary of the navy was an incompetent newspaper publisher. The feather brained secretary of labor has never enjoyed the respect, to say nothing of the confidence, of either wing of the labor movement. Who ever heard of Wickard before he got his job as secretary of agriculture?

What is needed is a complete shakeup of the cabinet. Its members should each possess the intelligence, the special knowledge, and the executive competence to handle a big job. Obviously most of them do not measure up to their responsibilities and, therefore, the President has been obliged to create new administrative agencies to do their work for them. That has made for confusion, duplication of effort, jealousy, and waste of time and money.

A new supersuperagency will not remedy matters, and may make them worse. What is needed is a simplification of the organization and it is unlikely that any better scheme can be found than that with which the American people are familiar. If the President will put competent men in the cabinet and delegate authority to them much of the needless confusion within the government and between the government and the people will automatically disappear and the prospects of a speedy victory will be greatly enhanced.

THE TRUTH ABOUT DETROIT.

When the administration recently took offense at an article in Life magazine about the way in which the great industrial city of Detroit is rising to the demands of the war, it adopted a typically Nazi procedure. It didn't like the article and thought that what was printed might do harm, especially among our neighbors. Its method of solving the problem was to deny the undesirable issue a license to go thru the mails as second class matter, and to tear the offending article out of all copies leaving the country.

Thomas Jefferson, of whom we hear so much at Democratic party rallies, stated long ago that falsehood had a natural way of defeating itself. "Truth," he said, "is the proper and sufficient antagonist to error, and has nothing to fear from the conflict, unless by human interposition disarmed of her natural weapons, free argument and debate; errors ceasing to be dangerous when it is permitted freely to contradict them."

The administration might take this text to heart. There was one sure way of telling whether Detroit had been made the victim of injustice and untruth in the article in question. That was to adopt the American procedure of examining the facts. THE TRIBUNE undertook to do this by sending a reporter to make an extended inquiry into Detroit's war effort. Any reader who has followed Mr. Wayne Thomis' recent articles can determine for himself whether Life's account was colored and distorted.

Mr. Thomis finds that Detroit today is producing arms for the nation's forces in greater volume and dollar value than it produced automobiles and peacetime necessities in its most expansive days. Production is at the rate of 5 billion dollars a year and by midsummer of next year will be at the inconceivable rate of 12 billion dollars. The employment index in the automotive industry now approximates the boom time record of 1929. Labor and management, far from being at each other's throat, have worked together to speed up output and have devised new techniques that have already saved the government 2 billion dollars.

"There's no war here between management and labor," says R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers. "We haven't got time. We're both too busy trying to untangle Washington's red tape and lack of regulation on priorities and allocation."

THE TRIBUNE regarded the administration's method of dealing with Life as one more assault on the freedom of the press. The burocrats need not feel impelled to stage a black-out every time they see something they think would be better hidden. They can rest content that it will vanish even more completely under a strong light. Jefferson knew that, and it would be just as well for some other people to know it, too.

ONLY SILENCE AND OBEDIENCE?

Mr. Roosevelt in his speech to the International Student Service association in Washington referred to the puny prophets and little men of little faith who mock and sneer at the Atlantic charter and the four freedoms and who feed the enemy radio and press with material to be used against the American war effort and war purpose.

Mr. Roosevelt said that his speech, intended for the youth of the world, would be jammed and silenced in enemy countries and countries occupied and dominated by the enemy. Was it Mr. Roosevelt's purpose to jam and silence other speech here?

"To some who view the present chaos in the light of the follies of the last 20 years, no small measure of the blame must be laid at the door of the prevalent Utopian philosophy. . . . When impossible ideals are set before men's minds, no harvest except bitter disillusionment and cynicism can be expected. . . . To my mind the Utopians who foresee the future in terms of a world made perfect by technology and the applied social sciences or those who believe in the complete spiritual regeneration of a majority of men are equally mistaken."

Is a statement such as the foregoing to be regarded as inadmissible in the expression of American opinion? Is such comment upon the prevalent Utopian philosophy to be aspersed by war authority as being food for the Nazi radio? If so, then one of the puny prophets and little men of little faith is President Conant of Harvard, who as an interventionist unequivocally supported Mr. Roosevelt in his policies before Dec. 7 and who was appointed with Mr. Baruch and President Compton of M.I.T. to report on the snarled rubber problem. He is high in the White House favor.

Mr. Conant expressed the fears of many Americans, some of whom were not on his side before the war brought in the United States. They do not believe that any good can come from setting impossible ideals before the minds of men and they do believe that the harvest will be another gathering of bitter disillusionment. "Modern civilization will be hard pressed, indeed," said Mr. Conant, "if another era of cynicism is the product of Utopian war aims of this struggle."

Mr. Roosevelt questions the right of people to differ with him on this issue. He raises hopes which other men say are unattainable and, therefore, should not be put in the form of promissory notes signed by their government even as war propaganda, or especially not as war propaganda. People who have these doubts and entertain these fears are whole hearted supporters of the war effort, but their patriotism is slurred, they are accused of giving encouragement to the enemy and effort is made to direct the suspicion of the country against them.

If such anathema should silence them the freedoms will not mean much in this country itself. The voice of authority will bear everything else down. If policy makers can attaint argument and discussion as disloyal or seditious at their pleasure the country will be reduced to silent acceptance and blind obedience. Then what contrast can we offer to the enemy we fight?

WHEN IN BRITAIN—

W. S. Gilbert would have been amused by a few of the doings in the London Guildhall the other day when the lord mayor and members of the common council extended greetings to an American task force that put on a parade. After the soldiers and marines finished the parade, they were invited into the Guildhall for lunch. "While the dignitaries sipped wine, the soldiers quaffed beer," it is related.

When the time for speech making came around, Maj. Gen. John C. Lee, American commander of the service of supply, entered into the spirit of the occasion. "Our forces are here," said he, "to join his majesty's forces."

Our soldiers probably preferred the beer to wine, whether or not they noted the subtle social distinction, but it may be doubted that they think in terms of "his majesty's forces." Americans say "British forces." Politeness can shade into colonialism, and not too imperceptibly, either.

ANOTHER CONCESSION TO THE SILVER BLOC.
[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The problem of providing silver for industrial uses has now been partly solved, but the silver bloc has not had to yield one iota of its special privileges.

Industry has been barred from using domestic silver because the treasury buys all of it at the subsidy price of 71 cents an ounce, fixed by congress in 1934, a price about twice the metal's actual value. This store of silver is set aside by law for monetary backing, but far more has been accumulated than is necessary for this purpose. Industry has depended on foreign silver, but this also was cut off when the government fixed a ceiling price of 35⅛ cents an ounce, a figure so low that it discouraged Mexican mine operators.

Silver is needed in many war industries as a substitute for scarce metals. In the civilian field the extensive jewelry and tableware industry was threatened with ruin by the restrictions. The logical procedure, of course, would be to release some of the enormous hoard of this metal stored away by the treasury, but the silver bloc in congress would never stand for that, war or no war.

The solution announced by the state department is another concession to this bloc. The ceiling price on imported silver is raised to 45 cents an ounce, which means that this country now will subsidize Mexican mining interests, in addition to the existing subsidy for domestic producers. The higher ceiling means increases in the cost of war and civilian goods using silver, and so is inflationary.

Meanwhile, the greater part of the treasury's 110,000 ton store of the metal is lying idle in the vaults. More silver is being mined by man power that could just as well be doing necessary work. Even in wartime the silver bloc is powerful enough to maintain a policy of favoritism that was indefensible even in time of peace.

The debunking of Napoleon may be now regarded as complete. A Nazi pundit, looking into the case, says the fellow was German.—Detroit News.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS TURNS A LEAF.

5th Sept.—Now Labor day is close at hand, when it is my custom to regard summer as over and done with, no matter how warm the weather remains, and will be glad to see it go, for it has been a long, dull season and of late a plague with its dankness and heat. Many people feel sad when the leaves begin to fall, but I always become brisk and chipper and go about my business like a new man.

Am wondering if all the straw hats that will soon be fed to the cows might not be collected and processed into something for the war. Would start a movement along these lines but for the fact that my back porch is cluttered with a large collection of squashed tin cans, ready for salvage but going begging.

Have been rejoicing over the success of our armed forces in the Solomon Islands and on the tail of New Guinea, and am planning to go to the Field museum, where curiosities of those savage lands are on exhibition. Many a time I have dreamed of making a voyage there to see the fuzzy-headed Papuans at their tribal rites, some most gruesome, but have stayed at home reading about them. Our soldiers, when they return, will have better tales to tell than Marco Polo.

Tomorrow night the playgoing season will begin with a song-and-dance frolic called "Best Foot Forward," much esteemed in the eastern metropolis, and I will attend in hope of a lively time, with much gossip among the firstnighters between acts. I understand this is a merry show about youngsters at school, full of high-spirited pranks, and this will be a welcome change from painful dramas about the war. Then to work again on Labor day, putting the best foot forward if possible.

ALTERED PERSPECTIVE.

Cries Youth, impetuous to grow,
"Why are the years so long, so slow?
I've work to do that cannot wait;
Please hurry, Time, or I'll be late!"

Time smiles at Youth's impatient haste.
"Be calm. Be thoro. Haste makes waste.
Those are not years," his look is sly,
"They're minutes trooping slowly by."

"Ah, Time," sighs weary Age at last,
"Those minutes that go flashing past—
Could you not slow them up for me?
My legs aren't what they used to be!"

Grim-visaged Time but wags his head:
"Old Man, I fear you've been misled;
Those are not minutes, gone from sight—
They're years; they have the speed of light!"

Casual.

The Last Word on Black-outs.

Speaking of black-outs, as we all were recently, were you ever lost in a cave without a light?

That is the Ultima Thule in darkness.

Talk about not being able to see your hand before your face! I couldn't even find my hand. I felt merged with the darkness; I was just a piece of black. A very peculiar feeling.

There was a fellow with me. When my flashlight suddenly went dead I yelled, "Are you there?" He was only about five feet away, but yelled back, "I don't know, are you?" And just like he, I answered, "I don't know."

"What the devil is the matter with the flashlight?" he hollered.

"I don't know," I hollered back. "I can't find it."

"Ain't you got it in your hand?"

"Yes, I guess so, but I can't find my hand."

Then we noticed something which really made our breath come in short pants. The echoes of our yells couldn't get out. We were in a sort of a room, the only egress being a tunnel about 18 inches wide. Our yells couldn't find that tunnel. So, "Are you there," "I don't know," "Can't find my hand" kept bouncing back and forth and around until they were jammed worse than a trans-Atlantic phone call.

We uttered not another sound. We didn't want to make things worse. We just sat there for 20 minutes listening to our yells richocheting and caroming off the damp wells. By that time the rest of our gang came back looking for us.

When we left, the yells were still flying around the room and are still doing it, I suppose, unless some one has since funneled them out of there. It happened 25 years ago. Jake Irmiter.

THE ALEUTIANS.

Along the broken trailway whence first came
Bold Indian forebears from the East to West,
Pale warriors strive with dark in mortal game
To prove which hemisphere has fared the best.
Far off in that cold, foggy, misty place
Where Nature's rigors test the stoutest heart,
The bear and seal far more than human race
Have held their own, in that dim realm apart.

Did Destiny intend at Bering strait
That East and West should severed be entire?
Or only till the West could master Fate
And kindle lastingly the sacred fire?
Our fighters must restore that trailway old,
That light and truth unbroken may unfold.

WORK—THE BEST ANTIDOTE FOR THE BLUES.

THERE is so much trouble in the world—so much distress and suffering—that those who are sensitive will be obliged to tighten the reins of control against depressing thoughts. We will be far more efficient if we can maintain vigor, because health, happiness, and accomplishment go hand in hand. It requires the even, steady flow of sound reasoning to make wise decisions and we can school ourselves to avoid the heights as well as the depths.

Whenever gloom becomes overwhelming the first thing we can do is to look to personal well being. A coated tongue may point to a disorder of the alimentary canal. If discomfort is ever present somewhere in the body a wry visage is almost sure to be an accompaniment. The corners of the mouth droop and the eyes will lack luster. The personality of the chronic dyspeptic need not be ours unless we wish it. Upset digestive processes will yield readily to intelligent medical management.

We realize that life at best is a continuing series of ups and downs. If there are frequent descents more courage, more fortitude will be called for. Few of us sense accurately the effect upon vital organs of giving way to despair. Important secretions are reduced, nerves are in a jangle, and the heart beats more rapidly, hence less effectively.

For our own sakes we must not punish our bodies with mental surrender if we would retain their cooperation. Even dumb animals, according to Pavlov, the great Russian physiologist, can grieve themselves into loss of weight akin to starvation. When forced to eat the powers of digestion will be so feeble that food—if not actually rejected—will be absorbed only in part.

The antidote, of course, is work. We can keep so everlastingly busy at something worthwhile that there will be no time for moodiness or self-pity. Apparently this attitude explains the response of the British public since the outbreak of the war. As has been pointed out, there have been fewer admissions in Great Britain to hospitals for the mentally ill than in any previous period. Minor individual weaknesses have been surmounted in the concerted effort to repel a dreadful enemy.

While we cannot become complacent, we can substitute the doctrine of faith in the final result for that of fear. But we are taught that faith without work is sterile, which emphasizes again the value of busy hands. Our zeal for victory will automatically submerge everything that is petty.

In superlative degree we possess the talents needful to establish justice thruout the world. All true patriots should be made participants in deciding momentous questions of public policy. Thoroly convinced that nothing is being neglected, we will have but few occasions for despondency. Reassurance will come, too, when we can know that unselfish love of country actuates the motives of every leader.

We have a citizen army of superb, courageous young men. Imbued with the righteousness of the cause for which they are fighting, their commanders must merit their implicit confidence. Only in such circumstances will high morale banish doubts and anxieties.

JAUNDICE.

T. Y. writes: In what conditions does jaundice occur?

Common causes are: Obstruction to the outflow of bile due to a stone or a catarrhal swelling of the outlet duct; acute irritation of the liver from some toxin [hepatitis]; an infection, such as Weil's disease; a hereditary blood condition in which the red cells are destroyed rapidly, etc. A virus form has been described. In some cases this follows vaccination against yellow fever.

WARPED FINGER.

O. B. writes: Can anything be done for a contraction of the tendon of a finger? I am 62 years old and have had this condition for eight years.

REPLY.

This is probably a mild form of Dupuytren's contraction. If massage and the application of a splint will not stretch the cord, skilled surgery may lengthen it.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

THE CHINESE ASK ARMS.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Re your editorial yesterday, "China's Offensive": Once in Shanghai I was with the 19th route army on the south side of the Wang Poo river across from Chai Pai. I was with my brother Chinese [I'm Irish] behind a machine gun that worked only half the time. We had one gun on a truck. But we woke them up.

Give the Chinese arms and ammunition [not clubs or pitchforks] and we do not have to draft another man. China has better than 475 million people. I will take a Chinese for my friend before all others. Why? I've lived with the Chinese for years. I know that the Chinese are more honorable than any other nationality [my own Irish included]. Give my Chinese brothers the arms and ammunition and they will stand the whole wide world on its tail.

This is from a one-time chief gunner on the U. S. S. Wisconsin. I was at Port Arthur on a Jap ship in the Russo-Jap war. Most of the Jap gunners were Americans from Luzon. M. R. M.

SOME GO TO SEA.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—In the editorial, "The High Sea Navy and the Highball Navy," you either do not know what you are talking about or else you are intrigued with a flashy title. I speak for the fine young men from college and civilian life who are naval reserves — ensigns who complete a difficult and arduous training. Visit Abbott hall or Prairie State in New York and learn. Immediately after graduation they are placed on active duty. One man I know is in charge of bomb disposal at Midway. Others I know are in Australia, India, Russia, and many are overseas on ships. Does that sound as if they enlisted to avoid the draft? F. C. ATWILL.

RIDES FOR SERVICE MEN.

Sandusky, O., Sept. 2.—I have noticed with interest recent comments relative to giving rides to soldiers. In Sandusky two shelter huts have been erected to help men in the armed services secure rides. Signs notify motorists that they are approaching the huts and that they probably will find service men there who are looking for a ride. Red, white, and blue lights are provided so the soldiers can turn on the light at night to show they are waiting for a lift. The city commission authorized placing the huts in city parks. J. R. FICKEL.

ANDY OR STONEWALL?

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 1.—In reference to the mention of an equestrian statue of one of the Jackson boys in today's editorial, "Equestrian Heroes Can Ride Again," Gen. Andrew Jackson was the hero of the battle of New Orleans in 1815. Later he was President. It is his equestrian statue that adorns a park in Washington, D. C. Stonewall Jackson was a Confederate general and it is not likely that there is a statue of him in any park in our national capital. P. E. TRIPPE.

OLDER WORKERS.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—MacArthur is over 60. Clemenceau, Marshal Foch, and Gen. Pershing were of mature age and held very responsible jobs, so why should industry and private employment be so fussy over jobs far less important? F. J. KRIFKA.

WANTS OLDER MEN SENT FIRST.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—It is unfair to the mothers and youth of our country to lower the draft age in order to permit students to sit out the war on a college campus and young married men to hide behind skirts of their wives. Many mothers of boys between 18 and 20 are wives of veterans of the last war and only ask that the draft boards exhaust their list of those between 20 and 45, whether single or married, before lowering the draft age to 18. Why any student should be deferred longer than one year, or married men be exempt, is difficult to understand. JEROME W. JUREWICZ.

CLIPPING COUPONS FOREVER.

Ottawa, Ill., Aug. 31.—Re your editorial, "Little Journey Thru the Bond List," yesterday: You state the cake for remote retirement date goes to the West Shore railroad with their 4s, to be paid off in the year 2361. You are mistaken, it goes to Canadian Pacific 4s. These are perpetual. X.

FUR COATS FOR THE TENANTS.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—If landlords are requested to fill out forms listing their income, why isn't the tenant compelled to fill out a form showing his income? In the majority of cases the tenant's weekly income is larger than the landlord's. Both my tenants are purchasing new fur coats this winter while my fur coat money goes to the painter, plumber, carpenter, etc. A. K.

NO SUGAR FOR JAM.

Wheaton, Ill., Sept. 2.—My neighbor has more grapes than she can possibly use, so she offered me some for jam. I called up and asked for enough sugar for them and I am told I may have one pound per person per year for jams and jellies. So the grapes spoil. E. G. T.

DESTRUCTION OF WILL.

Chicago, Sept. 1 [Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it legal to annul a will by simply destroying the document? The maker of the will has since put the property in joint tenancy with the sole legatee, with right of survivorship.

2. So that means the will no longer serves any purpose. The document has been handed to the legatee with instructions to destroy it.

3. Is it legal for the legatee to destroy it simply or [4] should it be annulled by another instrument in writing to that effect?

5. It is desired to have no will at present to avoid probate formalities, the passing of the property being fully covered by the joint tenancy character of the present ownership.

6. The property consists entirely of securities, no real estate. A. D.

1. Yes.
2. Conceivably he might acquire other real estate or personal property and, if so, the preservation of the will might be desirable.

A national speed roller skating champion, William Hay, 21 years old, 4831 North Kenneth avenue, was among those applying yesterday for enlistment as a naval aviation cadet at the Naval Aviation Cadet board offices in the Board of Trade building.

Hay, a graduate of Von Steuben High school and North Park Junior college, established a national record when he skated a quarter of a mile in 43 seconds.

Campaign for 2,000.

Fifty-two more cadets were sworn in during the 24 hours ended at noon yesterday to bring the total for Chicago's "Fly for Navy" recruiting campaign to 1,054 enlistments. The cadet board reported 261 men have been sworn in this week, compared with 276 last week, record week of the drive. The goal of the campaign is 2,000 cadets in August and September.

Among those accepted yesterday was Harry Stepner, 18, of 5414 Lakewood avenue, who last year placed second among 1,200 competitors in a CMTC rifle marksmanship contest. He was graduated from Senn High school where he was a lieutenant in the ROTC.

46 More Army Cadets.

The army air cadet examining board announced that in the 24 hours ended at noon yesterday 46 additional cadets were sworn in as the halfway mark in the army cadet campaign approached. Since the drive started Sept. 1, 1941, 9,866 cadets have been sworn in. The goal is 20,000 cadets by Jan. 1.

William Sullivan, 19, of 6040 North Menard avenue was among those accepted. He asked to join his brother, James, 21, at the bombardier training school at Midland, Tex. Their father, Charles L. Sullivan was a cavalry master sergeant in the last war. They are the only childre nof Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan.

The United States coast guard yesterday issued a new appeal for competent cooks to apply for enlistment as first class chefs for duty in Chicago stations and on sea assignments. Pay for the men is $114 a month, with $35 for dependents, 20 per cent bonus for sea duty and a bounty of $133 for clothes. Applicants should appear at the United States customs house, 610 South Canal street.

WARTIME POSER: WHERE TO LIVE, WITH CHILDREN

For three months Mrs. Helene Schwartz has been asking landlords who objected to her two children, "Weren't you a child once yourself?" and the answer was always, "Yes, but children nowadays aren't like they used to be."

Mrs. Schwartz, wife of a war plant worker, brought her troubles before Judge Francis Borrelli in Renters court yesterday, where she was a defendant in an eviction case. Her landlady, Mrs. Anna Robic of 2812 South Avers avenue, had given the Schwartz family three months in which to find another dwelling.

Mrs. Robic, it appeared, has her troubles, too. She wants the Schwartz apartment for herself, because her landlord is after her apartment. Mrs. Robic's son is 19, and Mrs. Schwartz' two children, a boy and a girl, are 8 and 3½ years old, respectively. It was all pretty confusing, and Judge Borrelli was moved to comment:

"Of 3,000 cases before me, there are 750 similar to this. What do these landlords think? A man is at work for his country, yet he cannot find a place in which his family can live. The race would be extinct if we quit raising children." He continued the hearing to Oct. 1.

36 MORE TAKEN INTO WAVES FOR OFFICER DRILL

Thirty-six more officer candidates of the women's reserve of the United States naval reserve, the WAVES, have been sworn into class V-9, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. Mary Daily, in charge of feminine officer procurement in the 9th naval district.

The enlistees, of whom seven are Chicago area women, bring to 122 the total of women selected in the district to undergo training as WAVES at Smith college, Northampton, Mass. Graduates will be commissioned lieutenants and ensigns.

Chicago and suburban women in the new group are: Miss Marcella Loessler, 1436 Chase avenue; Mrs. Jessie Phillips Hall, 4 East 111th street; Miss Elizabeth Johnson, 600 Ridge road, Winnetka; Miss Dorothy Whitley, 802 Clinton place, Evanston; Miss Frances Symmes, 150 Malden avenue, La Grange; Miss Dorothy Rowe, 72 East Elm street; Miss Isabel Molloy, 1262 Bryn Mawr avenue, and Miss Esther Hinkamp, 1046 Lake Shore drive.

BARBARA LUDDY, RADIO STAR, TO WED R.N. LE FEVRE

Barbara Luddy, star of the Mutual Broadcasting system's "First Nighter" dramas, will be married Sept. 18 to R. Ned LeFevre, radio actor and announcer, her mother, Mrs. William Thomas Luddy, announced yesterday. Mrs. Luddy, a second lieutenant in the communications corps of the army's fourth interceptor command, came to Chicago from Los Angeles to make the announcement.

The wedding will take place in the Winnetka home of Tom Wallace, who is associated with the production of the "First Nighter" program, and who will give the bride away.

A prenuptial shower will be given for Miss Luddy tomorrow night by Mr. and Mrs. Durward Kirby, and next Sunday she will be accorded a like honor by Mr. and Mrs. Les Tremayne.

KREISLER SONGS WILL BE HEARD ON MELODY HOUR

A medley of melodies by Fritz Kreisler will be sung by Marion Claire, soprano, and Attilio Baggiore, tenor, on America Loves a Melody over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight.

Miss Claire and Baggiore will be joined by the chorus and orchestra in presenting Kreisler's "The Old Refrain," "Stars in My Eyes," and "Caprice Viennois."

Miss Claire will sing two solos—Charles' "Let My Song Fill Your Heart" and Noel Coward's "Someday I'll Find You." She also will be heard in a duet with Baggiore, singing "Ciribiribin" by Pestalozza.

Baggiore will sing "Me and My Shadow" as his solo. Two of the numbers, "Rhapsody in Blue" and "Me and My Shadow" will set the scene for dramatic short stories drawn from $25 prize winning letters from listeners. These letters tell true life stories behind favorite songs.

STUDENTS TO GO ON HARVEST JOBS IN LOS ANGELES

Half Day of Work and Half Day of Study Planned.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 4 (AP).—The board of education today proposed a plan for 40,000 high school students to plug critical gaps in farm and industry labor.

Vierling Kersey, superintendent of schools, said all 108,000 students in the 36 high schools in Los Angeles would register under the plan and be classified. He said those above 16 years and physically fit will attend school half a day and work the other half, starting Sept. 14.

The plan is especially intended to ease critical farm labor shortages. As a result of the internment of Japanese and the shift of workers into the armed services and higher paying defense industries, California's 700 million dollar farm crop is threatened unless civilian help or promised Mexican labor can fill the need.

Prevailing Wages Planned.

Kersey said students will provide their own transportation and will receive the prevailing wage scale.

"No essential work, in either crops or industrial production, which young men and women of school age could perform, will go undone," he said. "The program will be supervised by local school faculties and will last as long as necessary. There will be no exploitation of student labor and no attempt to break any labor markets."

He said the program is not compulsory, but "every boy and girl in high school will be urged to help."

Forty-two Convicts on Job.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 4 [Special.]—Forty-two convicts from Folsom penitentiary were sent to work in the Yolo county sugar beet area today in charge of a guard.

The services of 300 inmates of San Quentin also were offered to California farm operators by Booth B. Goodman, state director of penology.

Convict harvest camps are to be operated on a unit basis, with cost of transportation, food, and other essential supplies provided by the employer.

Mountaineers Go North.

Richwood, W. Va., Sept. 4 (AP).—A migration of mountaineer farmers to garner the tomatoes and peaches of upper New York state began today, with almost 300 volunteers ready to help the food-for-victory drive.

The first contingent of 33 workers left by bus for Rochester, N. Y., and 250 more will go Tuesday—accompanied by their families—on a special train chartered by the Farm Security administration.

Soldier Given Life Sentence for Colorado Slaying

Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 4 (AP).—Pvt. Odas D. Leach, 20 years old, Carthage, Tenn., was sentenced to life imprisonment today after he pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the slaying of Rose Gaffney, 70, a rooming house operator.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The American Way

ADMITS PLOTTING HOLDUP OF TRUCK HE WAS DRIVING

James Gaeta, 24 years old, 715 South Rockwell, admitted to West North avenue police last night that the stickup of his truck which he reported to them earlier had been arranged by himself.

Gaeta, a driver for the Pepsi-Cola company, had told Detectives Kevin Ryan and Jack Lerner that two men stopped his truck at Grand and Western avenues and robbed him of $103.

Discrepancies in Gaeta's story aroused the detectives' suspicion, and when they threatened to subject him to a lie detector test he confessed that he had arranged to be robbed. He named his brother, Frank Galto, 22, of 2210 Harrison street, and Sam Belmonte, 18, of 1012 South Western avenue, as his accomplices. They were arrested and, police said, admitted their parts in the robbery. Riding with Gaeta was his Negro helper, Willy Sturgeon, who was not involved. Gaeta said that he had served time in the Bridewell for robbery.

KILLS HIMSELF AS PHONOGRAPH PLAYS A DIRGE

While the phonograph played Tschaikowsky's dirge, "None but the Lonely Heart," Curtis Kull, 30 years old, a war plant worker, sat drinking beer and writing a note to his mother in which he said:

"Here's why I did it. Listen to the record. Here goes one heel who had enough nerve to end it all when it got too bad."

A minute later a neighbor heard a gunshot explosion from the apartment in which Kull lived with his parents at 6559 South Maplewood avenue and found Kull dead on a sofa, with a large bullet wound in his head and a shotgun and a half empty bottle of beer beside him.

Police said they had been informed Kull had recently been classified 1-A in the army for possible induction in November.

Cogdell was arrested July 30 by a police squad after three other policemen reportedly agreed to accept a $50 bribe from him and did not arrest him and his wife, Charlotte. The three officers later were suspended.

Police said that Cogdell had stolen a car owned by a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent in New Orleans, La., July 17, and driven it here.

BOMBERS TALK IN NEW DEVICE FOR RECRUITING

Dive bombers that talk thru the medium of Sonovox, a new invention that gives words to the sounds of animals, inanimate objects, and musical instruments, will pour out recruiting messages over radio stations starting next week.

Lieut. Comm. Carl G. Olson, senior member of the naval aviation cadet selection board, and associated naval officers approved use of the device after a demonstration yesterday in the Sonovox offices at 180 North Michigan avenue. There they watched Miss Julie Kimberling give voice to roaring bombers. They heard the throbbing motors change into a vocal outcry of "Scratch a Flat Top," zooming finally into the words "Fly for Navy."

These sonorous voices are brought forth with the aid of recordings which transmit the sound to the articulator's mouth thru two instruments resembling earphones which are applied to the throat. The articulator then brings forth the speech merely by shaping her palate, tongue, teeth, and lips to form the words desired. She does not actually speak them. Thus the recorded sound of motors, or a fog horn or a calliope may be molded to say anything wanted.

The recordings will be distributed to all radio stations in this area.

ACCOUNTING FIRM PARTNER INHALES CAR FUMES, DIES

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 4 [Special].—Francis P. Byerly, 52 years old, a senior partner in the accounting firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co., was found dead early today in the garage of his home on Mulberry lane, Bowling Green, near Media. Police said he had committed suicide by inhaling carbon monoxide from the exhaust of his car.

A housekeeper discovered his body after she had gone to call him for breakfast and found a note in his room informing her that he was in the garage and that she should summon a doctor. A physician said he had been dead for several hours.

His wife was understood to have been returning from a visit in Minnesota, and a son, Robert D., to be on overseas duty with the Canadian army.

Byerly, once Chicago manager of his firm, which has branches in most large cities, had his office in New York. He was a Harvard university graduate.

The registration, required by the federal rent regulation, ended officially Sept. 1 and all forms received since then have been marked "late."

Howard said tenants should start receiving copies of the statements within a month and will be given 15 days to challenge the landlord's information.

Mrs. Betty Jane Sheehan, 24 years old, of Waukegan, who is serving a 90 day sentence in the Lake county jail for concealing the death of an infant, yesterday lost another child—thru a court order.

Circuit Judge J. Ralph Dady modified a previous order dividing custody of Mrs. Sheehan's first child, Thomas, 7, between her and her divorced husband, Robert J. Sheehan, and granted sole custody to Sheehan.

Mrs. Sheehan, under the new order, may visit the child occasionally. She was convicted last Tuesday of throwing her stillborn child into the Des Plaines river.

EVANSTON BUSES START WAR TIME SKIP-STOP PLAN

A skip-stop plan eliminating 75 bus stops will be inaugurated by the Evanston Bus company Monday, Grant C. Bergsland, vice president, announced yesterday. Bergsland said the reduction of 20 per cent in stops is being made to conform with a request of the Office of Defense Transportation in Washington, D. C.

The ODT recently suggested that all bus companies cut out stops so that the average distance between them would be at least 600 feet. The suggestion was made in an effort to save tires and gasoline.

Merrill C. Knox, Chicago consultant for the ODT, said the possibility of skipping stops on Chicago bus lines is being studied, but no decision has been reached. He said results in Evanston and other smaller cities which have cut out stops may help to decide what steps should be taken in Chicago.

WARN CABS THEY MUST TAKE CITY LONG HAUL FARES

Cab drivers who are attempting to stretch their rationed mileage coupons by refusing long trips within the city will be discharged and their licenses suspended or revoked, cab company officials and John A. Szumnarski, public vehicle license commissioner, said yesterday.

Szumnarski said he had received several complaints from persons who wanted to hire cabs for trips exceeding four miles, but were refused service in violation of a city ordinance.

The cab officials said several hundred drivers have been discharged because of poor driving records, or have quit because they felt their rationed quotas were inadequate. The quotas were adopted Tuesday by the companies to cut total mileage to 1941 levels.

Before James departs, he and Raquel declare their love for each other. When James visits Pascual, he feels the man has changed from the worthless man he had once been. James visits Pascual, he feels the man has changed from the worthless man he had once been. James fails to get news of Juanito but learns that Pascual's cousin, La Paquita, a famous woman spy, is about to be executed. In the meantime Rosemary's father has unwittingly taken pictures of a frontier pass used by the Whites and members of the White organization have stolen copies of the pictures. Mr. Oldhead reports the theft and the pass is closed. Rosemary and her parents visit a cave under the frontier and Rosemary notices steps worn on a rock leading to the Spanish side. Outside the cave she encounters an aristocratic young man in peasant clothes. She is suspicious that he is spy No. 17. In Spain, James talks to La Paquita just before her execution and she tells him how he can get news of Juanito. James learns both Juanito and the duquesa are White spies. Returning to France, James tells Raquel this news and also that Pascual is being exchanged for a Red prisoner and will soon be free. Raquel offers her love but he refuses after a battle with his conscience.

INSTALMENT XXX.

BITTER REFUSAL.

The next morning was again fine and sunny. Altho not warm, there was a keen wind. Rosemary went off for her sail, and about 11, Milcom and the condesa, in the car, drove out on the coast road to Hendaye. When they had gone about a third of the way they left the car and walked along the cliffs.

There are combes, some deep, some shallow, breaking the line of the cliffs here, and in one of these, as James had expected, they found a sunny hollow facing seaward, in the sun and out of the wind, where they could sit. There they settled themselves down on James' coat, spread on the thick tufted grass. Taking her hand, he looked searchingly into her face.

"Raquel, you believe that I love you, don't you?"

"Yes—that I do believe," she said, her eyes on his.

"Well, go on believing it," he said, almost roughly—"but listen to what I say, and you must believe that, too." She nodded in assent.

"How long is it since you last saw Pascual?" he asked abruptly.

She reckoned. "It was in that hospital, in August. No, September of '36. He was wounded near the end of August and we went to see him when we heard, at the beginning of September."

"So you haven't seen or spoken to him for over two years?"

"No—it is so."

"Nor had letters from him?"

"Except the notes you brought me, no."

He paused, thinking how to make her understand what she had got to understand, if she was to accept the situation as he saw it.

"Did you ever read the 'Confessions of St. Augustine?'" he asked her.

She stared at him. "No—at least I don't remember it. Why?"

"Or the 'Life of St. Francis of Assisi,' then?"

"Yes—we had all the lives of the saints read to us at the convent, of course, but I forget them rather."

"Perhaps they didn't tell you their early lives in great detail, in the convent," said James, with his grim smile. "But surely you must remember that both St. Augustine and St. Francis were frightfully wild as young men, drinking and sleeping around and all the rest. They say St. Francis was put in prison at least once. Did they tell you that?"

"That they began as rather wicked, yes—at least St. Augustine."

"And then you know what happened—in each case something came along that changed their direction, as it were, and opened their eyes to a reality that they had never seen, and they turned and followed their reality, and became saints."

"Yes. And so?"

"That is what has happened to Pascual, that's all."

"To Pascual? But you are being funny, no?" she said, staring at him.

"Indeed, I am not. I wish, God forgive me, it weren't true.

"But it is. Pascual has changed his direction, while he's been in prison, as completely as St. Francis and St. Augustine changed theirs. If he isn't a saint yet, he's well on the road to it."

"It seems impossible," she said slowly, staring out to sea.

"Now, look here, Raquel, darling," James said, "we have never discussed your husband, but I haven't lived in Spain for so long without getting a very fair idea of what he used to be like. I know that he was constantly unfaithful to you, that he spent your money as well as his own, that he entertained his mistresses in your houses, and gave them your family jewels, and that altogether after the first he treated you about as badly as a man could. That he was ever actually cruel to you I doubt. But that he caused you all the pain possible by the moral cruelty of neglect and humiliation I am sure. Is that about right?"

"Yes. It was so. I did not know that you knew all this."

"Everybody knew it—that was what I couldn't forgive him," James said savagely. "You can't have any conception of how I hated having to go and see him the first time, feeling as I did about you."

"I did not know," she murmured—"dear one, I did not know."

"I know—it didn't matter. But now you understand what a shock it was when I did see him, and found him all set for turning into a saint."

"But how can this have happened? That I cannot comprehend," she said.

"Well, to begin with, I believe that for the first time in his life he began to think. He'd never given himself time to do that before. He just rushed around with women, and fished and raced and shot. But in prison, with nothing on earth to do but chip away at fruit stones, you have a hell of a lot of time for thinking. I don't fancy that Pascual is particularly intelligent," James observed candidly. And even in her distress and deepening anxiety, Raquel laughed—"but such mind as he had, he used, for the first time in his life, on something beyond how to gratify the next desire."

"But you might not have known him!" she exclaimed.

"I do know him. And the next thing," James went on, "was that he was boxed up day and night with a lot of poor toads from the bottom of society, not the top—the sort of people he'd never noticed before, and they taught him a lot, too—and he was humble enough to learn from them and to like them."

"It is extraordinary," she murmured.

"That's what I tell you. It is most extraordinary. And then there was the book. He decided to try to learn English, or go on with it, in prison, and he got the jailer to bring him an English book. And of all things the jailer fetched him 'Jude the Obscure.' Do you know it?"

"No. What sort of book is it?"

"Who wrote a book called 'Tessa Something?'"

"That's the man. If you've read 'Tess' you know a bit of his really frightening penetration, of his remorselessness about human life, and his power. It's the story of a poor boy who had a passion for books and learning, and for Oxford, the heart and center of English learning. He gets there, after great struggles, and begins to learn—and then he falls in love with a girl called Sue, a school teacher, poor like himself, and they live together and have children. And that destroys his chance of studying, and it all ends in tragedy. O, it's no good trying to tell you about it in a few words," said James impatiently, "but the main point for Pascual, I think, was Sue's character. And Jude's. The whole thing is described with a sort of terrible faithfulness—the combination of realism and tragic poetic sense that was Hardy's strong suit. Anyhow, Pascual has been reading this book over and over again, studying it, line by line and word by word, and—plus his bus driver fellow prisoners, of course—it has opened his eyes to the reality of life in classes other than his own, and to the beauty and terror of love."

"It is extraordinary," Raquel said again. She sat very still. "Go on, please, James."

"Naturally, as he had begun to think at last, Pascual started comparing his own life with the lives of Jude and Sue—and his own love, too. And he saw then what a poor wretched thing, judged by any ultimate standards, his life was compared with theirs."

"He didn't tell you this?" Raquel interjected.

"Most certainly he did. He used the words 'a poor, mean life' about himself."

She sat back. "I can't understand it."

"Yes, but darling, you've got to take it. It is so. He has seen a lot more, too," James went on, his voice becoming strained. "He sees quite clearly at last how atrociously he has behaved to you, and he wants to—to repear that injury."

"How?" Her voice was very small, indeed.

"By living with you again and treating you decently; loving you, actually, now that he has learned what love means. His whole soul, the soul he has just found, is set on that. He knows nothing about us, remember. He's extraordinarily humble about it, but he wants to try."

"You mean"—her voice was hardly above a whisper—"that possibly I should go back to him again, and live with him as his wife, and give up—you?"

"Just exactly that," he said doggedly, his face set. He did not look at her as he spoke; he looked away at the sea, where a small white sail had crept into the blue triangle between the green walls of the combe. "He ought to have his chance," he said.

Suddenly she did a thing that in all those months of danger, strain, and distress he had never seen her do. She burst into loud and violent sobbing.

"O, no, no, no!" she cried out in a voice terribly loud; the syllables were cut by the sobs into a series of horrible staccatos—"O, no, no, no!" She sprang to her feet and ran away down the slope toward the edge of the cliff, still sobbing and calling out "No"; she stumbled as she ran, a pitiful black figure, in flight from the unendurable.

Renewed Faith Urged as Cure for World Ills

Contending that the ills of the world can be cured only by a return to religion, the Rev. Gerald Ellard of the Society of Jesus declared yesterday that the Atlantic Charter is silent on the subject of freedom of worship.

Father Ellard, professor of liturgical theology at St. Mary's college, St. Mary's, Kas., spoke at an afternoon session of the Chicago Summer School of Catholic Action in the Morrison hotel. The school, which opened Monday and will close at noon today, attracted more than 2,000 college professors, teachers, and college and high school students from 20 states.

"Regarding the social question which will be presented in the post-war period in a form more acute than ever, our predecessors and we ourselves have set forth principles for its solution," Father Ellard said. "It is, however, well to bear in mind that these principles can be followed in their entirety and bear their fullest fruits only when statesmen and people, employers and employés are animated by faith in a personal God, the legislator and judge.

"For this reason we are unable to understand why it is that countless deliberate obstacles bar the way to the message of the Christian faith and why the Atlantic Charter is silent on the subject of freedom of worship."

Father Ellard quoted Pope Pius XII's Christmas eve allocution which declared that the solution of the world's troubles would be found in a return to God.

The same theme was reiterated in another talk by the Rev. Richard L. Rooney of Boston, Mass., author and lecturer.

"In a world that has forgotten God, we find a war which is destroying men," he said. "In a world that has laughed faith off the stage, we find more mental hospitals than that world has ever seen before. In a world which has forgotten religion, we find rottenness rife. Maybe we had better get back to all the old ideas after all."

Women in War Work

By Gladys Priddy

Becoming a woman in war work is often the simple procedure of continuing to turn in a conscientious performance of one's peacetime task. This fact, with one exception, is true of the production lines at the Cinch Manufacturing corporation, 2335 Van Buren street, where the nearly 300 women employés [several of whom are pictured at work on this page] make fasteners for curtains on jeeps and reconnaissance cars, parts for military communications equipment, parts for gas mask assembly, and other items for chemical warfare and ordnance.

Nearly all these items were made a year ago for peacetime radio and automotive markets. Only one line, a soldering bay, has been newly installed for the war effort. There a score of women work over a set of tiny but vital articles for the navy and air corps.

The Cinch company does no assembling. Labels in the shipping room direct orders to important war industries. But photostatic copies of letters sent to the big companies and kindly passed on to the smaller supply sources are posted in the light, airy workrooms. These letters testify that equipment made on Van Buren street went with Gen. Jimmy Doolittle on his trip to Tokio and with the planes making rescues at Bataan. The little west side company is in the position of the man behind the man behind the gun—and very important.

Women oldest in the company's service are likely to be found at the assembly table devoted to the Cinch fastener, the item upon which the corporation was founded. The parent organization was a carburetor company. Its officers and employés, in common with other automobile drivers of World War I. period, had their patience sorely tried by the old fashioned automobile side curtain fasteners. One day in 1920 W. G. Roby, who is vice president of the Cinch company; Louis Vodicka, now foreman of the automatic punch press department, and his brother, the late John Vodicka, sat down and designed a better fastener.

They took it to their attorney to apply for a patent. He operated the new gadget, exclaimed, "That's a cinch!"—and the name was born. As closed cars became more popular, the fastener business fell off; the company turned to radio parts. Now there are orders for fasteners once more; they'll do their old job of fastening leather to metal—for cowling on airplanes and various parts of steamships and destroyers, as well as on motorized army units.

Women at the plant are paid hourly rates; they are averaging 46 hours a week, receiving time and a half for time over 40 hours. The pay scale increases over a five year period. One girl who went to work in June, 1941, is averaging $26.26 a week now. Contentment with both salaries and working conditions is proved by the company's very small employé turnover and the front door sign, "No Help Wanted."

Because the women have clean jobs they do not wear uniforms. Typical summer attire is a light cotton frock, protected by a bright gingham apron.

A job with a double A priority—coveted rating—is the particular responsibility of a two-girl production line. The girls are sisters, Vivian and Eleanor. Vivian is 19 and a Cinch employé of 18 months; Eleanor is a veteran of seven years. They make a vital aircraft part.

Lillian Callahan has been at Cinch eight years working on different kinds of riveting machines. Pearl Smith, who solders banana pins, says she's been at Cinch for two years and likes factory work. She is a former telephone operator and supervisor and was once a railroad reservations clerk.

While keeping up production, the women listen to radio programs. They can keep an ear cocked for plant news as deduced from messages on the public address system. The day shift is from 8 until 4. Other shifts keep the plant operating 24 hours a day.

Refreshment on relief periods is available at coke and peanut machines. The original company has expanded to require the use of a second building, a converted garage, and additional rented space.

This story is written under the banner, Women in War Work, but men at the factory must be mentioned. Men do the metal plating—the company does all of its own except chrome. Master craftsmen and apprentices are in the company tool and die-making shop where the boast is that all the workers need is a block of steel and a blueprint.

Men operate the larger machines, several of which require master machanists just to set them up. German made machines, labeled Emil Linde-Wuppertal Barmen, are pushed full speed ahead in the war effort against the axis. When these machines were purchased 12 years ago, their capacity to produce 20,000 pieces an hour was the greatest available. Now there are American made machines—Cinch has them also—that can outdo that record.

The toolmakers are averaging 57 hours a week in their war effort. R. G. Kimbell Jr., Cinch personnel manager, says that employés as a unit average 7 per cent pay roll war bond savings; many wear the 10 per cent pin. The factory flies a treasury department Minute Man flag.

Many of the women are working with double interest these days. Their patriotism is heightened by having brothers, sweethearts, or husbands in service. One girl has four brothers in uniform. She is a top notch operator on an apparatus designed in the Cinch drafting room to turn out a special pin for the navy.

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and answers questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Frances Reid Clow to Become Bride of Ensign Bowers Today

An event of interest in Lake Forest that will keep friends of the Kent S. Clows in town for the early part of the Labor day week-end at least is the marriage today of their pretty young daughter, Frances Reid Clow, and Ensign Lloyd Thomas Bowers. The bride is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow of Lake Forest. Ensign Bowers is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilson Bowers of New York.

Visiting friends and relatives of the young pair are filling Lake Forest homes to overflowing. Mr. and Mrs. Bowers are here, and so are Mr. and Mrs. Bowers Jr. of Pittsburgh, the Randolph Masons of New York, Mrs. Clow's sister, Mrs. Harrison Hoblitzelle, and Mr. Hoblitzelle and their son, George, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Bowers' brother, Arthur Hellen of Washington, D. C. The bride's maternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Breckinridge Jones of St. Louis.

Miss Ellen Bowers, sister of the bridegroom, is to be the maid of honor, and the bride's sister, Mrs. W. Burke Williamson [Elise Hamill Clow], has come from California to be matron of honor. Miss Shirley Hopkins, Miss Diana Hill, Miss Sally Robbins, Miss Mary Cornelia Aldis, and Miss Dudley Winston are the bridesmaids.

Ensign Bowers, who is teaching at the naval reserve training school at Northwestern university, has obtained a leave so that he and his bride may have a wedding trip before returning to their Lake Forest house. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Douglas are giving a luncheon party today for the out of town guests and the wedding attendants. The wedding will take place at 5 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church, Lake Forest, with the Rev. W. Oliver Brackett officiating. A reception will follow at the Clow home.

Refuge Zone.

Dorothy Smith overheard a woman customer ask one of the young co-eds in a department store college shop the meaning of a wall sign reading "Refuge Zone 8th Floor." "O," replied the college girl brightly, "that is the place where you take your old rubber and salvage."

Please, Not Tonight!

Golden the moon, clustered by silver stars,
Wanton the breeze . . darling, don't touch me, please!
Just sit here with me and dream . . . and dream . . . remember
You taught me to dream about such things as these.
See how the Milky Way has draped the heavens
In a bride's veil of sheer and mystic white . . .
Ages ago, when hand touched hand . . . remember
Our silent ecstatic joy . . . please, not tonight!

With no word spoke, your dear eyes once had fashioned
Exquisite dreams . . . then just as silently,
You pulled the threads and left them all a-dangle
Beyond reweaving now by you or me.
Even the moon, in wonder or in sorrow,
Hides his wise face, refuses us his light . . .
Maybe I'd better go, no longer guided
By dreams that have lost their way . . . darling . . . good night.
—El Jar.

Schedule.

In the mail:

"Every Wednesday evening just before 6 o'clock a young boy dressed in a uniform of royal blue and gold can be seen dashing thru the North Western station to the suburban track, carrying an instrument case, his cap and necktie tucked into his back pockets. After many weeks our curiosity was so aroused that we ventured to ask him about his weekly trip. His name is Leslie Woelfin, and he is solo clarinet player for the Proviso Township High school band in Maywood, which gives a concert every Wednesday night. Leslie works in a loop restaurant daytimes, and after 5:45 he has to change to his band uniform and make the 6 o'clock. My friends and I think this young lad deserving of mention, as an example to many of us who do not adhere to our duties with such enthusiasm." —D. I. R. of Maywood.

Consideration.

Mrs. Eugene F. McDonald, who is spending the summer and early fall in the Col. Yaschenko cottage at Sister Bay, Wis., writes that her neighbors, the Frederick Stocks, have refrained from using their fireplace, even on crisp, cool evenings. Reason: A family of cheeping baby swallows nesting in the chimney. Mrs. McDonald hopes, for the Stocks' sake, that the fledglings take flight before frost.

Comparison.

Pauline Manchester, who, in addition to being a member of the faculty of the Northwestern university school of music, gives private lessons, felt called upon the other day to reprimand gently a little fellow who apparently hadn't practiced his lesson. He explained that a distant relative had died, so he had not had time to practice. When Miss Manchester asked him to convey her sympathy to the family, the youngster replied, "Your sympathy, heck. Who do you think we got sympathy from? Mayor Kelly."

Ask Chicago Women for 1,274,000 Pounds of Greases a Month

The War Production board conservation division officials have assigned Chicago housewives a waste fat collection quota of 1,274,000 pounds a month. Chicago's annual quota is 15,288,000 pounds, and the state quota is 32,000,000 pounds. Mrs. Walter J. Kelly, OCD director of waste fat salvage, says that city dwellers are expected to supply more waste fats than are country residents. Nathaniel Leverone, Illinois WPB salvage director, said the quotas were made by estimating a per capita yearly collection of 2.8 pounds from farm dwellers and 4.5 pounds from city residents.

By May Tinée.

Good morning!

Aha! "Holiday Inn" gives me ideas!

IF the cows and the chickens and the potatoes and sech don't come thru with a living on the farm we plan to adjourn to one of these days, why—we'll just put the old farm house to work! ON HOLIDAYS ONLY. . . . And clean up a fortune—IF, well—for "ifs" see this picture—and what happens to Bing Crosby.

He impersonates a stage star who, as the film opens, is about to quit the bright lights for the simple joys a farm has to offer and who learns how NOT to live a life of leisure amid bucolic pleasures. . . .

"Holiday Inn" is like a clean, fresh, sweet scented wind, blowing away stale doldrums caused by a session of rum movies. . . . When you have Bing Crosby or Fred Astaire alone you have sumpin'. When you get them together and teamed up with as luscious a pair of singing and dancing girls you should ever hope to see, why THERE'S something decidedly plus. THEN, when you add to the already delightful concoction a bright and unusual story, gay tunes, fascinating dancing that's "different"—see Astaire's fire cracker number!—why you have a dish guaranteed to tickle the movie palate of ANY film fan.

Speaking of those girls, I especially had in mind Marjorie Reynolds. She is most unusual. A woman of deep and definite charm. A lovely woman mentally as well as physically, unless the face of her is a greater liar than any face I've seen. AND an actress. . . .

Thruout the picture Messrs. Crosby and Astaire are rivals. . . . But NOT according to familiar pattern. . . . So much for that. Now refer to the first paragraph and the "holidays only" and, if you're bright, you'll foresee what a background for original songs and dancing American holidays and a spacious old farmhouse do provide. . . .

With these for clews — and the promise that any great expectations I have aroused re this movie will be realized to the full by you, dear reader, when you see "Holiday Inn"—I close the chapter—wishing you a very happy week-end.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 4.—Marlene Dietrich, who expects to do a musical on Broadway, may land in the big city in competi- with her own daughter, Maria Manton. Maria's made quite a name for herself here, and has had several stage offers. She doesn't give a darn about films at present. . . . The Spewaks, Kurt Weill, and Ogden Nash are doing Marlene's show, and Dietrich, who's doing "Pittsburgh" with Randolph Scott and John Wayne, said she got off to a good start in "Destry Rides Again." But if she continues with that kind of story, she'll go right back into oblivion again. Too many "Spoilers" will spoil the gravy.

Marlene Dietrich.

Always Belittlin'.

Because Bob Hope's picture, "They Got Me Covered," bears the same title as the story of his life, which sold more than 3 million copies, there'll be a foreword on the screen which reads: "Any resemblance between the character in this film and me is entirely fictional—[signed] Bob Hope." He might have used the same foreword for the story of his life. . . . After Hope watched David Butler give his own particular performance, while directing Dorothy Lamour, Bob cracked, "It's good to know that the spirit of Lon Chaney still lives and breathes—in the body of David Butler." . . . In one week, Dennis Morgan's wife gave birth to a baby boy, his mother broke her leg, his dog, Bruce, got an eye infection. So Denny's walking around with his fingers crossed, hoping he won't be next.

On Welcoming Committee.

Tallulah Bankhead will appear with Helen Hayes and Katharine Cornell in "Stage Door Canteen." It will be Tallulah's first appearance on the screen in about 10 years. And since she made that vow, when England entered the war, that she wouldn't take a drink until they'd won it [and she's kept it], she looks terrific. . . . Carole Landis is stuck with three Great Danes that are eating her out of house and home. She gave an interview, saying how much she loved her Great Dane, so fans sent her two more. She gave one to be trained for war work, and got home from the studio and found another happily sitting on her porch—A. W. O. L. When she tried to give that for defense, too, she was told the dog's I. Q. was too low—it was just a home lover, and she'd have to keep it!

More's the Pity.

Walter Hampden had to do a scene not to his liking in "Mark Twain" when he had to tell Frederic March, who plays Twain, that he's no writer at all and doesn't know what a good writer means. Well, after the scene, Walter came over to me and said, "You know, Hedda, I met Twain once, after I'd finished a performance of 'Stranger in the House' in 1908. Twain came backstage, wearing that famous white suit, hair shaggy, and tears in his eyes, and told me how much he'd enjoyed the play. That was two years before his death, and one of my dearest memories. I never thought I'd live to belittle him—not even in a movie." Well, we do strange things here. And among them is not recognizing the quality of a man like Hampden. In "Northwest Mounted" he played an Indian and grunted. In "Reap the Wild Wind" he was an irascible, howling ship owner. Yet when I played with Walter in "Be Calm, Camilla" in New York, he was doing special matinées of "Hamlet," and before he went in our play, doubled next door in "Redemption" for an actor friend down with pneumonia. Here, if any one knew he made "Cyrano De Bergerac" famous, they've probably forgotten, for, unlike the theater, we have no traditions.

Stage Notes

"This Is the Army," Irving Berlin's celebrated soldier show, will be seen in Chicago at the Civic Opera house for two weeks beginning on Jan. 4, 1943. The production was staged by Sergt. Ezra Stone. The dialog is by Pvt. James MacColl. Pvt. Robery Sidney and Corp. Nelson Barclift created the dances. Pvt. John Koenig designed the settings and costumes. The cast of 300 soldiers includes, in addition to Mr. Berlin and Sergt. Stone, a long list of performers, many of whom were well known on the Broadway stage in civilian life. The show is now on view at the Broadway theater in New York, where every performance has sold out since the opening on July 4. The cross-country tour begins on Sept. 29 in Washington, D. C.

"Spring Again," the comedy starring Grace George and C. Aubrey Smith, has been selected as the second subscription play of the Theater Guild and American Theater society. It opens at the Selwyn theater on Oct. 12. The first subscription play, already announced, is "Junior Miss," coming to the Harris on Sept. 21.

Outing associates of E. V. Manuel, whose outings also are scheduled on the OCD physical fitness program, will leave today on a three day week-end to Druce lake in the Greys lake district.

The North Shore Hiking clubs will leave the Winnetka Northwestern depot at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow on a five mile hike thru Buffalo Grove. Beef Bordelaise.
[Serves six.]

2 pounds round steak, sliced thin
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped fine
1 large onion, sliced thinly
2 teaspoons salt
Black pepper
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup parsley, chopped finely
2 anchovies, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped suet or other fat
¼ cup fat

Cut steak into 12 pieces. Combine remaining ingredients, with the exception of the ¼ cup fat, and mix well. Spread over the pieces of meat and roll each carefully and tightly, fastenings with skewers or string. Dust with flour and brown well on all sides in ¼ cup fat. Add ½ cup water, cover, and simmer gently for 2 hours, or until tender. Thicken drippings to make gravy, and serve over meat rolls.

These baked onions would be good with the beef bordelaise. And would they make a tasty variation of the traditional Thanksgiving onion dish! You might save the recipe with this day in mind.

Baked Onions.
[Serves six.]

1½ pounds dry onions
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons butter, melted
½ cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup grated American cheese

Slice onions thin and cook in boiling, salted water until tender, about 10 minutes. Drain, add salt and Worcestershire sauce to butter and pour over onions, stirring carefully until onions are well coated. Place in buttered baking dish and top with bread crumbs and cheese. Bake 15 minutes, or until lightly browned, in a hot [400 degree] oven. Serve immediately.

Southern Fried Chicken.
[Serves four.]

2½ pound spring chicken
1 lemon
Salt, pepper, flour
1 cup vegetable shortening [about]

Cut up chicken, wipe with damp cloth. Sprinkle with juice from lemon, rubbing well over surface of chicken. Cover and store overnight in refrigerator. Remove from refrigerator at least one hour before ready to fry. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dip lightly in flour. Fry in hot fat until golden brown, turning once during frying. Serve immediately.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

To the Rescue.

In the event you might not realize that the readers of this column take care of various and sundry matters with astonishing celerity: Irwin J. Kirsch forwards some catalogs of leathercraft, weaving crafts, fiber crafts, etc., for Betty, the victim of the one-girl office with an absentee boss. Any day now the boss may return from Washington, D. C., to be confronted with a hand loom for weaving, which, incidentally, was the hobby of Adm. Richard E. Byrd's secretary. . . . He was away much of the time, too, you know.

Between Floors.

At least we know what the elevator operator thinks about between floors. One of the newly installed girl elevator operators at St. Luke's hospital has written an article for the St. Luke's News concluding:

"We are not nearly so isolated as you would think. We learn of the changes in the weather by observing our passengers and their remarks. We can always tell the approximate hour [the solid line of 'down' lights indicates lunch time]. We share and appreciate the moods of our passengers, the happy yet distraught expectant father, the quiet tension of a worried visitor, the happy smiles of those whose relatives have passed the 'turning point.'

"Being human, we get together and compare notes. . . . We appreciate those friendly chuckles and kind remarks you make [and we remember the frowns and belligerent gestures]. We're just like you. All of us, more than anything, like to hear a 'thank you,' and we don't like to be asked about our 'ups and downs.'"

Point of View.

Our Washington correspondent writes that he has been pondering, of late, the fate of the career girl. In fact, he thinks the business girls all should get married and be quick about it; otherwise he can see no hope for them. Before he left our town recently, he took a bright young woman out for cocktails and, in that chummy frame of mind which assails the most reserved of men, asked her frankly what she thought she would be like 20 years hence. She ran away from the question like a frightened rabbit.

Alas, such a question places the white collar girl in a tight spot! Not being a purveyor of the perfect retort—seldom thinking of it till too late, if at all—she must, of necessity, leave the testimony on behalf of the career girl to others, with these few queries:

What sane human being can state calmly what he—or she—will be 20 years hence?

Why assume that she, accustomed to using her heart and her head, will be any less well equipped to cope with the future?

Evening Classes.

Going back to school this fall? Registration for the Jones Commercial school—a public school with free evening classes in business courses—will be held on Sept. 10 and 11. Classes begin on Sept. 14. The school is at 607 Plymouth court. There is no charge except a $5 registration fee, which is refunded to those taking purely clerical courses and refunded in part [$2.50] to those taking courses in business machine operation. A letter to the school, or to the board of education or a telephone call to Dearborn 7801 will bring detailed information about the subjects to be offered this fall.

The Robert Tarrants are among those entertaining at the Big Foot Country club's dance tonight in Lake Geneva. The Indian Hill club is giving its September dancing party next Saturday night. Miss Marjorie Lindsay is the club's new woman's golf champion. The men's championship will be decided this week-end. The finals of the tennis tournament also are in progress. The club plans to serve a buffet luncheon on Monday.

Today brings the annual Fruits of Labor party of the Barrington Hills Country club. Members bring produce from their farms or victory gardens as entry fees in the golf tournament, and these items—usually ranging from a bull calf to a bushel of tomatoes—will be given as prizes.

Golfers in the Barrington neighborhood who have children who ride will absent themselves from the links tomorrow afternoon to watch the annual Round Barn Horse show, put on by the riding youngsters of that area. The barn is located on Orville S. Caesar's property. Adults will take part in the show for the first time this year in a special driving class.

South Shore Club Having Golf Tournament Monday.

The South Shore Country club's favorite golf tournament for the President's trophy will be played on Monday. Dancing on the outdoor terrace, weather permitting, will conclude the Labor day events at the South Shore.

A card from the Tavern brings the home-y note that the club will be closed on Sunday for necessary repairs in the kitchen, but that service as usual will be resumed by noon on Monday.

The seventh annual Lake Forest Dahlia show will be held today and tomorrow at the Lake Forest Day school gymnasium. The North Shore Dahlia society and the Lake Forest Garden club are giving the show. The proceeds will go to the Lake Forest Defense Recreation cottage. Mrs. W. Roy Carney, Mrs. Albert D. Farwell, and Mrs. Thomas A. Connors are acting as an advisory committee. Judging arrangements will be Mrs. James Simpson, Mrs. Edward L. Hasler and Mrs. Charles Henkle. Chairman of the show is Alfred Elde.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert T. Wheeler [Sherli-Jane Weaver] are being congratulated on the birth of their second son yesterday at St. Luke's hospital. The baby is a grandson of Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler.

Harvey of Duxbury, Mass., formerly of Brookline, Mass. The wedding will take place on Oct. 17. Miss Brown has been foreign secretary of the International Student Service in New York since being graduated from Mount Holyoke in 1940. Mr. Harvey is a graduate of Amherst and is taking special training in administration in government in Washington, D. C., where he and his bride will live.

Mr. and Mrs. George Frederick Brown of Glencoe announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to Corp. Breadon Homer Kellogg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Breadon Warren Kellogg of Evanston. Miss Brown is a graduate of DePauw university and her fiancé was graduated from Beloit. Corp. Kellogg is now overseas with the army.

The Housewife

For a change, try using a dish cloth made of paper. It is so treated, however, that it does not act a bit like paper. It's soft and pliable, when wet, and seems so much more sanitary than a cotton dish cloth, is it has no crevices to hide dirt, grease, or germs. Use it with soaps and washing compounds as you do any other dish rag. Packed three in an envelope for a dime, each of these cloths is good for several weeks.

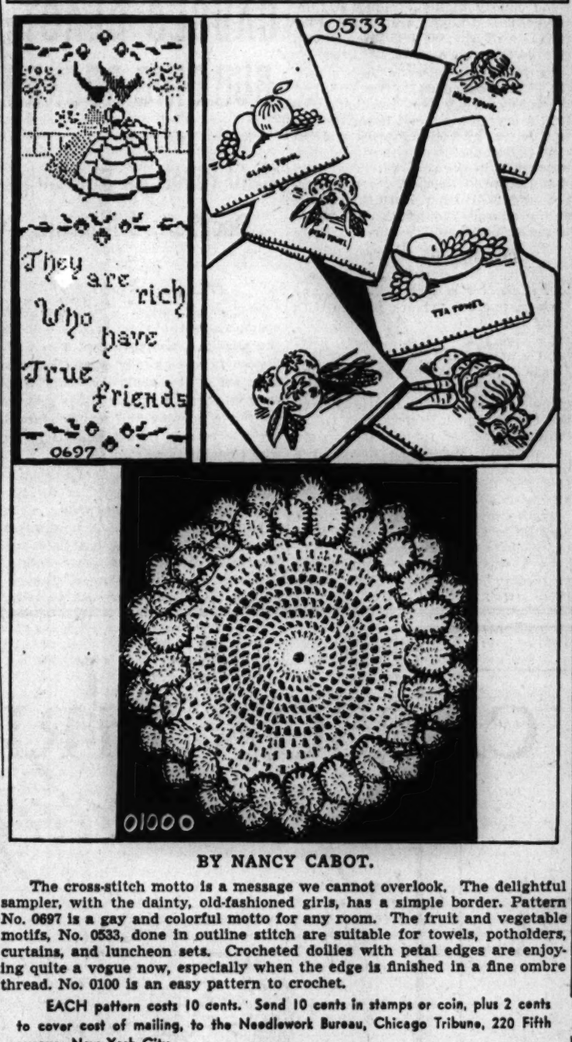
Three Needlework Designs



BY NANCY CABOT.

The cross-stitch motto is a message we cannot overlook. The delightful sampler, with the dainty, old-fashioned girls, has a simple border. Pattern No. 0697 is a gay and colorful motto for any room. The fruit and vegetable motifs, No. 0533, done in outline stitch are suitable for towels, potholders, curtains, and luncheon sets. Crocheted doilies with petal edges are enjoying quite a vogue now, especially when the edge is finished in a fine ombre thread. No. 0100 is an easy pattern to crochet.

EACH pattern costs 10 cents. Send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover cost of mailing, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Thru the Looking Glass

You just might be surprised at how much scrap metal of one kind or another you can find in close proximity to your dressing table. We were, and so were a couple of other women we know to whom the idea was suggested by an enthusiastic member of a salvage squad.

Remember the sturdy old hair brushes with metal backs? One woman found two in her home. And a search turned up more old curling irons than we'd ever dreamed were tucked away in bureau drawers. We seem inclined to keep such things, with the mossy notion that some day we'll be far from a hairdresser and need them. The day never comes, tho, and even if it should in the future, what difference? That metal can be put to far more important use.

Then there are old metal compacts. The one with the broken mirror that she always intended to have fixed but never got around to is an example to be found among almost every woman's possessions. For a while there were some handsome copper ones sold; they're pretty battered by this time, and if you haven't thrown them away—women just don't, we find—by all means turn them over to the first collector you can find. Lipstick cases, too. Scour thru your old pocketbooks, and in the dressing table drawers. Chances are you'll find some, since in recent years almost every one of us owned and used more than one stick in a season. Some of us even have lipsticks in shades that proved unwearable; age won't make them more becoming, so by all means scrape out the rouge and add the container to the scrap heap.

Maybe you have a dresser set you haven't exposed to public view for years. It might be metal, or have containers with good metal tops. These are better in the salvage heap than in their hiding place.

Take a look around some day soon. Every smidge counts, and in your day you've accumulated lots of it for your dressing table that you can part with now.

Give Children Chance to Try a Hand at Art

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

No one knows better than I that no single explanation covers any one kind of behavior in your child. So today's is not that kind of attempt. But when I see or hear about children being aimless, growing tired of their toys, and bored, I often wonder if the reason for it may not be contained in today's article.

Suppose you had a real knack for designing clothes and never had the lovely materials that are, after all, essential to the production of beautiful garments.

Suppose you were a natural cook, but your pocketbook was so flat that you couldn't ever use enough butter or eggs, or keep your icebox and cupboard filled with the kind of food supplies that would allow you to give rein to your talent.

You couldn't get the best results. The same sort of thing holds true of a certain phase of the children's development, altho analogies and generalities are likely to be as full of holes as a sieve. If a child has just a few cheap toys and isn't allowed the run of the house, he might easily become bored and aimless. If a child has a talent for drawing, or even just a longing for it, he can't make much headway with a hard pencil and any old paper. If he likes to work in color, the cheap, hard cakes of paint and rough brushes will tend to discourage him, and also produce wretched results.

There are two ways to encourage children to use their hands and their talents. One is to observe their leanings or, perhaps, merely their longings, and to see that they have good materials with which to express them. This does not always mean more expensive materials. A soft pencil, for instance, costs no more than a hard one. Where expense enters in, try to get less in quantity, but have it of good quality. Three cakes of good water colors, choosing only the three primary colors, are infinitely more valuable than eight or nine cakes as they come in cheap boxes. Dull, loose scissors get a child nowhere in paper cutting, while in sharp, round-pointed ones he can have pride and get results. And incidentally, you can use them!

The other way to encourage children to use their hands and their talents is not even to wait to see in what way they are deft or talented—but have the materials there in case! A simple but well rounded supply of art and craft material should be accessible to all children, drawing and painting materials, clay, tools, wood, fabrics, sewing utensils, etc.

Is the intelligence test a permanent guide to a child's mental limits? How can the teacher hold the interest of children in studies? Answers to these and scores of other problems are given in "Talks with Teachers," new 28 page booklet by Gladys Huntington Bevans. Get your copy today at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Last night in a rubber bridge game, my partner and I had the questionable pleasure of setting the opponents five tricks in a vulnerable three no trump contract. The 'pleasure' came from the 500 points we collected, but it was 'questionable' because we didn't double and collect 1,400 points. This was the deal:

"North, dealer.

♥ K6
♦ A J 10 9 8 6 4
♣ 2

WEST
♠ Q 9 4 3
♥ J 10 2
♦ K

EAST
♠ 10 8 7
♥ A 9 8 7 3
♦ Q 5
♣ Q J 9

SOUTH
♠ A K J
♥ Q 5 4
♦ 7 3 2
♣ K 6 5 3

"The bidding:

North	East	South	West
3 diamonds [!]	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

"I was West. I decided against leading from my long suit, choosing, instead, the heart jack. Dummy's king was put up, East won and made a marvelous shift to the club queen. We collected five club tricks and I then led the heart ten. Declarer was helpless. He could take only two spade tricks, one heart, and one diamond.

"Isn't it true that, when a contract can be defeated by five tricks, somebody should double? But who should have done it in this case, my partner or I?"

It is not true [unfortunately] that every contract which can be "slaughtered" can logically be doubled. Neither West nor East had anything approaching a sound penalty double of the three no trump contract, horrible as it was. Aside from other considerations, neither defender could count on stopping North's announced long suit.

East-West should be well satisfied with their profit on this deal and reflect that the 500 points they actually collected came from a combination of a miserable opening bid by North and inspired defense on their own part.

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of The Tribune, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

ARREST FORMER DEPUTY SHERIFF IN SHAKEDOWN

Held on Accessory Charge in $1,000 Bond.

Bruno Lakomski, one of two county highway deputy sheriffs accused of "shaking down" three men who had held up a war plant worker, was arrested yesterday afternoon in the home of a sister. He was taken to the Chicago Heights police station where he was charged with being an accessory after robbery and was ordered held in $1,000 bond.

Bruno Lakomski.

Lakomski and his partner, James Loye, have been sought since Monday when Chief of Police Philip Howard in Chicago Heights asked the state's attorney's office to find them on a warrant charging they had extorted from the robbers the money they took from Ernest Burdick, 1013 Halsted street, Chicago Heights.

Refuses Questioning.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin, who questioned Lakomski after New City police arrested him, said that the former deputy sheriff refused to answer any questions on the ground that he might incriminate himself.

Austin said that Lakomski referred him to a statement filed at the Homewood county highway police station, where he and Loye were stationed before Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien secretly fired them on Aug. 25.

In the statement, according to Austin, Lakomski denied that he had taken any money from Burdick's wallet. A conflicting story, however, was told Austin by Victor Maleck and Orville Arbuthnot, two of the three men implicated in the robbery. They said that Lakomski took $57 from Arbuthnot and $161 from Burdick's purse, and promised "to quash this whole thing for $50 more."

Charge Hold Up Trap.

Howard's version of the robbery and shakedow is that Arbuthnot and Maleck, two cab drivers, plotted with Tony Laurie, 15 East 21st street, Chicago Heights, to rob Burdick after Laurie noticed the roll of money that Burdick was carrying while touring Chicago Heights taverns. The chief of police charged that Laurie entered the cab in which Maleck was riding with Burdick and robbed the two after ordering Maleck to drive to a nearby forest preserve. Howard said that the shakedown occurred as Arbuthnot and Laurie, who met in the preserve by the prearranged plan, encountered the deputies while driving back to Chicago Heights.

Loye was still being sought late yesterday. He lives at 4060 South Wells street.

WOMAN'S SUICIDE CAUSES BLAST; BUILDING ROCKED

Maid Killed as She Rings Doorbell; 6 Injured.

New York, Sept. 4 [Special].—A spark from the ringing doorbell in the gas-filled apartment of a woman flyer who had already committed suicide, set off an explosion today that took another woman's life, injured six other persons and nearly started a panic among hundreds of tenants who thought it was an air raid.

For 15 minutes glass and plaster rained into the courtyard of the $3,000,000 Buchanan apartments near Grand Central station. A handful of air raid wardens scurried thru the 16 stories of the trembling building, pacifying screaming women. The explosion shattered nine apartments on the fifth, sixth, and seventh floors On remote floors it blew out windows and cracked ceilings and walls.

Wife of Lumber Executive.

The woman who committed suicide was Mrs. David Cameron Oswald, 38 years old, wife of a lumber firm executive. The other woman who died was Margaret M. Burke, 36, a maid, who was fatally injured by the explosion when she pressed the doorbell of Mrs. Oswald's apartment on the sixth floor.

The injured were: William Marr, resident manager of the house; Jack Shook, a handyman working on the floor below; Mrs. W. R. Shoop, Mrs. H. E. Chable, 38, Maude Graham, and Catherine Tuelle, all tenants.

Mac Saks, who works in a laundry on the ground floor of the building, was waiting to take an elevator upstairs. The blast sent billows of smoke into his face and he ran for his air raid equipment. "I thought it was a bomb," he said.

Walls Blown Out.

With a fire extinguisher, sand, and shovels, he and a fireman rushed to the sixth floor and broke into the apartment from the adjoining apartment. Where there had been three rooms—kitchen, living room and bedroom—they saw only one. They found the body of Mrs. Oswald in the kitchen.

Dr. Eugene Clark, an assistant medical examiner disclosed that Mrs. Oswald had been dead for 10 hours as a result of gas when the explosion occurred. Assistant District Attorney Carroll Boynton said that five yards of adhesive tape had been used to seal up cracks in the kitchen door and the windows were closed tight. Two scraps of paper were found in the apartment. One was an unsigned note in pencil indicating that Mrs. Oswald was depressed. The other contained biblical quotations.

A short time later, Oswald appeared with his lawyer, and revealed he had been separated from his wife and had tried to effect a reconciliation last Friday. They had moved into the apartment last October, shortly after they were married.

Meanwhile, in littered courtyard, tenants were exchanging experiences. Said Phil Goldblatt, who owns a haberdashery store on the ground floor:

"Did it hit me! I was knocked off my feet and I'm 194 pounds. I was held up three times, but never was I scared like this before. I thought it was a bomb."

"The building just walked," Mrs. Lee Frost, first floor beauty operator said. "I was sure it was an air raid."

Mrs. W. R. Shoot, who lives on the third floor said she was hurled 10 feet by the explosion. She grabbed her spaniel and crawled under the sink, thinking it was an air raid. There she fainted.

CUBS WIN, 5-3; ST. LOUIS CUTS DODGERS' LEAD

CARDINALS OFF FOR DENVER; BEARS FACE STEELERS

CHICAGO TEAM HAS DATE WITH ARMY ELEVEN

Expect Tough Game Tomorrow.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The rookie members of the Chicago Cardinals didn't even have time yesterday to see the field on which they'll play their National Football league games this fall. The squad came into Chicago yesterday afternoon from its Waukesha, Wis., training camp, and at 5:30 o'clock, or 15 minutes later, was headed for Denver. The Cardinals and Maj. Wallace Wade's Western Army All-Stars will meet Sunday in the Colorado metropolis.

It will be the first test for sunny Jim Conzelman's Cardinals, who have been working hard for three and a half weeks at the Wisconsin spa. A late turn in good fortune, such as the signing of Marshall Goldberg, the back who perennially decides to retire, and Billy Jefferson, the disappearing half back, had the Cardinals in a jolly mood for a change. Usually nothing but had luck happens to them. Tho they were hard hit by the war, the Cardinals have picked up some talented fellows from college gridirons.

They'll Be Gone Some Time.

The Cardinals won't see much of Chicago for two weeks. After the game in Denver they will head for Buffalo, N. Y., to open their league season Sept. 13 against the Cleveland Rams. Then they'll come back to prepare for their Comiskey park debut Sunday night, Sept. 20, against the Detroit Lions. They will be seen three other times in Chicago. Another Sunday night contest on Oct. 4 will pit them against Green Bay. They play the Bears the following Sunday in Wrigley field, then disappear until Dec. 6, when they will go against the Bears in Comiskey park.

Kimbrough Is Injured.

The Cardinals drew a tough foe in the western army eleven, which last week scored first on the Washington Redskins before 55,000 in the Coliseum in Los Angeles, then lost, 26 to 7. The army touchdown came on a 58 yard gallop by John Kimbrough, former Texas Aggie, on the second play of the game.

In Denver, Maj. Wade yesterday expressed concern over the condition of Kimbrough, who suffered an injured rib in the Washington game. Five other soldier players, said the former Duke coach, have assorted ailments. One of the five is Jim Thomason, Kimbrough's blocker in his Texas Aggie days.

The game will be played in the Denver university stadium and will start at 4 o'clock, Chicago wartime.

Cards Have Some Tricks.

Coach Conzelman said the Cardinals are in excellent condition except for Al Babartsky, tackle, who has a leg injury. Conzelman said he and his assistant, Phil Handler, have thought up a few gridiron tricks at Waukesha. Last year the Cardinals, who use a modified Notre Dame system, included some man in motion plays.

They again are certain to have a good passing attack, with Jefferson, former Detroit Lion; Bud Schwenk of Washington university at St. Louis; Joe Bukant, and Goldberg doing the throwing.

NOTRE DAME FANS WILL GET BREAK ON HOTEL RATES

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 4 (AP).—Football fans who stream into South Bend for the five home games of the Notre Dame football team this fall will discover it will be a little less expensive than they anticipated. The South Bend defense area rent office disclosed today it rejected the petition of one hotel and a tourist home to increase rates on football week-ends, when the stop-over places normally reap a harvest.

Bears Play 3d Foe Tonight; Face Steelers

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 4 [Special].—The world champion Chicago Bears and the Pittsburgh Steelers, members of the National Football league, will meet in an exhibition game at Forbes field here tomorrow night before a crowd of 20,000 or better. The Bears will be making their third appearance of the year, having beaten Camp Grant, 35 to 6, and the College All-Stars in Chicago, 21 to 0. The Steelers will be playing their second game, having been defeated by the Cleveland Rams, 35 to 6.

Since the game with Cleveland, the Steelers have added strength and will be in better position to battle the Bears.

Pittsburgh fans also will be getting their first look of the year at the Steelers and their first in three campaigns at the Bears. The addition of Bill Dudley, Andy Tomasic, John Schiechi, Don Looney, and others in the last few days has helped revive hopes here that the Steelers will be much better than they were last season.

HAL PECK WILL LOSE TWO TOES FROM WOUND

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 4 (AP).—Manager Charley Grimm of the Milwaukee Brewers said tonight Hal Peck, slugging outfielder, would lose two toes as the result of a hunting accident. Peck shot himself in the left foot yesterday while hunting rats at his home in nearby Genessee Depot.

Grimm said he was informed Peck would lose the two toes next to his big toe, but expressed a belief the accident would not impair the 24 year old outfielder's speed.

19 TO RUN TODAY IN 2 STAKES AT WASHINGTON PK.

Beverly Field

BLUE DELIGHT, western champion of the fillies and mares, will race against eight rivals in the $7,500 Beverly handicap at a mile today at Washington Park. This event will share interest with the $5,000 Prairie State stakes for 2 year olds. The Beverly field, in order of post position, follows:

Horse—	Wt.	Jockey.	Prob. odds.
Sis Baker	100	J. Thornburg	5-1
Montsin	101	F. Grill	3-1
Silvestra	98	N. Jemas	10-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Washington Park race track will go into its Labor day week-end this afternoon with the presentation of the $7,500 Beverly handicap and the $5,000 Prairie State stakes. These will be followed on Monday with the $25,000 Washington Park handicap which will head the army-navy relief program. All of the proceeds of the Labor day racing will be turned over to the service men's funds.

The Beverly handicap, which is a dash of a mile for fillies and mares, has drawn a field of nine in the overnight entries. Mrs. John Marsch's Blue Delight, western champion of her division, will undoubtedly be established as favorite despite the fact that she will be picking up an impost of 128 pounds.

Has Big Weight Handicap.

This 4 year old filly now has swept thru every stake she has undertaken in the Chicago area this season. She won the Cinderella, Cleopatra, and Matron stakes at Arlington and took the Princess Pat at Washington Park. She has proved herself a worthy stable mate of John Marsch's Occupation, which already has clinched the juvenile money winning championship.

Sox Open Bid for 5th; Face Tigers Tonight

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox will be at home under their own lights tonight to take up the battle for fifth place which is of no importance except that they'll have to get that far up the line before being able to act directly on the little matter of sneaking into the first division where the world series money is banked. It so happens that tonight's visitors are the current fifth place residents, the Tigers, who also have plans for climbing higher.

Altho recognizing the worthiness of the first division slogan, Boss Jim Dykes plans to introduce tonight at least one and possibly both of his recent fly chasing imports from the Waterloo, Ia., farm club. The pair, Bill Mueller and Val Heim, haven't done badly considering their experience. If nothing else, they have refreshed the weary Dykes with their hustle and he craves to see more of the same.

Don Making Good.

Dykes also has another fresh item ready for display before the home constituents. It's Don Kolloway, who, when last seen hereabouts, was a second sacker. He's had to give that up temporarily. When Joe Kuhel's leg went whacky a man had to be found for the job. There was a time when Dykes personally would step into such vacancies, but those days are gone forever. Anyway, the manager gave Kolloway a face lifting job with a first baseman's glove as a premium and Don took over the duties at the front door. He's been looking so good as a fielder that maybe the move should have been made ere this.

It's Humphries Tonight.

Johnny Humphries, the Sox master electric light man, will attempt to use his 120 watt bafflers on the Tigers tonight, and if successful he'll ring up his season's 11th victory, making him second to Ted Lyons, who tops the staff with a dozen. Six of Humphries' triumphs were reeled off under the lights.

The 41 year old Lyons will be back in service tomorrow when the Sox wind up their season's chores with the Tigers in a single game.

BITHORN BLANKS PIRATES UNTIL UPRISING IN 9TH

Cubs Near Fifth Place in 5 to 3 Triumph.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 4.—Truett Sewell, one of the most persistent of Cub annoyers in recent seasons, was full of verve as he faced the Hi Bithorn and fellow Chicagoans under the lights here tonight. He had a record of three 1942 victories over the Cubs and a lamplight string of 9 victories in 11 tries as a Pirate. Well, Truett didn't bully the Chicagoans this night, for they knocked him out in the fourth, after which they recorded a 5 to 3 victory in the opener of a three game series for fifth place, a position now held by Pittsburgh by one game. The Pirates made all of their runs after two were out in the ninth.

The Cubs had three runs home when Max Butcher replaced Sewell in the fourth inning. Lenny Merullo stole home after Butcher had accomplished two outs and then three hits added the fifth and last Chicago marker before the inning ended. Thereafter not a Cub reached first base off Butcher in the fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth innings, and Al Wilkie was equally effective in the ninth.

Trouble Starts in Ninth.

Bithorn went into the ninth with a shutout in hand and only four singles and no walks chalked on his ledger. Jimmy Wasdell opened the ninth by striking out, but Elbie Fletcher singled to center for the fifth Pirate hit and Bob Elliott drew Hi's only pass. Babe Phelps fouled to Stan Hack and the game appeared to be over when Vince DiMaggio lined a hot one toward Lou Novikoff. Lou tried hard for the catch, but the speed of the ball handcuffed him and the scorer adjudged the effort a two base hit.

Whatever it was, Fletcher scored and Elliott stopped at third. Maurice Van Robays caromed a legitimate double off Hack's glove, Elliott and DiMaggio scoring. Van Robays went to third unmolested and then Pete Coscarart ended the game with a pop to Bobby Sturgeon.

So the Cubs, after apparently having their 11th victory over the Pirates easily in the kit, were especially happy at their early onslaught on Sewell.

Hi Gets a Nice Lead.

The Cubs made five runs, a triple, three doubles, and six singles before the Pirates were able to make their first hit off Bithorn.

One of the doubles, by Phil Cavarretta, a pass to Bill Nicholson, and a triple by Dom Dallessandro netted two runs off Sewell in the first inning. With two out in the second, Bithorn, Hack, and Cavarretta smacked successive singles, but Bithorn was speared at the plate so the Watchman, What of the Night?

"Watchman, what of the night?"
Does the thunder of guns I hear
Mean a victory is won;
Has the world's new born sun
Ascended in glorious light?
Are the wings that fly in the dark
Clothed in victory, burnished as gold;
Does the flag wave on high
Is triumph inflamed by its spark?
"Watchman, what of the night?"
Does the silence of guns I heard
Mean God is in reign
O'er the hosts once again,
Is peace the watchword brought to light?

Our Fair Pharisees.

Milady dared not ask to vote
Nor lecture publicly,
About two thousand years ago
In days we call B. C.
Her life was filled with endless chores
The haughty men who made the laws
Were Scribes and Pharisees!
These men were merely mental snobs
Who claimed to be so wise;
And when they prayed they stood up straight
And never closed their eyes,
Nor bowed their heads with folded hands
On humble bended knees;
They loudly prayed: "We thank Thee, Lord,
That we are Pharisees!"
Up thru the centuries, at last
The ladies, once so meek,
Threw off the chains which men forged
And dared to vote . . . and speak,
Formed women's clubs, secured good jobs,
Defied male Pharisees
And now they help to make the laws
And rule their men with ease!

CARDS DEFEAT REDS, 5-3; FOUR GAMES BEHIND

Pete Reiser Rejoins Brooklyn Today.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 4 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals defeated Cincinnati tonight, 5 to 3, and gained a half game on the idle Brooklyn Dodgers, who now lead the Cards by four games.

Rookie Johnny Beazley got credit for his 18th victory and his third over the Reds, altho he was removed for Howard Krist in the seventh inning after walking Frank McCormick to force in Cincinnati's final run.

Krist Stifles Red Rally.

The Cards, in winning the 20th of their last 23 games, made three errors, one of them a bad throw by Terry Moore after a walk and Ray Lamanno's single in the second frame to allow the first Red run. Lamanno scored on Paul Derringer's fly to tie the game at 2 to 2.

Kurowski Hits Home Run.

George Kurowski homered in the second for the Cardinals, bouncing the ball off the top of the left field wall with one out.

St. Louis regained the lead in the third inning on a double by Enos Slaughter, Stan Musial's triple and Johnny Hopp's single. The Cards added their final run in the fifth on Slaughter's single, an infield out, and Walker Cooper's single. Score:

REISER TO REJOIN DODGERS.

New York, Sept. 4 (AP).—Manager Leo Durocher today named five pitchers who should shoulder the main load for the Brooklyn Dodgers from here out—Curt Davis, Whitlow Wyatt, Buck Newsom, Kirby Higbe, and Max Macon. All will be called upon to start in the Labor day weekend program opening against the New York Giants in the Polo Grounds tomorrow.

Higbe will try tomorrow, then Wyatt and Macon will face the same team Sunday and Newsom and Davis will oppose the Braves in Boston Monday.

When the club returns from the one day stand in Boston, it figures to have all the best of the sledding for the remainder of the season, because it will not have to leave the friendly surroundings of Ebbets field again until the last two days of the campaign when the Dodgers go to Philadelphia. Of Brooklyn's remaining games, seven are with the Phils and four with the seventh place Braves.

An additional boost for Brooklyn's chances was expected to come tomorrow with the return of Center Fielder Pete Reiser, the league's leading batter, who went to Johns Hopkins hospital for a checkup and has been resting most of the week at General Manager Larry MacPhail's farm.

WOMEN GOLFERS PLAN '43 SETUP; KEEP OFFICERS

Mrs. Mellor Re-elected President.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Women's District Golf association, comprising the hard working sisters of the local fairway leagues, are prepared, even as their brothers, to carry on the job of golf in 1943. This was made plain yesterday as the incumbent ticket was re-elected for the next season following a two-ball foursome event at the Medinah Country club. One hundred fifty members of the sorority attended.

Mrs. Gilmore M. Mellor of Elmhurst is prepared for her second year as president with the knowledge that her organization has done a thoroughgoing job in maintaining a competitive schedule as well as doing such war chores as collecting 174 clubs and 13 bags for use by the USO and service men at Fort Sheridan.

Two Tie at 82.

Indications after yesterday's meeting were that the CWDGA next year will resume the regular match play association tournament regularly conducted by the organization until this year.

In yesterday's two ball event, Virginia Ingram and Virginia Nilles of Sunset Ridge ran off with first prize in the gross scoring with a 40—42—82. The No. 2 course saw two teams tied at 87, with Mrs. L. L. Oakes and Mrs. Fred Wright of Glen Oak finally winning, 2 up, after matching cards with a home club duo from Medinah, Mrs. E. B. Hall Jr., and Mrs. Chic Olson.

PRIZE LIST.

FIRST LOW GROSS [No. 1 course]—Virginia Ingram, Sunset Ridge, Virginia Nilles, Park Ridge, 82.

FIRST LOW GROSS [No. 2 course]—Mrs. L. L. Oakes, Exmoor, Mrs. Fred Wright, Glen Oak, 87.

The Prairie State stakes, which is for 2 year olds at six furlongs, has drawn an overnight field of 10. Two fillies—R. W. McIlvain's Fad, winner of Arlington Lassie stakes, and Louis B. Mayer's Miss Barbara, winner of the Pollyanna stakes at Washington Park—will draw considerable betting support.

Burnt Cork Entered.

Among their rivals will be Eddie [Rochester] Anderson's Burnt Cork, which has a victory over Devil's Thumb, the eastern champion, to his credit. That victory was scored during the Arlington Park meeting, however, before Devil's Thumb had come up to the form which distinguished his campaign at Saratoga. Hal Price Headley will send two representatives into the race—All Hoss and Bulls Eye. Others in the field include Dixiana's Amber Light, Tall Tree stable's Sea Marriage, and Brown hotel stable's Seven Hearts.

Alsab is ready to defend his prestige in the Washington Park handicap on Labor day. Among his rivals probably will be Thumbs Up, King's Abbey, Aletern, Anticlimax, Marriage, General Manager, and perhaps one or two others from the field of 33 nominees.

The Arcturus stable's Smacked still is short of the form that distinguished his racing of last season. He went to the post yesterday as the even money favorite in the Devil Dogs purse at six furlongs. After making the pace as usual, he weakened in the late stages and yielded to Cooling Springs by the margin of three-quarters of a length. Mordecai was third.

Shut Eye Comes Thru.

Shut Eye made one of the most remarkable finishes of the season to win the Marine Corps League purse at a mile. Valdina Groom swerved against him at the start, knocking him off stride so badly that he was at least eight lengths behind the last horse of the bunch as they went down the backstretch.

Jockey Frankie Grill persevered with him, however, and he gained on the turn. When he continued to make up ground in the stretch, he was bothered somewhat by Copperman, which was bearing out. In spite of all this, however, he got up in time to beat Riverland by a nose. Some Man was third. The winner paid off at $22.20, $9.40, and $4.20.

HARMONY ADDS FUEL TO FIRE OF PURDUE'S HOPES

Football Squad Knows and Likes Burnham.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 4.—Dr. E. C. Elliott, president of Purdue university, attended the Boilermakers' football practice yesterday afternoon. In the course of his brief remarks to the squad Dr. Elliott said with a grin:

"I wish to repeat what I told you last spring that one of the most important duties for you players is to keep Elmer Burnham smiling."

We do not relate this incident of the president's visit to the practice field, because it is exceptional at Purdue. We are not going to quote Dr. Elliott's other remarks on the value of football, altho he stressed its importance in this time of national crisis. We mention the incident and the squad meeting because it indicates the intimate relationship between the Purdue administration and athletics and because the players, by their reception of the president and their appreciation of his allusion to Coach Burnham, clearly demonstrated the harmony between teacher and pupil that now prevails.

It's Fortunate Choice.

The choice of Elmer Burnham as head football coach apparently has been most fortunate. It was dictated by Burnham's seven years of service with the Purdue freshmen teams and the esteem these players had for their coach. At the same time Burnham was appointed varsity coach, Guy [Red] Mackey was named director of athletics. Mackey was graduated from Purdue in 1929 and he is starting his 14th year as a member of the Boilermaker athletic staff.

Mackey literally has grown up with Purdue athletics, and he is thoroly familiar with all the coaching problems as well as the administrative details of the department of physical education for men. He served as administrative assistant last year to Mal Elward, then director and head football coach.

Burnham, of course, must prove himself against Big Nine competition, which is just about the most difficult coaching assignment in the country. It is not necessary that Burnham develop a championship eleven, but it will be important that Purdue football teams play interestingly and creditably. The Boilermakers do not meet Minnesota or Michigan this season, but lest you think this an advantage, note that Northwestern and Ohio State follow immediately after games with Fordham and Vanderbilt.

Barwegen on First Team.

It is too early to assay Purdue material accurately, particularly in view of the Boilermakers' failure last season. The squad has suffered losses by graduation and to military services. It has no large group of talented sophomores, altho Dick Barwegen now is listed as first team guard. Others may be advanced after the opening game, but if they are exceptionally talented, notice to that effect has not been forthcoming from Publicist Bob Woodworth. He has pointed out, however, that Henry Stram, sophomore half back from Lew Wallace High school, Gary, Ind., was alternate for the freshman merit trophy awarded after the 1942 spring practice. This trophy went to Barwegen.

Center—Alex Leuzo, Warner Van Aken, *Otto Hurrle, *Herbert Seidell.
Right guard—Frank Burrieri, William Powers, *Ralph Clymer.
Right tackle—Barry French, Ray Stoelting, *Eugene Matrewitz.
Right end—William Shimer, Fred Smerke, Lavern King, *Norman Maloney.
Full back—John Andretich, William Buffington, *Charles Close.

NCAA Studies Ways to Aid Nation in War

The executive committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association went into session yesterday morning in the Western conference office in the Sherman hotel and the members still were going strong late last night. It was one of the three routine meetings the organization holds each year, but because of the war it took on more than ordinary significance. The conference will continue today.

During the morning meeting, Maj. Frank McCormick, former Minnesota athletic director, and now in the procurement office, 6th district, army aviation, gave his ideas on what the colleges of the nations should do to harden the students physically for that day when they will enter the army or navy. Lieut. Comm. Willis O. Hunter, whose work takes him to the navy pre-flight schools, also took part in the discussion. K. L. [Tug] Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern, also was present.

Leaders Are Silent.

Philip O. Badger, president of the NCAA, and assistant to the chancellor of New York university, had no statement to make. Neither did Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western conference, who is secretary-treasurer of the NCAA.

It was pointed out that the executive committee did not have the power to invoke a program of physical hardening among the members of the group, but that a strong stand on the necessity of stepping up the physical training program would influence action, which military leaders say is imperative.

See Four Year Training.

It has been indicated that many more of the colleges may start making physical training compulsory for the students from start to finish, instead of for the usual one or two years. It would be stepped up to five times a week, an hour to each session, or three weekly periods of an hour and a half.

The NCAA apparently is determined to continue its national athletic events such as basketball, boxing, golf, swimming, tennis, and track. Dates and sites for the 1943 events probably will be set today.

GUNDER HAEGG CUTS 2 SECONDS OFF MILE MARK

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 4 (AP).—Gunder Haegg set a world one mile running record tonight with a performance of 4 minutes, 4.6 seconds.

The slim Swedish postman topped off his two month assault in distance standards by lopping 1.8 seconds off Sydney Wooderson's five year old listed record and 1.6 seconds off the mark he, himself, posted on July 2. He was only two-tenths of a second away from the 4:04.4 Glenn Cunningham ran on a special track, a time not recognized by athletic authorities.

Seventh Record in Two Months.

Thus, in a space of two months, Haegg not only twice has shattered the coveted mile mark which had stood for half a decade, but has raced to seven world record performances. In addition to the two miles, Haegg also has broken the records for 1,500, 2,000 and 3,000 meters. He also broke the 2,000 meter record twice.

Five others elected to run against Haegg over the same track on which the 1912 Olympics were run tonight, but he distanced all of them.

Hopes to Race in America

Haegg started the run on July 2, when he slipped one-fifth of a second off Wooderson's mile standard. Two days later, he went two miles in 8:47.8, more than eight seconds faster that the record for that event. Two weeks after that, he knocked two seconds off the 1,500 meter mark with a 3:45.8 performance. In August, he twice lowered the 2,000 meter record, to 5:16.4 and then to 5:11.8, and then went on to cut the 3,000 meter standard from 8:14.8 to 8:01.2

Ted Schroeder Beats Russell at Forest Hills

New York, Sept. 4 (AP).—Ted Schroeder Jr., of Glendale, Cal., scored a 6-3, 6-8, 6-3, 7-5 victory today over Alejo Russell of Argentina to gain a semi-final match with Lieut. Gardnar Mulloy tomorrow in the men's singles of the national tennis tournament at Forest Hills.

For the quality of the tennis it was by far the best match yet played in the tournament and fully rewarded a cheering crowd of 3,000. Schroeder, the top-seeded American, needed every shot he knew to win out. Trailing 1-4 in games in the final set, Russell rallied to 5-5 and then succumbed only thru almost complete exhaustion.

Richards Extends Mulloy.

Mulloy reached the semi-finals with a 6-2, 8-6, 7-5 victory over George Richards, young left hander from Montebello, Cal. Mulloy was forced to the limit to beat the youngster who paid his own way east to play. Mulloy's steadier ground game was the deciding factor in the end.

Helen Bernhard of New York defeated Mrs. Helen Pederson Rihbany, also of New York, 6-0, 6-4, in a quarter-final match of the women's singles.

Little Rock Beats Memphis, 6 to 0, to Clinch Pennant

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 4 (AP).—The Little Rock Travelers clinched the Southern association pennant tonight with a 6 to 0 victory over the Memphis Chicks. The Travelers scored their 13th straight victory. They have four games left. Little Rock, piloted by Willis Hudlin, former major league pitcher, last won the Southern association pennant in 1937.

Pastor Heeds Call of Ball Club and Wins

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 4 (AP).—A pitching pastor from an upstate village has leaped from manse to mound to help the Albany Senators try to clinch the class A Eastern league pennant.

On the last week of his vacation, the Rev. Bertram Humphries, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Baldwinsville, heeded the call of the Senators, who desperately needed a good hurler for the stretch drive.

May Be Two-Job Man.

Vacation days end tomorrow, and the Rev. Mr. Humphries goes back to his pulpit Sunday. But Thomas McCaffery, owner of the Senators, is optimistic—he hopes the trustees of the minister's church will permit their pastor to hold two jobs for the remainder of the season—and win ball games for Albany.

Manager John [Rip] Collins sent the minister against Springfield, Mass., Wednesday night. Mr. Humphries showed he had a fast ball and a curve, too. In fact he had "the greatest assortment of stuff I've seen in the Eastern league," according to Owner McCaffery.

Yields 3 Hits to Springfield.

The pastor held Springfield to three hits in blanking them 8 to 0, clinching a playoff berth for the Senators. The regular season ends Labor day, and championship playoffs follow.

Before entering the ministry, Humphries played for Columbus in the American association, a farm club of the St. Louis Cardinals; once was the property of the New York Yankees, and for a short time in 1935 pitched for Binghampton, N. Y. He is about 30 years old and a graduate of Brown university.

Cubs, Bithorn Hand Pirates 5 to 3 Beating

three hits served only to weaken Sewell's morale, an asset which the Cubs thru the years have found rather vigorous. Clyde McCullough opened the fourth inning with a double over DiMaggio's head and scored on Len Merullo's double over Van Robay's head. This was more than Sewell could stand. He went away and in went Butcher. Sturgeon bounced to Eddie Stewart, Merullo reaching third. After Bithorn had grounded out, Merullo made two phony dashes toward the plate and the third time he went all the way, stealing home for the fourth Chicago run. Hack, Cavarretta, and Novikoff then knocked successive singles, Hack scoring.

First Pirate Hits Are Wasted.

Two were out in the home fourth when Elliott singled to left for the first hit off Bithorn. Phelps also singled, but was forced by DiMaggio.

With a day off tomorrow in prospect before engaging the Pirates in a farewell double header Sunday, the Cubs have won three more National league victories this season and have lost five more than have the Pirates.

INDIANA'S LOGAN VOTED BIG TEN BASEBALL AWARD

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 4 [Special].—John Logan, Richmond, Ind., Indiana university pitcher, has been named the most valuable Big Ten baseball player for the 1942 season by a vote of the conference coaches. Logan, regular forward on the Indiana basketball team, played shortstop as a sophomore. Last spring he went to the mound for the first time and pitched three of Indiana's five Big Ten victories, beating both Iowa and Michigan, the league leaders. Logan batted .390 in conference games to pace his teammates. He has one season left.

SCRIMMAGE ON SCHEDULE TODAY AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 4 [Special].—Coach Frank Leahy today said that Notre Dame's first week of football practice would be concluded with scrimmage tomorrow afternoon. The one hour early morning workout will be devoted to signal drill and dummy skirmish.

Leahy still is not satisfied with the timing and faking of the backs, but said contact work is necessary because of the proximity of the Wisconsin game in Madison Sept. 26, which opens the Irish schedule.

He named the following lineup to start for the varsity tomorrow:

IOWA ADDS TWO PLAYERS.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 4 [Special].—Iowa added two players to its football practice roster today and dropped an equal number. Forrest Masterson, 220-pound sophomore center from Louisville, O., and Orv Davidsmeyer, 170-pound guard from Downers Grove, Ill., reported for the first time. Ted [Duke] Curran, Quincy, Ill., back field prospect, was dropped from the squad and Tom Chapman, basketball co-captain, quit.

SAILORS TOSS PASSES.

Long, accurate passes by Glen [Rusty] Cowart, former Texas Christian quarter back, and Ed Heffernan, once a leading half back at St. Mary's [California] yesterday featured a light workout by the Great Lakes football team, which is preparing for its opening game against Michigan in Ann Arbor Sept. 26.

Cowart and Heffernan have entered competition for the No. 2 left half back rating on the Bluejackets' eleven behind Minnesota's Bruce Smith, who thus far has been the only passer to please Lieut. Paul D. [Tony] Hinkle and his assistants. The leading receivers in the practice included Joe Boyle, Carl Mulleneaux, Larry Lance, and Pete Kmetovic.

MARICICH WINS ROLLOFF BERTH IN ROUND ROBIN

Eli Maricich won a place in the masters round robin bowling tournament rolloff last night, but had to beat Wally Genter, the runnerup, in their final match to do it. Maricich scored 18.24 points on 824 pins in his opening match of the evening, but Genter was knocking down 914 pins and getting 22.14 points in his own match.

Maricich is to meet Joe Wilman and Joe Sinke, on the other two eight man squads, in the rolloff tomorrow at Dearborn-Jackson. Last night's scores:

Expect 48 at Marquette's First Drill

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 4 [Special].—A squad of 48 candidates, including 16 letter men, 30 sophomores, and only two seniors, is expected to report tomorrow morning as Coach Tom Stidham opens his second season as head coach of the Marquette university football team.

Stidham plans two daily workouts until classes are resumed Sept. 21. The Hilltoppers will open their campaign against Kansas in Lawrence Sept. 26.

As practice starts, indications are that letter men will take over nine positions on the varsity. Sophomores are being counted upon to come at the left half back and full back.

BADGER SOPHS STAR.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 4 [Special].—Four sophomores were in the thick of the fight for places on the tentative first team today as the Wisconsin squad held its third day of football drills.

They were Fred Negus at center, Jack Wink at quarter back, and Elroy Hirsch and Jim Regan at the halves. Negus and Wink apparently hold a slight edge over the veterans, Bob McKay and Ashley Anderson, respectively. Hirsch and Regan are being tried at both of the half back positions, along with the veterans Frank Granitz, Len [Bud] Seelinger and Mark Hoskins.

The squad was reduced to 50 tonight with the announcement that Bob Owen, sophomore center from Springfield, O., has dropped football to devote his full time to his studies. Today's workout emphasized punting, passing offense and defense, and signal drills, in preparation for the first regular scrimmage tomorrow afternoon. Granitz stood out among the kickers and Anderson among the passers.

DEWAR GETS CHANCE.

BROWNS WIN 2; STRENGTHEN GRIP ON THIRD PLACE

Indians Shut Out, 4 to 0, After 6-3 Loss.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 4 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns won a double header from Cleveland this afternoon and tonight—the first of a series of three double headers the two teams will play in three days — and increased their hold on third place in the American league standings to two and a half games. Johnny Niggeling pitched a four hit shutout to win the second game, 4 to 0, after a Brown rally netted a 6 to 3 triumph in the afternoon contest. Score:

SPECIALTIES GET MOST ATTENTION IN QUIET STOCKS

Meat Packer Issues Drop, Communications Up.

New York, Sept. 4 (AP).—Stocks were irregular and quiet again today. Hesitancy ruled from the start, and, altho both strong and weak spots cropped up among specialties, price variations generally were small at the close.

Communications issues were given a good lift, but stocks of the meat packers sold off substantially. Sizable blocks of low priced issues improved the volume moderately.

Many customers stood aside for the long week-end, and others were inclined to be cautious, pending more light on the unsettled tax situation and disclosure of the President's program to stem mounting living costs.

Wire Stocks Are Strong.

Wire company issues were aided by discussion of early merger legislation for the two principal systems. The packing group was depressed by yesterday's omitted dividend on the Armour [Ill.] senior stock and apprehension over meat rationing, further price ceilings and additional governmental regulations.

Armour [Ill.] prior preferred and Wilson & Co. preferred dropped 4¾ and 4 points, respectively, both to new lows since 1940. Swift & Co. common fell ⅝ to a new bottom since 1941.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Prices were uneven in transactions of 14,000 shares on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Twenty-five stocks were lower, 18 higher, and 20 unchanged.

Middle West, the most active issue, closed unchanged. Radio corporation and Swift ended a shade lower. Western Union rose ¾ to a 1942 high of 28.

PACIFIC PHONE CUTS COMMON STOCK DIVIDEND

Directors of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company yesterday declared a dividend of $1.25 a share on the common stock, a reduction from the $1.75 paid in preceding quarters. N. R. Powley, president, said the reduction was made because of "uncertainties and tax obligations." The regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share the the preferred stock was voted.

A quarterly dividend of 25 cents a common share was declared by the Perfect Circle company. The company paid 50 cents in July.

WPB APPROVES PLAN FOR CURB ON INVENTORIES

Will Order Reports; May Fix Limits.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—The War Production board announced approval tonight of a program to control inventories of civilian merchandise in the hands of retail stores and wholesalers.

The plan, which probably will become effective early in 1943, is intended to deal with the problem created by heavy buying by some dealers. Such purchases have raised the threat that some stores and even some regions of the country might be unable to get sufficient supplies to serve their communities, officials said.

WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson said the program would contribute to "an equitable distribution of inventories thruout the country," and could be accomplished "without unnecessary hardships or difficulties" for the retail and wholesale trade.

Regular Reports Planned.

The program, prepared by a special committee after conferences with hundreds of merchants and manufacturers, also calls for an immediate investigation into advisability of the limitation of manufacturers' inventories.

For the retailers and wholesalers, two steps are proposed. They are:

1. Issuance of a WPB order requiring reports from each dealer of his inventory and sales by quarters, accompanied by a statement of the store's normal inventory, as defined by WPB. Normal inventory would be a stock bearing the same relation to sales as the average quarterly inventory of the years 1939-'41, inclusive, had to sales.

2. Unless these reports showed that stocks had been so far reduced as to require no government regulation, a second order would be issued, imposing formal control and enforcement.

Inventories Being Reduced.

"Reliable figures indicate that abnormal amounts of goods have been accumulated during the last year by many merchants," the report said. "These goods are inequitably distributed among sizes and types of merchants and among geographical areas of the country.

"Altho excess inventories are now in process of reduction, there are indications that abnormal advance buying and attempted accumulation of inventories will again take place in many lines of merchandise during the months ahead."

In view of the dwindling supply of civilian goods which will be available as the war goes on, the committee said, it is essential that equitable distribution be established to insure that the merchandise "will be accessible to a maximum number of consumers."

Two broad classes of manufacturers and merchants would be exempted from the plan. Any concern whose business for the 12 month period ending Sept. 30, 1942, was less than $100,000 or whose inventory on that date was less than $25,000 cost value, would be exempted.

Exempt Some Businesses.

In addition, the pending order would not cover merchants primarily engaged in the food business, eating and drinking places, second hand stores, florists, and antique shops, service establishments like dry cleaners and shoe repair men, steel or other metal warehouses, automobile and parts dealers, grain and feed stores, farm implement dealers, and fuel dealers.

Manufacturers of foods, farm implements, motor vehicles, and refiners or processors of petroleum products also would be exempt.

The special committee was created by Joseph L. Winer, deputy director of the Office of Civilian Supply under Leon Henderson. Reavis Cox, chief of the services programs branch under Winer, supervised the committee's work.

200,000 to Be Affected.

Officials of the civilian supply office estimated that 200,000 retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers would be affected by the proposed controls.

Inventories now are at the highest level in the country's history, they reported, largely because of heavy buying by merchants in anticipation of shortages resulting from the conversion of durable goods industries to war production.

If the second stage of the program is decided upon—and WPB sources indicated it probably would prove necessary—the limitation order would become effective at the end of the quarter beginning Dec. 1 this year, Jan. 1, 1943, or Feb. 1, 1943, the exact date depending on the convenience of each merchant.

Prompt announcement of the long range program was decided upon in order to guide merchants in the placing of orders and balancing inventories by cutting purchases of items in which they are overstocked.

May Order Goods Returned.

No specific plan was advanced for the reduction of inventories if control proves necessary, but previously WPB sources had indicated that sales to other merchants or back to manufacturers might be invoked.

Manufacturers will be required to file the quarterly inventory and sales reports, as well as the retailers and wholesalers.

Further study was ordered in the cases of four classes of merchandise before any formal limitation order is imposed, but they are to be included in the reporting phase of the program. Dealers in alcoholic beverages are one such class; the others are 19 types of goods already under WPB inventory control; goods which are frozen or whose sale is restricted by rationing or priorities under previous government orders; and goods which are stockpiled under earlier orders.

Credit Buying Is Cut Under Federal Rules

Federal regulation directed at reduction of consumer purchases is having a pronounced effect on the volume of consumer instalment credit at banks, a report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago indicated yesterday.

The volume of consumer instalment paper held by 68 banks in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district which report regularly on such credit began dropping when the reserve board's regulation W went into effect last September. It declined 25 per cent in the seven months from January thru July, the survey showed.

Down Payments Larger.

Regulation W set higher requirements than had prevailed for down payments on automobiles, refrigerators and many other kinds of consumer durable goods. It also limited the time that instalment payments could run, at first to 18 months, and subsequently to 12 months on most articles affected.

The total of consumer instalment credit outstanding at the 68 banks last July 31 was $70,457,000. This was 6 per cent less than a month earlier and 25 per cent less than on Dec. 31, 1941.

Type of loan—	July 31, 1942	Per cent change June 30, 1942	Dec. 31, 1941
Automotive retail:
Purchased	$15,956	—8	—32
Direct	9,656	—7	—38
Other retail:
Purchased and direct	19,105	—8	—29
Repair and modernization	14,832	*	—10
Personal instalment cash	10,908	—3	—8
Total	70,457	—6	—25

*Decrease of less than one per cent.

Outstanding automotive paper placed directly by the banks has declined 38 per cent since the beginning of January, and the volume of such paper purchased by the banks has dropped 32 per cent, the report showed.

New Loans Decrease.

New loans made by the reporting banks in July were 14 per cent less than new loans in June, with automotive paper accounting for nearly all of the drop. The July volume of auto loans was $2,581,000, against $3,199,000 in June. For durable goods other than automobiles, the July volume was $1,813,000, against $1,946,000, a decline of 7 per cent.

Repayments of instalment loans are in larger volume than new loans made, $1.50 being paid for each $1 newly borrowed.

JUNE EARNINGS OF 136 RAILROADS AVERAGE HIGHER

Reports for June of 136 class I. railroads to the Interstate Commerce commission showed aggregate net income of $77,690,545, compared with $53,347,311 for June, 1941. Aggregate net income for the six months ended June 30 was $289,185,666, against 173,231,619 in the corresponding period last year.

The Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad reported a net loss of $45,121 for July, compared with a loss of $88,349 a year ago. Net loss for the seven months was $531,928, against $1,092,160 last year.

OPA MAY DELAY HOG CEILING UNTIL PORK REVISION IS SETTLED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration said today its proposal for price ceilings on live hogs may be postponed until after establishment of the new zoning plan for ceilings on the packer-slaughtered product, expected soon.

Both trade and OPA quarters emphasized that any hog ceiling must be a price level which will maintain present record hog production, not unduly penalize either producer or consumer, and insure equitable distribution.

A proposal under consideration is for a possible "base weight class" on butcher types of hogs, scaling from 200 to 300 or 350 pounds. Slightly lower per pound price ceilings might be set on hog weights less than 200 pounds or for those animals tipping the scales at more than the upper limits of the base class.

The OPA said ceilings on the dressed hog product would be established on a specific dollars and cents basis, rather than the individual seller's list prices as previously—"which in many cases represented hopes rather than actual general selling prices during the base period."

WARD SALES DIP 15.7% IN AUGUST; BUTLER HAS GAIN

August sales were $48,740,667, compared with year ago volume of $57,803,245. The total for the seven months ended Aug. 31 was $341,928,375, against $355,892,839, a decrease of 3.92 per cent.

Butler Brothers had August sales of $11,601,944, compared with $11,456,583 a year ago, a gain of 1.27 per cent. Sales for the first eight months were $75,521,857, a gain of 19.75 per cent.

EGG FUTURES DIP IN BIGGEST SALE SINCE LATE APRIL

In the largest trading volume since late April, egg futures fell .15 to .20 cent a dozen yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange to new lows for the last four weeks. The October delivery sold off as much as .30 cent before buying developed and reduced losses, the market closing at 34.9 cents.

Unseasonably heavy supplies arriving on the wholesale market that was unsettled by the approach of a three-day holiday caused much of the early pressure, brokers said. Egg futures transfers totaled 153 cars.

Butter futures, bolstered by a firming local wholesale market, closed .05 to .10 cent higher.

Guffey Pushes Both Sales and Pay Roll Taxes

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—A proposal to couple a 5 per cent retail sales tax with a 5 per cent pay roll levy to raise 5 billion 360 million dollars of additional revenue annually was advanced tonight by Sen. Joseph F. Guffey [D., Pa.], after the senate finance committee delayed action until next week on tax schedules to be set for individuals in the new revenue bill.

Sen. Guffey said he planned to force a showdown at the next meeting of the committee Tuesday on adopting a sales tax instead of a treasury proposal for stiff levies on individual expenditures. Chairman Walter F. George [D., Ga.] said he expected a vote on the question Tuesday.

Guffey's plan to place a flat 5 per cent tax on pay rolls is calculated to yield 3 billion 60 million dollars annually. He figured that a 5 per cent sales tax on "everything except rent" would bring in an additional 2 billion 300 million.

Danaher Submits Plan.

The spending tax proposal found little sympathy among finance committee members. They discussed at length during the day a program by Sen. John A. Danaher [R., Conn], to collect about 4 billion annually with a 10 per cent stamp levy on retail sales.

Under this plan, the individual taxpayer would be given certain specified exemptions. For evry dollar purchased over that amount, he would have to buy a 10 cent stamp. When $25 worth of these stamps had been collected, he could exchange them for a government bond which he could use in paying his income tax or hold until after the war for cash.

Treasury representatives were reported to have objected that this would yield no new revenue, but merely would provide for advance collection of regular income taxes and for postwar rebates. They were said to have argued also that a "black market" for the sale of stamps at less than their face value would probably develop.

Declare Levy Feasible.

Congressional experts told the committee, however, that a 5 per cent retail sales levy would be feasible and would raise approximately 2½ billion annually.

The committee eased the regulations under which a corporation may make tax free contributions to an employés pension trust, and adopted rates previously approved by the house for the capital gains tax.

Under existing law, 70 per cent of a firm's employés must participate in a pension plan before the employer can make a tax free contribution to the trust's reserve fund. The committee voted to allow the contributions if 56 per cent of the employés were covered.

SEC SETS DATES FOR TWO HOLDING FIRMS' HEARINGS

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 4 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission today set Sept. 29 for reconvening a hearing to determine whether the United Gas Improvement company may retain its interest in Public Service Corporation of New Jersey under the holding company act.

The Third Circuit Court of Appeals last month upheld the SEC contention that Public Service was a subsidiary of UGI and its parent, United corporation.

The SEC also extended until Oct. 15 a hearing on "death sentence" proceedings under the holding company act against Niagara Hudson Power corporation and six subsidiaries. It extended from Sept. 15 to Oct. 1 the time for filing answers. The original hearing date set in the SEC order of Aug. 28 was Oct. 1.

BOARD OF TRADE PROPOSES HIGHER SOY BEAN PARITY

The Chicago Board of Trade proposed yesterday that the department of agriculture use a new method for determining the parity price of soy beans. In a letter signed by Fred H. Clutton, secretary, it recommended that the base price for determining parity be fixed at $1.184 a bushel.

If the 152 per cent increase in corn prices as of Aug. 15 from their base price be applied to soy beans, it said, the Aug. 15 parity price for the beans would be $1.80 a bushel, instead of $1.44 as reported by the department.

The government has announced that the price of soy beans this year, as governed by its marketing program, will be about $1.60 a bushel.

NEED FOR SCRAP URGENT, STEEL MAKERS REPORT

Inland Mills on Hand to Mouth Basis.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Steel industry officials yesterday emphasized the urgent need for larger supplies of steel and iron scrap to produce the steel necessary to meet the nation's growing war demands. The mills last year consumed 59,216,256 tons of scrap in the production of the record steel output of about 80 million tons. More is required this year.

In the Chicago area alone the approximately 200 furnaces require on the average more than 70 tons a day for each furnace, or a total of more than 14,000 tons a day.

Wilfred Sykes, president of the Inland Steel company, said that Inland is operating on a hand to mouth basis on scrap. Earlier this week it had to close down a couple of furnaces because of the scrap shortage, but with a little more scrap coming in it will reopen one today. The other is being repaired.

Dealers to Pass Up Holiday.

Inland, he said, has induced some 75 scrap dealers to keep their yards open over the three day Labor day week-end and to keep scrap moving out. Had these yards been closed, he said more furnaces would have had to close later next week.

The Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, an organization of scrap dealers, is requesting its members to work over the Labor day holiday.

W. L. McFetridge, salvage director of the Office of Civilian Defense for the Chicago metropolitan area, has organized a drive using WPA workers to bring in scrap.

"The only answer to the steel production problem caused by the decline in scrap stocks," Sykes said, "is the production of more metal from the iron ore coming out of the ground. In our own case when we get new blast furnaces into operation our position will be substantially better. We expect to have a furnace we are building in operation in November and hope to have two others we will run for the government in operation next spring."

Average Ratio Half and Half.

On the average the mills use about half scrap and half pig iron from blast furnaces in the open hearth furnaces which make the steel. The proportion of iron to scrap used varies with different mills and with the type of steel being produced.

The advantage of using scrap is that, already having been refined into steel, it does not contain the impurities of iron. Consequently less time is required in converting it into steel and its use also conserves the other materials employed.

Scrap collection drives have been organized and sponsored by various governmental and private agencies. One of the most successful so far was that of the International Harvester company, Chicago, which organized a campaign thru its dealers which brought in 1,300,000 tons, much of it worn out farm equipment.

WPA Bringing in Scrap.

Indicating the growing awareness of the need for scrap, a post of the American Legion at Gary is bringing in five or six World war cannon in parks—cherished souvenirs of the Legionnaires—to go into the furnaces of the Gary works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation.

Meantime, the steel companies are bringing down all the iron ore they can from the ore fields of Minnesota and Michigan before Great Lakes navigation closes for the season.

It is difficult for iron ore to be transported during the winter. The ore averages about 12 per cent moisture and in intense cold freezes solidly. Steel men say it is virtually impossible to get the ore out of freight cars when frozen.

Producer Milk Price Up in Chicago Area in August

Producer prices for milk in the Chicago federal marketing area continued to increase thru August in all classifications, A. W. Colebank, acting market administrator, announced yesterday. The increase amounted to 16½ cents per hundredweight [46.5 quarts] in classes 1, 2, and 3, and 13.8 cents in class 4. Prices handlers must pay producers for August deliveries are: Class 1, $2.67 per hundredweight; class 2, $2.29; class 3, $1.97, and class 4, $2.13.

Guards Bulky War Freight

Lumber Buying Consolidated; Ceiling Is Set

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—The army, navy, and maritime commission today consolidated all their lumber purchases in one agency to eliminate confusing competition for a scarce material.

The construction division in the office of the chief of army engineers will procure all lumber for the army, navy, and commission, amounting to well over 50 per cent of all lumber produced in this country.

Meanwhile, Price Administrator Leon Henderson established a dollars-and-cents price ceiling, effective Sept. 10, on sales of soft wood lumber from distribution yards, including such important industrial lumbers as southern pine, western pine, Douglas fir, and hemlock. This was the first lumber schedule dealing with shipments from distribution yards, all previous specific regulations having affected only sales where shipment originated at mills.

After Sept. 10 each individual seller will determine his maximum price according to the sum of several charges and additions. The OPA said the ceiling price would be the sum of:

1. The f. o. b. mill maximum price for the lumber as determined by the specific regulation governing the mill price.

2. Inbound freight to the distribution yard as calculated on the basis of a detailed table contained in the regulation.

3. Handling charges of: [A] $5 per thousand feet for lumber, [B] 30 cents per square for shingles, [C] 60 cents per hundred pieces of lath.

4. A mark-up of 10 per cent of the total on these items.

ORDNANCE PLANT AT ST. LOUIS HIT BY COPPER LACK

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 4 (AP).—The St. Louis ordnance plant, operated for the government by a subsidiary of the Western Cartridge company, will curtail production of small arms ammunition, beginning next week, "due to material shortages," the government announced today.

The plant will continue to employ three shifts but will operate only six days a week instead of seven, with the result that between 3,000 and 4,000 persons will be laid off, it was learned.

As soon as the announcement was made the CIO United Electrical Workers' union sent a protest to Donald Nelson, WPB chairman, demanding reopening of the plant to its full capacity and establishment of a joint labor-management committee to supervise production.

The WPB in Washington last night said some small arms ammunition plants had been directed to reduce operations because copper could be used more advantageously at this time for other types of munitions.

Accounting Suit Against Celanese Corp. Dismissed

'Porcupine Car'

The New York Central has given the name "porcupine car" to this weird piece of railroad equipment. It is a product of the war, used to check clearances of tunnels and bridges thru or over which bulky war freight passes. The 112 feelers, made of oak, swivel backward and hold their deflected position for measurement.

Measurement of top clearances is made by a steel pantograph which is connected to a smaller one within the car. The latter records the readings.

First All-Fiber Oil Container Placed in Use

Chicago motorists within a week or 10 days will be able to purchase their motor oil in an all-fiber, plastic-lined container made of nonessential and readily available materials, Frank Russell, Chicago manager of the Macmillan Petroleum corporation, announced yesterday.

No more metal cans will be available for the packaging of lubricating oils after Sept. 30 because of unavailability of tin.

Announced early this week by Raymond S. Macmillan, Los Angeles, Cal., president of the company, the container is said to be the first of its kind to be impervious to oil.

Russell said a carload of the new containers filled with motor oil is being shipped to Chicago and will be on sale in about 1,000 stations selling the company's products here. The circumference of the containers is smaller than the tin oil can, enabling women filling station operators to handle them more easily.

The new container is produced by direct processing of corn and other grains, flaxseed, tallow, animal tissues, bone, and clay, Macmillan said. The basic fiber is made from straw and waste paper. The result of five years of research, the container will be made available to the oil industry, said Macmillan.

RATIONING OF GAS IN WEST WON'T AID EAST: DAVIES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—The petroleum coördinator's office does not believe that gasoline rationing in the middle west is the best way to relieve the shortage in the east, Deputy Coördinator Ralph K. Davies declared in a letter released today by Sen. David I. Walsh [D., Mass.].

"The position of this office," Davies wrote, "is and has constantly been that there is no point in rationing anything unless [A] supplies are short and need to be equitably distributed, or [B] the rationing will help relieve a shortage elsewhere."

Davies said the OPC believed instead that "the logical course was to withdraw from the unrationed areas all of the tank cars and other transportation facilities which could possibly be placed in the east coast service, regardless of what effect this might have upon those other areas."

"If rationing were invoked tomorrow there is no reason to believe that it would produce any more tank cars," he added.

WICKWIRE STEEL SALE ASKED BY STOCKHOLDERS

New York, Sept. 4 (AP).—Stockholders of Wickwire Spencer Steel company today were asked to sign proxies approving sale of the company's stock at $19 cash or more a share. A stockholders' committee headed by Joseph W. Murray of Holyoke, Mass., sent the proxies and proposed that stockholders call a special meeting to vote for the removal of the present 10 directors and elect five to the board who would negotiate for the sale of the company.

The committee did not intimate who the prospective purchaser might be, but it was recalled that last year Republic Steel corporation offered $10,698,131 cash for assets of Wickwire—equivalent to about $16 a share. The management rejected the offer.

WAR CONTRACT LAW 'DANGER' TO PROFIT SHARING

Manufacturers Hit Uncertainties.

War contractors must pay dividends "blindly," if at all, and profit sharing systems are jeopardized as a result of the law subjecting war contracts to reëxamination and renegotiation, the Illinois Manufacturers association asserted yesterday. The law became effective April 28.

The association said a contractor's prices are subject to reduction purely on the basis of the opinion of federal authorities as to whether the producer is making too large a profit. It directed attention to the provision that present or past contracts can be revised and prices reduced any time during the war and for three years after the war ends.

Accuracy "Impossible."

"With this law in force, companies engaged in the production of war goods must defer final calculation of income or profits until three years after the war is ended," the association said. "It is impossible accurately or finally to compute income or profits.

"Dividend payments must be made blindly, if at all. Companies may declare dividends and then find, months or years later, after the contracts have been renegotiated, that profits did not warrant those dividends.

"Profit sharing systems are jeopardized. Excessive profits, if any, could be recovered by the government without this law thru the excess profits tax law."

Profit Sharing Endangered.

The danger to profit sharing systems arises, manufacturers have reported, from the uncertainty as to prices and profits which the renegotiation law has created. Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company recently announced its intention to abandon its profit sharing system, one of the most widely known in the country, because of the uncertainty caused by the renegotiatior law and rising taxes.

James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois association, issued the statement yesterday, in which he said also that the measure is unnecessary and unworkable, and that it will slow up war production.

A similar attack on the law was made earlier this week by John B. Hawley Jr., president of the Northern Pump company, Minneapolis, largest private producer of naval ordnance machinery in the nation. Hawley charged that the law has destroyed faith in government contracts.

Past contracts, even those made on a competitive bid and fixed charge basis, are subject to renegotiation, unless they were completed and paid for prior to the effective date of the law.

Maysville, Ky., Sept. 4 (AP).—The H. E. Pogue Distillery company here was sold today to a group of Chicago capitalists headed by John F. Ryan for an amount in excess of a million dollars. Ryan is in Washington conferring with federal officials regarding manufacture of alcohol for war purposes.

'DAY by DAY on the FARM' by GAIL COMPTON

Rain Hard on Garden.

Sept. 4, 1942.

TOO much rain has turned the soil in the war garden to gumbo and slowed the work of cultivating the rows. The heavy winds accompanying have beaten down the heavily laden tomato vines and bent the young stalks of corn.

The corn probably will come back, but the tomatoes are so thick with fruit they cannot remain up without the aid of stakes and heavy twine. Even with this help the tomatoes sag and rest and rot on the ground.

On one vine the gardener counted more than 40 fruits. The crop of tomatoes has been large this year and is ripening faster than the farm wives can eat or can it.

Cabbages Do Well.

The rows of cabbages have turned out much better than expected. In four rows there are more than 100 heads ready to pick.

A few of the large potatoes were dug up to check on their progress. They are coming along rapidly and are about an inch and a half across. If the wet ground does not cause them to rot, there will be a good crop this fall.

The gardener has finished the last of his late plantings with the seeding of a row of turnips and parsnips. Whether these will mature before frost is a question, as it is late to make any planting of this type. However, the gardener is interested in experimenting to see what he will get.

The crows, blackbirds, and squirrels have been raiding the sweet corn whenever the gardener leaves the vegetable plot. The birds also have been attacking some of the more remote spots in the field corn, pecking at the tender kernels and worrying the leaves. Some of the squirrels seem to have an excellent knowledge of how to strip the husk from an ear, for in some spots it looks as if a professional husker had gone to work. The birds seem to prefer drilling their way thru the husks.

Wage War on Gophers.

Still bent on eradicating the gophers that have been raising havoc in the vegetables, the gardener has been baiting his rat traps regularly.

Crickets and beetles carry off the corn bait from the traps as fast as the gardener can put it on. Despite this he manages to catch a gopher almost every day. Recently one walked by accident into one of the traps that wasn't baited. It was the biggest gopher caught so far.
